INTRODUCTION

Collectibles and other issues crafted by The Franklin Mint in 1979 were concentrated primarily in porcelain collectibles, jewelry, and home furnishings such as prints and lithographs, sculpture, furniture and records. Coins, medallic issues and ingots were also issued, but to a lesser extent than in previous years.

NEW SECTIONS:

There are 34 sections in this edition of the Guidebook, two more than last year. A new section, "Necklaces, Earrings and Lockets", brings together these items in one place; they were formerly included in the "Other Jewelry" section. In another attempt to group items of a similar nature together, the section "Philatelic Commemorative Covers, Presentation Cards and Metallic Stamps" was instituted. The non-metallic issues in this section were formerly listed in the "Philatelic Covers" section, which has been retitled "Philatelic First Day Covers". The Metallic Stamps were scattered throughout the "Additional Products" section in the 1979 Guidebook.

More than 150 new individual issues and series were produced by the mint in 1979. Those which began in previous years and continued through 1979 have been updated. In total, there are more than 20,000 issues listed in this Guidebook. Even with this vast output, we have been able to reduce the size of the Guidebook through a complete redesign. Although the type size and illustrations have been slightly reduced, you will be able to locate any item desired quicker and easier through the "Section Contents" listing which precedes the detailed table of contents. This will enable you to go to one of the 34 sections directly, without referring to the table of contents, or the index. Since we are now using a three column format, with more series per page, the number of pages that have to be searched for a particular item is quite small.

A WORD ABOUT MARKET VALUE. . .

As in previous years, this Guidebook includes market values for most individual issues that are over one year old and complete sets which have been complete for at least one year. The low/high range, begun some years ago, is continued in this issue. The current market value may be any price between these two values.

Traditionally, The Franklin Mint has not advocated buying collectibles for immediate investment return and their position today remains the same. They hold that their works — including those created in silver and gold — should be valued primarily as works of art.

There is much sense in this. No collector would dream of valuing, say, a Cellini salt-cellar solely on the basis of its gold content — no matter what price bullion might be fetching on the market. For the ultimate value of a true work of art is dependent upon many things — including the genius of artist, and the esteem with which he is likely to be held by future generations. To dispose of art — or acquire it — without taking these factors into account, would be extremely shortsighted.

It is true, however, that in the past year the prices of precious metals have been fluctuating dramatically. So in recognition of this we are providing figures on the precious metal content in troy ounces of most medals and ingots. Using these figures, you can compute the bullion value of these items, using daily price quotations from a newspaper.

The serious collector, and art lover, does not have the slightest intention of parting with his collection. In fact, he probably intends to pass it on to future generations, or as many collectors have done, display them in the home, or donate them to a museum or favorite charity. For those with an eye to the future, the current market value, or current bullion value, of a collection is not very meaningful. After all, any art historian will testify that the current value of a work, especially of a recent work, has little to do with its artistic, historical or long term value. The history of painting and sculpture is replete with examples of artists who died in poverty, and whose works are now well beyond the average collector. Great art collections were not built with an eye to the investment potential of an artist or work, but because the collector enjoyed the particular art work.

BUYING FRANKLIN MINT ISSUES

Most Franklin Mint collectibles are available directly only from the mint by direct mail. If you are not on the Mint's mailing list, write to the Collector Services Department and have them place your name on this list. The Mint has also opened two retail stores which features a variety of luxury, leisure and home decor products. One is located in the White Flint Mall in North Bethesda, Maryland, a suburb of Washington, D.C. The second store is in the Fairlane Town Center, Dearborn, Michigan a suburb of Detroit. Several more stores will be opening in the near future in locations throughout the country.

The Franklin Mint Collectors Society publishes a monthly magazine, The Franklin Mint Almanac, and offers the exclusive opportunity to purchase many new issues. There is also a very attractive insurance program available for Members, and travel programs with fellow collectors. Membership in The Franklin Mint Gold Coin Club guarantees that you will receive information regarding all gold coins issued by the mint. The Collector Relations Department of the mint will provide information on these programs.

SELLING FRANKLIN MINT ISSUES

The wide fluctuations in the metals markets worldwide has had a very serious effect on collectors and collecting. Many people have sold coins, medals and other items crafted of precious metal for melting. It is alarming to think that many of these irreplaceable items will never be seen again. If you must sell, the best method is to advertise your collections in the "For Sale" section of hobby publications. Krause Publications issues a number of fine publications in the Numismatic, Car and Western fields. If you sell through some retailers and dealers, you will, of course, not receive the current market value listed in this Guidebook. Like any other businessman the coin dealer is concerned with making a profit. The amounts they pay will vary from one to another. The Closed Editions Department of the mint occasionally searches for specific collections requested by a customer. To satisfy these requests, they sometimes purchase collections from previous owners. Major auction houses, like Sotheby Parke Bernet, Christies and Phillips charge a sales commission of 10 per cent and may be interested in handling your collectibles.

The Editors welcomes correspondence from Guidebook users concerning actual purchases and sales transactions, so that they can be used as a guide to market values in the next edition of this Guidebook which will be issued in 1981.

THE EDITOR

Chester L. Krause:

Distinguished numismatic publisher and editor. Chester Krause pioneered the publication of a newspaper in the numismatic field when he introduced Numismatic News as a monthly tabloid in 1952. The hobby's first-ever newspaper is now a weekly enjoying a circulation of over 58,000. A world traveler in search of news and features in the numismatic field, he has visited many numismatically important countries in the past 15 years. Generally recognized as a top authority in the coin and paper money fields, he is well known in the nation's capital, where his influence and reputation in government circles have benefited the hobby through the adoption of more practical governmental policies. He was influential in the 1968 restoration of mintmarks to United States coins, and in the 1973 and 1974 relaxation and ending of gold import restrictions.

Mr. Krause has continued his pioneering efforts in other publishing ventures. He began COINS magazine (monthly circulation 103,000) in 1961; Coin Prices in 1967; Old Cars in 1971; World Coin News in 1974 — all healthy and growing. He introduced and coedited a number of standard numismatic reference books, including The Standard Catalog of World Coins in 1972; and the Guidebook of Franklin Mint Issues in 1974. He also publishes other books and periodicals on a variety of hobby subjects.

KRAUSE PUBLICATIONS

Krause Publications is a corporation whose inception dates to the October 1952 inauguration of Numismatic News. Through the years its operations broadened in scope to the point that it is now an organization of more than 90 people producing six periodicals and four major catalogs for coin collectors, plus three periodicals for old car enthusiasts, serving over 400,000 hobbyists.

NUMISMATIC NEWS

The cornerstone of Krause Pubications, Numismatic News was first released as a monthly tabloid format newspaper under the date Oct. 13, 1952. It was primarily a shoppers guide type publications in the beginning. It has been a weekly since January 1969, and is aimed at serving the broad interest of the U.S. coin collecting fraternity. Its present circulation is over 58,000, and is priced at $13.50 per year.

WORLD COIN NEWS

The newest Krause Publications periodical, World Coin News was launched as a quarterly tabloid newspaper in February 1974. It has been published on a weekly frequency since May 1976. World Coin News is a specialized publication which appeals to collectors of world coins. It enjoys a current weekly circulation of approximately 13,000. Subscription price: $13.50 per year.

OLD CARS

Entry into a new non-numismatic publishing field was gained with the publication of the first issue of this tabloid newspaper, Old Cars, in September 1971. Identified throughout the country as the news and marketplace for the old car hobby, Old Cars was launched as a monthly, switched to a twice monthly frequency in July 1973, upgraded to an every other week schedule in January 1975 and became a weekly in February 1978. Old Cars circulation is now over 88,000. Subscription price: $15.00 per year.

COIN MAGAZINE

Coins has been a member of the Krause coin periodical family since October 1961. Published monthly, it has been appearing under the Coins label since January 1962. Designed as a general interest feature magazine, Coins' primary circulation has always been on the nation's newsstands. The monthly newsstand distribution is 72,000. Over 31,000 additional copies are distributed to regular subscribers and, secondarily, through coin shop sales. Subscription price: $11.00 per year.

COIN PRICES

Appearing six times a year on an every other month frequency, Coin Prices is the only standard guide to current values for all U.S. coins published in magazine form. First released in the fall of 1967 and initially published as a quarterly, it has been appearing every other month since July 1969. The current per issue distribution includes over 90,000 copies on newsstands, more than 15,000 to subscribers and over 9,000 sales through coin shops. Subscription price: $7.50 per year.

STANDARD CATALOG OF WORLD COINS

Currently in its seventh edition, which was released in 1980, this work has been dubbed the "telephone book" of coin collecting. It chronicles the date by date histories of the coinages of more than 1,300 coin issuing countries, states, provinces, and cities, with coverage beginning in the 1760s. A 2016 page volume, it features over 39,000 photographs and 79,000 coins listed by date, complete with valuations in several grades of preservation. Compiled internally, with the assistance of more than 500 outside contributors, it is priced at $29.50.

STANDARD CATALOG OF WORLD PAPER MONEY

Companion volume to the Standard Catalog of World Coins, this work provides similar coverage of world paper money issues from 1794 to the present. Another massive volume, it numbers 1088 pages, featuring over 7,000 original photographs and 26,000 note listings complete with valuations. Authored by Albert Pick of Munich, West Germany, this book represents a cooperative publishing venture with Battenberg Verlag of Munich. The present edition hard bound was published in 1980. Priced at $35.00.

STANDARD GUIDE TO U.S. COIN AND PAPER MONEY VALUATIONS

This pocketbook was first unveiled in 1976 as a product for distribution on the nation's newsstand. Presenting both retail and wholesale coin valuations, the 196 page handbook provides all the essential information required to intelligently buy or sell U.S. coins and paper money. It is aimed primarily at fulfilling the needs of beginning, novice and occasional collectors, providing reliable side by side price information. Available at $1.95 per issue.

OTHER BOOKS AND PERIODICALS

From time to time over the past 17 years the Krause family has included several other periodicals and several dozen book titles. Recent releases include The Standard Catalog of Mexican Coins, Paper Money and Medals and Best of Old Cars. KP also publishes The Old Cars Price Guide,Car Exchange, Bank Note Reporter and Coins Questions and Answers.

HOW TO USE THIS CATALOG

Each guidebook listing provides users with complete data on size, composition, finish, year of issue, edition, issue price and the market values at the time of publication.

Listings are designed to provide all essential information on each issue in one place and in readily understandable terms. In addition, all issues are indexed alphabetically by series or category and title.

Beneath the heading for each specimen or series there is a catalog code. These codes, along with the file number, are internal references for the publishers use only.

CONDITION

Most catalogs of coins and medals give valuation for specimens in several grades of condition. However, since Franklin Mint medallic issues are not generally used as exchange media, they are not likely to be found in worn condition. Therefore, only the original condition or quality has been considered in this guidebook. In a few cases, certain promotional issues, transportation tokens and gaming tokens which did circulate are assigned a lower value than specimens of original quality.

MINTMARK

The Franklin Mint mintmark appears on each issue produced by the Mint.

EDGEMARKING AND HALLMARKING

Until 1968, most medals and tokens struck at The Franklin Mint had either plain or reeded edges. Commemorative society issues, certain series and individual specimens struck in limited edition, also included serial numbers. The first edition of The Franklin Mint Version of The Thomason Medallic Bible, issued during 1967-69, was also edge lettered with the title of the series, the metal content and the quality. Most gaming tokens struck by the Franklin Mint during 1965-69 used distinctive edge patterns of alternating blank and reeded segments.

On January 15, 1968 The Franklin Mint began hallmarking its proof quality medals. This method of attesting quality and integrity originated in 14th century England, when the London Guild of Goldsmiths first tested and marked objects made of precious metals as an assurance of their purity. The basic style of hallmark used on proof quality Franklin Mint medals struck in precious metal with a serial number is:

STERLING [mint] [68] [P] 0045

A proof-like medal with edgemarking can be readily distinguished from a proof by the fact that it lacks the [P] of the proof hallmark.

In 1973, The Franklin Mint edgemarking was further refined, so that all markings were uniform. Proof specimens of Franklin Mint medals bear a hallmark similar to the following:

STERLING (C) [mint] [75] [P]

The elements of this hallmark include the metal content, copyright symbol, mintmark, year of issue and [P] signifying proof of status. If a serial number is included, it is separated from the remainder of the hallmark by a blank space. In some instances, the title of the series or other identification may also appear on the edge. The material mark will vary, of course, depending upon the metal content. Some medals and ingots may also include the weight in grains.

Proof-like and mint quality medals usually bear edge-markings but lack the [P] found on the hallmark proof edition. Coin of the Realm does not bear edge-markings but has plain or reeded edges normal to these specimens.

COIN OF THE REALM

This section includes official monetary coins struck by The Franklin Mint under authorization of various foreign governments. Coin of the realm issues often depict — or commemorate — people, places and events from the issuing country's history. Native vegetation and wildlife are also frequently portrayed. Generally, proof coins are struck for distribution to collectors, while non-proof coins are meant to circulate within the issuing country. In many cases, specimen sets of non-proof coins are also made available to collectors.

BAHAMAS

CAT. CODE: BHC

Each year since 1970, 9-coin proof sets and 9-coin uncirculated specimen sets have been made available. Since 1971, the $2 coin has been issued separately to mark Flamingo Day. Since 1973, the $10 coin has been issued separately to commemorate the Bahamas' independence on July 10, 1973 and its annual anniversary. The $5 coin has also been issued separately.

A number of design changes have taken place on the obverse of the coins. In 1970, the portrait of Queen Elizabeth II appeared with the inscription "Bahamas Islands". In 1971, to denote its commonwealth status, the inscription was changed to "Commonwealth of the Bahamas Islands". The 1972 and 1973 obverse coinage designs were identical to 1971.

The 1974 coinage was the first set of coinage issued by the Bahamas as an independent sovereign nation. In celebration, all 9 of the coins minted for circulation were redesigned. The "year" which had appeared on the reverse was relocated to the obverse beneath the Bahamas coat of arms. The lettering of the denomination on the reverses was also changed. The coat of arms replaced the coinage portrait of the Queen. Coinage issued since 1974 have the same designs.

The Bahamas became an independent nation on July 10, 1973. To commemorate the event, a sterling silver $10 coin and a $50 gold coin was issued. Because of the ban on gold ownership then in effect, U.S. citizens were not able to buy the gold coin. The coin was struck by John Pinches Ltd. of London, The Franklin Mint's British affiliate and was sold almost entirely in England, Canada and the Bahamas.

BARBADOS

CAT. CODE: BRC

In 1973, Barbados issued its first national coinage in its 350-year history. The obverse of each of the 8 coins bear designs evoking historic landmarks and traditional symbols of Barbados. The obverse designs have remained unchanged since 1973. All of the coins have been designed and sculptured by the distinguished British artist Philip Nathan.

The obverse of each coin portrays the Barbados Coat of Arms and the year. In commemoration of the 10th anniversary of Barbados' independence, the 1976 coinage bears the anniversary dates 1966-1976 at the sides of the Coat of Arms. In addition, the $10 coin bears the word "Independence" above the Coat of Arms.

Each year 8-coin proof sets and 8-coin uncirculated specimen sets have been made available. Since 1974, individual sterling silver proofs of the $10 coin have also been available. A $100 gold coin was issued in 1975, and a $25 silver coin was issued in 1978.

BELIZE

CATALOG NO.

In 1974, for the first time in its history, Belize (the Central American nation which was formerly known as British Honduras) issued its all-new national coinage. To honor this occasion, a special collector's proof set was issued in which each of the 8 coins in the set was minted in sterling silver. This special collector's proof set has been issued each year since 1974. In addition, 8-coin proof sets without silver, and 8-coin uncirculated specimen sets, without silver, have been issued each year since 1974. Michael Rizzello, one of the world's most renowned coin sculptors, created the portrayals of the tropical birds of Belize appearing on the face of each coin. The National Coat of Arms appears on the obverse of each coin.

The coins issued after 1974 differ from the 1974 issues in 2 significant respects: (1) the 5 post-1974 coins ranging in value from 1¢ to 50¢ show the denomination in Arabic numerals, rather than in words only; and (2) the post-1974 1¢ coin has scalloped edges, whereas the 1974 1¢ coin was round.

A $100 gold coin has been issued annually since 1975. The $250 gold coin was issued only in 1978.

The coinage portrait of Queen Elizabeth II, sculptured by Arnold Machin, appears on the obverse of each coin. The reverse designs sculptured by Gilroy Roberts, portray the fascinating birds of the Islands. In 1977, a special 6-piece all sterling silver proof set commemorating the 25th anniversary of the reign of H.M. Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain was issued. This Royal Silver Jubilee proof set had the same reverse and obverse designs as the traditional proof set. The obverse bears a special inscription including the words "Silver Jubilee."

COOK ISLANDS

CAT. CODE: CIC

The Cook Islands lie approximately 1,600 miles northeast of New Zealand. Discovered 200 years ago by Captain James Cook, placed under British protection in 1888, and subsequently affiliated with New Zealand, the Islands have been self-governing, with respect to internal affairs, since 1965.

The mint began producing Cook Islands coinage in 1975. The designs appearing on the reverse of the coins depict the exotic vegetation and wildlife of the Islands. The reverse designs for the 1¢ through $1.00 coins have remained unchanged since 1975. In 1979, the 10¢ and 50¢ coins bear the legend 'FAO' in tribute to the U.N. Food & Agriculture Organization. James Berry sculptured all of these designs. The official coinage portrait of H.M. Queen Elizabeth sculptured by Arnold Machin, appears on the obverse of each coin.

In 1975, 7-coin proof, and brilliant uncirculated specimen sets were made available. The 5-dollar coin was introduced in 1976, and since that time, 8-coin proof sets have been issued. The 5-dollar coin was also made available in a First Day Cover, and is listed in the Monetary Covers section of this Guidebook. A 25-dollar sterling silver coin was first issued in 1977. The 100-dollar gold coin was issued from 1975 through 1977, and in 1979. In 1978, two gold coins were issued in the 200-dollar and 250-dollar denominations.

The discovery of Hawaii 200 years ago by world explorer Captain James Cook is the basis for the issuance of Cook Islands first 200-dollar gold coin in 1978.

The reverse portrays Captain Cook wading ashore with two sailors, a small boat and his sea vessel, the Resolution, pictured in the background. The obverse features the Arnold Machin bust of Queen Elizabeth II. This coin was issued in a Monetary First Day cover.

The 1979 200-dollar coin was created as a tribute to Captain Cook's discoveries and scientific cataloguing of Pacific flora and fauna. The 1975 $100 gold coin was issued to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the completion of Captain James Cook's voyage of discovery to the Cook Islands in the South Pacific. The reverse depicts Captain Cook's ship Resolution along with portraits of Captain Cook himself and his monarch, King George III of Great Britain. The 1976 coin depicts Benjamin Franklin and Captain James Cook and was issued in honor of America's Bicentennial. This is the first gold coin ever to bear a portrait of Benjamin Franklin. The coin's design was inspired by a wartime drama involving the return of Captain Cook's ship, the Resolution, from Cook's final voyage of discovery that concluded at the height of the American Revolution. Franklin personally guaranteed the ship's safe passage, by addressing a letter to all American ship commanders.

The 1977 coin commemorates the 25th anniversary of H.M. Queen Elizabeth's reign. The design features Her Majesty's Royal Cipher. The legend "1952-1977 25 YEARS" appears above the Cipher, and the word "JUBILEE" is shown below it. Portrayed on either side are blossoms of the exotic Hibiscus and Frangipani flowers that grow in profusion throughout the Islands. The 1977 coin was also issued in a monetary First Day Cover. The mask of the supreme God of the early Cook Islanders, Tongaroa, appears on the 1979 coin. James Berry has created all of these designs.

Cook Islands National Wildlife Conservation Day was celebrated on November 15, 1976. The Government officially designated this day as a national holiday, in honor of the establishment of a magnificent wildlife sanctuary in the Cook Islands. The sanctuary occupies the entire coral island of Manuae — a paradise for birds, animals and exotic tropical plants and flowers. To honor this important occasion the Government of the Cook Islands authorized the minting of a new denomination 5 dollar coin. A newly designed 5 dollar coin has been issued each year since 1976. Each coin was also issued in a monetary First Day Cover.

ETHIOPIA

CAT. CODE: ETH — File No.: 813

Ethiopia is one of the oldest nations in the history of the world. It was settled a thousand years before the birth of Christ, and has been an independent nation for some 2,000 years. Ethiopian coinage, too, is very old, dating back to the 3rd century A.D. The ancient coins of this land symbolize its beauty and its rich heritage.

In 1977, for the first time in 34 years, the coinage of Ethiopia was completely redesigned. Each of the 5 monetary coins in this new coinage bears a new and different design never used before on any Ethiopian coinage. The National Bank of Ethiopia appointed the mint to strike proofs of the new coinage. Each coin bears a detailed design representing a significant element in the life of the Ethiopian nation. Each bears a legend in Amharic, the language of Ethiopia.

A lion's head, symbolizing the strength, courage and spirit of the Ethiopian people — and the date of issue appear on the obverse. The date is "1969" — 1977 in the Ethiopian calendar. The explanation for this date is that the Ethiopian calendar has a 13-month year, and the Ethiopian people place the time of Christ's birth almost 8 years later than the Christian calendar.

GUYANA

CAT. CODE: GYA

In 1976, the nation of Guyana (formerly British Guiana) celebrated its 10th anniversary of independence. To honor this occasion, the government authorized a redesign of the nation's monetary coins. The coinage includes 8 coins in denominations from 1¢ to $10. The coin denominations from 1¢ to $1, in the 6-coin proof sets, depict the fascinating array of wildlife that inhabit Guyana. The $5 and $10 coins, in the 8-coin proof sets, bear portraits of national heroes. The reverses of all of these coins carry the Guyana Coat of Arms.

The nation's first gold coin was issued in 1976, and again in 1977.

For two centuries, the legend of Eldorado lured brave men, including the conquistadors of Spain, the Elizabethan privateers and the Dutch, into the interior of north-central South America. Many lost their lives, but none of them found El Dorado, the mythical "Golden Man" believed to rule over a hidden empire rich beyond man's wildest dreams. However, the sacrifices of those soldiers of fortune did lead to the exploration of a land subsequently colonized under the name of British Guiana, and known today as Guyana. The 100 Dollar gold coins portray the fabled "Golden Man" of legend. The 1976 coin depicts the Golden Man casting gold upon the water. The 1977 coin celebrates the riches of the nation's fertile soil. It depicts the Golden Man gathering in the golden sheaves.

JAMAICA

CAT. CODE: JMC

The Franklin Mint has struck the official monetary coinage of Jamaica since 1970. In 1970, 6-coin sets (1 cent through 1 dollar) in proof and uncirculated specimens were made available. The 5-dollar coin was introduced in 1971, and 6-coin (without 5-dollar coin) & 7-coin sets in proof and circulated specimens were made available from 1971-1973. In 1974, the 10-dollar commemorative coin was introduced and 8-coin sets in proof and uncirculated specimens were made available in 1974 and 1975. 9-coin sets have been issued each year since 1976. Individual sterling silver proofs of the 10-dollar coin have been made available each year since 1974.

The reverse designs on the 1 cent to 1 dollar coins were unchanged from 1970-1975. The 5-dollar coin, introduced in 1971, carried a full-face portrait of Norman W. Manley, Jamaica's first premier. This was redesigned to a profile portrait in 1972, and remains the same through to the present day. The Sir Henry Morgan 10-dollar coin in 1974 was the first of the annual 10-dollar coins. A new 50-cent coin was introduced in 1976, and a commemorative 20-cent coin in 1977.

The reverse designs on the 1-cent to 25-cent coins, sculptured by Christopher Ironside depict the flora and fauna of Jamaica. Paul Vincze sculptured the design on the 1-dollar coin featuring Sir Alexander Bustamante, Jamaica's First Prime Minister. The Jamaican Coat of Arms which appears on the obverse of each coin, was sculptured by Philip Nathan.

JORDAN

CAT. CODE: JRC — FILE NO. 790

Jordan is one of the oldest and most historic countries in the world. Archaeological investigations at Jericho have established its age as 10,000 years or more. In Biblical times, the present Kingdom of Jordan was divided among four states. In modern times, complete independence was gained in 1946.

On August 11, 1952, H.M. Hussein I ibn Talal was proclaimed King of Jordan at the age of 17. In the years since then, King Hussein led his nation with courage, wisdom and the support and affection of his people. Today, he is one of the most respected leaders in the Middle East.

To honor the 25th Anniversary of his reign in 1977, the Government of Jordan issued a new 25 Dinar Gold Coin. The obverse bears a new portrait of King Hussein, sculpted expressly for this occasion. The reverse bears the official seal of The Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan. This coin was struck in proof finish only, and the entire edition was struck on one day only — August 11, 1977, the exact 25th Anniversary of the reign of King Hussein.

LIBERIA

CAT. CODE: LIB — FILE NO.: 772

On July 26, 1977, Liberian Independence Day, the people of the Republic of Liberia celebrated the 130th anniversary of the birth of their nation: the first and oldest independent republic on the continent of Africa. It is the only African nation to be founded with the aid of the U.S. Government and settled by Africans of American birth.

The particular anniversary is of special significance to the citizens of Liberia, for it coincides with the Bicentennial era of America. Not only is the Liberian Constitution modeled on the American Constitution, but it was America's dedication to the ideals of human freedom that made possible the establishment of the Liberian Republic.

The 1977 100-dollar gold coin commemorates this historic anniversary. It is the first 100-dollar gold coin ever issued by Liberia. It is also the nation's largest gold coin, and the highest denomination coin Liberia has ever issued. And it is the first coin in the nation's history to honor the great statesman Joseph Jenkins Roberts, a Black American, born in Virginia, who was ultimately to become the first President of the Republic of Liberia. This coin was also issued in 1979, with its national animal, the elephant, portrayed. A gold on bronze sculpture was also issued; see Bronze Sculpture section of this guidebook.

The obverse of the coin bears a sculptured portrait of President Roberts. The reverse features the Liberian national crest, which includes the motto, "The Love of Liberty Brought Us Here." It also includes a symbolic representation of the American brig "Elizabeth," known to Liberians as "The Black Mayflower." Eight-coin proof sets were issued in 1978 and 1979. No uncirculated sets were issued.

MALAYSIA

CAT. CODE: MLY — FILE NO.

The Federation of Malaysia is a sovereign and independent member of the Commonwealth of Nations. It is a parliamentary democracy, comprising 13 different states, and is one of the most prosperous countries on the continent of Asia.

In 1976 and again in 1977, the mint made available the 200 Ringgit gold coin. Proofs and Brilliant Uncirculated Specimens were made available to collectors. The obverse of both coins includes the coin's denomination, year of issue, and the national coat of arms. The reverse of the 1976 coin was designed as a symbol of Malaysian unity, and as such honors the 14 official flags of the Federation of Malaysia. It is the world's first 14-sided coin. Also on the reverse of the coin is an original portrait of Tun Abdul Rayak, national hero and a founding father of the Malaysian Federation.

The 1977 coin features the Bajau Horsemen of Malaysia, who are among the most skilled in the entire world. Aristocratic and vigorous, these horsemen are such fine riders that they are known as the "Cowboys of Asia." The horseman is portrayed sitting atop his horse, dressed in the traditional costume of the Bajau "cowboy." The high turban wrapped many times around the head, the long coat buttoned from neck to knee, the jodhpurs tapered, and spear in hand. This coin also commemorates the 9th Southeast Asia Games which was held in Malaysia in 1977. As part of the reverse design, the coin bears the official insignia of the Games, 6 interlinking circles, representing the 6 original founding members of the Games.

In addition to the 200 Ringgit gold coin, the Government issued two other coins as part of its Third Malaysian Plan Commemoratives, a 1 Ringgit and a 10 Ringgit coin in a 3-piece proof set. All of these commemoratives are 14-sided coins. These later two proof coins were minted at The Franklin Mint, and the entire mintage was shipped to Malaysia. The circulation coins for these two commemoratives were struck in Malaysia.

Also, in 1976, in Commemoration of the 25th Anniversary of the Employees Provident Fund, three round coins were issued: the 250 Ringgit, the 1 Ringgit and the 25 Ringgit coins. The entire proof mintage was shipped to Malaysia; the circulation coins were struck in Malaysia. The Government made the proofs available singly, and in sets of 3.

NETHERLANDS ANTILLES

The Netherlands Antilles, also known as the Dutch West Indies, consists of 6 islands — Aruba, Bonaire, Curacao, Saba, St. Eustatius and St. Maarten. The 1976 coins commemorate the Bicentennial of American Independence, and the fact that the Dutch West Indies was the first to formally honor the U.S. flag flying from the American naval vessel, the Andrew Doria, in 1776.

The 1976, 200 Guilder gold coin is the first gold coin ever issued by the Netherlands Antilles. The reverse design portrays the Andrew Doria between two flags — the flag of the Netherlands and the "Grand Union", America's first flag of independence. The obverse of the 1976 and 1977 coins bears the official portrait of H.M. Queen Juliana of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, reflecting the status of the Netherlands Antilles as an autonomous government within the Kingdom.

The 1976 coin was the first gold coin to bear the portrait of Queen Juliana, and the first eight-sided gold coin ever issued by any country outside the U.S. In both 1976 and 1977, a sterling silver 25 Guilder coin bearing the same design as the 200 Guilder gold coin was issued. The sterling silver coin is round rather than octagonal in shape. In 1976, matched sets, combining a proof of the 200 Guilder gold and a proof of the 25 Guilder silver coin, were also made available.

The 1977 gold coin depicts the statue of Peter Stuyvesant, sculptured by the American artist Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, which stands in Willemstad, Curacao Island, the capital of the Netherlands Antilles.

CAT. CODE: PNC — FILE NO.:

Since 1975, 8 and 9-coin proof sets have been made available; the 9-coin sets include the 20 Balboas coin. The 3 highest denominations, the 1, 5, and 20 Balboas coins are minted in sterling silver. The 8- coin proof sets include all denominations from 1 Centesimo to 5 Balboas. In 1975, 8- coin uncirculated specimen sets (without silver) and individual sterling silver proofs of the 20-Balboas coin were made available. In 1976, 2-coin proof sets consisting of the 20 Balboas and 2-1/2 Centesimos coin, and the 1 Balboa proof coin were sold separately. The 1976 uncirculated specimen sets were available only in Panama. The following coins have also been issued: the 100 Balboas gold coin, the 150 Balboas and 200 Balboas platinum coins, and the 500 Balboas gold coin.

The Franklin Mint also struck the 1970 5- Balboas coin commemorating the 11th Central American and Caribbean Games. This was the first sterling silver coin ever issued by Panama, and the first to commemorate these games. Gilroy Roberts sculptured both sides of this coin. In 1979 matched sets of the new 5 & 10 Balboa coins were made available to commemorate the the Panama Canal Treaties.

From 1971-1975, the 20-Balboas sterling silver coin was made available in proof and uncirculated specimens. The reverse portrait of Simon Bolivar was sculptured by Harold Faulkner, and the Panama Coat of Arms on the obverse was sculptured by Gilroy Roberts. In 1971, the reverse bore the inscription "150 Aniversario de La Independencia — Centroamericana". This was changed in 1972 to "Simon Bolivar 1783 - 1830". At the time of its issue, this was the largest coin minted for circulation in the Western hemisphere. A new type of 20 Balboas coin was introduced in 1977.

Simon Bolivar

This is the first platinum circulating coin ever minted in the United States. It is also the first coin in the history of Panama to bear the denomination of 150 Balboas. It was issued to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the first Pan-American Congress, held in Panama City in 1826. In the Summer of 1976, exactly 150 years after the first meeting, representatives of many South American and Central American nations convened in Panama City to reaffirm the principles of inter-American unity established at that first Pan-American Congress.

The reverse design bears a new and original design honoring the leader of the first Pan-American Congress, Simon Bolivar. The coin's obverse carries the official Coat of Arms of the Republic of Panama.

This coin was the first gold coin ever issued by Panama, and it was also the first gold coin ever minted by The Franklin Mint. The coin commemorates the 500th anniversary of the birth of Vasco Nunez de Balboa, the great explorer whose expedition across Panama led to his discovery of the Pacific Ocean.

The 1976 and 1977 coins carry the same reverse portrait of Balboa and the same coat of arms as the 1975 coin. The reverse portrait was sculptured by James Ferrell, the obverse was sculptured by Gilroy Roberts. The reverse of the 1978 coin depicts the national flower of Panama, the dove orchid. La Tortuga de Oro (the golden turtle) was depicted on the 1979 coin, and the Golden Condor appeared on the 1980 issue.

PHILIPPINES

I.S.O. CODE: PHI

The 1975 Philippines coinage proof sets were the first minted for collectors since 1908. The 8 coins bear new designs, paying tribute to great men and women of Philippine history and to the nation's New Society. The new coin denominations (50 Pisos, and 5 Pisos) and 2 new coin shapes (the square 1 Sentimo and the scalloped 5 Sentimos) were introduced for the first time in 1975.

The 25 Piso and 50 Piso coins have been redesigned each year since 1975 to bear special commemorative designs to be used for only one year. Each year 8-coin proof sets have been issued. 2-coin proof sets of the 25 and 50 Piso coins have also been issued. Individual sterling silver proofs of the 50 Piso coin have been made available. The 5000 Pisos coin was issued only in 1977.

SOLOMON ISLANDS

CAT. CODE: SIC — FILE NO.: 825

On October 24, 1977, in the Solomon Islands, 3 events of interest and importance to collectors took place on the same day. These events were in honor of the achievement of nationhood for the Solomon Islands: The government of the Solomon Islands issued the first coinage of the new nation, The government issued the first banknotes of the new nation, and at the same time, the government issued new stamps honoring its first coins and banknotes. These special commemorative stamps bear the "FIRST CURRENCY ISSUE".

To provide a record of these events, the Government issued a First Day of Issue Presentation Set. This set consists of 5 Official Government First Day Covers. One cover contained a proof set of 6 coins, in denomination from 1 cent to 1 dollar. One cover contained a proof of the sterling silver 5-dollar coin. The other 3 covers each contained one of the new banknotes. (A complete description of these latter 3 covers can be found in the Monetary Covers section of this Guidebook.)

Each of these covers bears a new commemorative stamp created for the occasion. And each cover also bears a specially designed, "First Day of Issue" cancellation. Each cover also includes an integral Certificate of Authencity signed by J.G. Fg. Palfrey, Chairman, Solomon Islands Monetary Authority. The complete set was housed in a display album. This is the only set of its kind ever issued by any government in the world.

A 100-dollar gold coin was issued in 1978, and a new 10-dollar sterling silver coin was first issued in 1979, and was included in the 8-coin sets.

TUNISIA

The 10 coins struck for the Republic of Tunisia in 1969 bear designs related to that country's 3,000-year history. Each coin has a legal tender value of 1 Dinar. Proof sets of these coins were first minted in Italy and distributed by Numismatica Italiana through its worldwide network of banks. The Franklin Mint was authorized to strike up to 20,000 sets for American collectors — but actually distributed only 15,202 complete sets. By Tunisian government decree, the worldwide issue of Proof sets containing all ten coins was limited to a maximum of 40,000 complete sets.

MEDALLIC ISSUES

Medals are collected for their beauty, for their historical significance and for their commemorative value. Through medals, great works of art — the fleeting moments of history — people, places and things — are all preserved in miniature. Nowhere else is so much variety available to the numismatist. One may collect in series, by topical subjects or simply what one likes and enjoys. More than any other field of numismatics, a medallic collection reflects the taste, interests and perception of its owner. To that end, the Mint has produced medals of many kinds, enabling a collection to be built in almost any form one may desire.

† – Due to the fluctuating prices of silver and gold, no specific market value can be assigned to ingots in either silver or gold.

AMERICA IN SPACE

CAT. CODE: AIS, ASM (Mini) — FILE NO.: 50, 51a, 111, 253, 663

The original series of 24 medals was minted exclusively for the men and women in the aerospace industry and established Franklin Mint collectors. A distinguished board of advisers, who made space history, chose the subjects to be honored. The face of each medal bears a sculptured design portraying one of the key events in the history of America in space. The reverse briefly relates the history of the event portrayed. In 1973, and again in 1976, additional medals (12 and 24 respectively) were made available to collectors of the first 24 medals. In 1977, a mini-coin collection containing the 60 designs previously minted was made available. A hardwood collector's case fitted with a transparent top was included with each mini-coin collection. Each set of 12 medals contains 9.7 troy ounces.

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL

CAT. CODE: ATB — FILE NO.: 593

Each of the 8 dual-finish medals in this collection was inspired by a single line from the first stanza of 'America the Beautiful'. This is a new medallic form combining the proof finish, consisting of a finely frosted design and a mirror-like background, with the Antique finish, with boldness of design and sharply defined relief. The Antique/Proof medal was created especially for this collection, the first of its kind ever minted anywhere in the world. Each medal is serially numbered, and contains 1,000 grains of sterling silver. The complete set of 8 medals contains 16.6 troy ounces.

AMERICAN HALL OF FAME

CAT. CODE: AHF — FILE NO. 778

The Living History Center was founded in Philadelphia during America's Bicentennial year. Its purpose is to dramatize the great events and people of our nation's history, and to help instill a greater appreciation of America's rich heritage. In keeping with this purpose, the Center established the American Hall of Fame, where 100 of the greatest men and women in America's history are commemorated. This exhibit was dedicated on Independence Day, July 4, 1977. As part of this tribute, the Center authorized the issuance of this official collection of 100 commemorative medals.

Each medal honors one of the great men and women enshrined in the Hall. The original designs were created exclusively for this collection. Each work of art combines a sculptured portrait of the American being honored with a scene symbolizing a major achievement of that person's career. Each subscriber received a custom-designed hardwood collector's chest to house and display the 100 medals. The complete set of 100 medals contains 37.6 troy ounces.

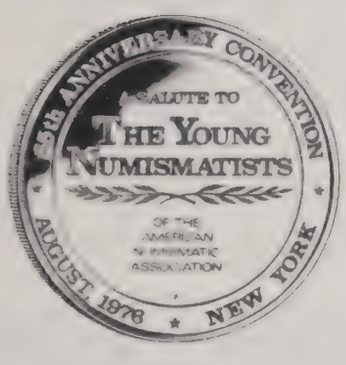
AMERICAN NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

CAT. CODE: ANA

The American Numismatic Association was organized in 1891. Among the objects of this national organization are the encouragement and promotion 'of numismatics by the acquirement and study of coins, paper money, medals and media of exchange'; the cultivation of 'fraternal relations among collectors and students'; and efforts 'to encourage and assist new collectors, and to foster the interest of youth in the subject.' From a small beginning, the American Numismatic Association has grown until it presently has approximately 30,000 members. Annual conventions are held which usually attract an attendance of more than 15,000 collectors. From 1969 through 1977, the mint distributed a special medal to those who attended the annual convention banquet. The Young Numismatists, sponsored by the ANA, has also received the support of the mint.



All medals are Sterling Silver, 39mm, Proof.

Gift to those attending banquet.

A set of 20 medals which depict each of the various stages of the Apollo moon mission were minted in 1970. A total of 4967 sets were issued containing silver that was thought to have been carried around the moon. After learning this to be incorrect, The Franklin Mint requested the subscribers to return their medals for destruction. The replacement medals were struck from a special lot of silver containing metal that was personally carried by the astronauts around the moon. A total of 3698 of the original sets have been returned for replacement. A small horizontal line was added above the mintmark to distinguish the replacement medals from the originals. The complete set of 20 medals contains 9 troy ounces.

EGYPTIAN GOLDEN TREASURES

CAT. CODE GTE — FILE NO. 651

In 1922 the beautiful treasures buried in the tomb of the Pharaoh Tutankhamen more than 3,000 years ago were discovered. In November 1976, at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C., many of these treasures were on special display in a public exhibition — the first in a series of exhibitions held in major art museums throughout the U. S., arranged through the courtesy of the Egyptian Museum, Egypt's national museum. This collection of 36 medals is being issued in tribute to Egypt's ancient art heritage, in connection with the public art exhibition. Each of the 36 medals depicts one of the golden treasures created for the Pharaoh, and these works of art are among the most beautiful and most important of these treasures. The reverse bears the title of the work, together with the symbol of the Egyptian Museum.

An unusual new medallic technique has been employed in the creation of these medals. The process, known as sculpture vignetting, sets 24KT gold against sterling silver. Each of these medals is minted in sterling silver, then the sculptured image is highlighted in 24KT gold. The complete set of 36 medals contains 35 troy ounces.

GOLD OF EL DORADO

CAT. CODE: GED — FILE NO.:

The Museum of Gold in Bogota, Colombia, is the repository of the world's largest and most valuable collection of ancient works of art in gold. These are works created mainly for personal adornment by the great civilizations that flourished in what is now Colombia during the centuries before the arrival of the Spanish. The ancient peoples of Colombia buried their precious works of art in tombs, for they believed that gold preserved the body and ensured immortality.

The Museum issued this collection of 12 fine art medals to pay tribute to this ancient heritage of art in precious metal. The medals depict 12 of the most outstanding of the Museum's gold treasures. To portray these works of art, a special technique developed by the mint was used. The sculpture on each medal is vignetted in 24KT gold so that the subject contrasts with the medal's polished base of sterling silver. Each medal is minted in full proof quality. The Museum Edition is limited, worldwide, to 5,000 proof sets. Each medal is edgemarked with the subscriber's own serial number. The obverse of each medal depicts one of the prized treasures, while the reverse bears the title of the work in Spanish, and the name of the Museum. Each proof set was accompanied by a framed wall plaque. The complete set of 12 medals contains 11.5 troy ounces.

INDIAN CHIEFS OF AMERICA

CAT. CODE: AIC — FILE NO.: 786

The American Indian has always been an indomitable figure. Courageous, stalwart and brave. The inspiration and leadership for his cause has been provided by many of the most heroic figures in all history. Great chiefs and warriors whose names have become legend. Their deeds are a rich and enduring part of American history. In tribute to the great Indian leaders, The American Indian Treaty Council issued this collection of 36 medals, that honors 36 of the greatest American Indian chieftains and warriors.

The designs for these medals were created by the celebrated Indian artist Oren Lyons. He is a recognized authority on Indian lore and history as well as a gifted and distinguished artist. Each of the medals is historically accurate and authentic in every detail, in addition to being an outstanding work of art. The face of each medal bears a detailed sculpture portraying the Indian leader it honors, together with an appropriate design evoking his most significant achievement. The reverse carries his name and that of his tribe, along with a statement of his importance in Indian history. A display album bearing an authentic Indian symbol was also provided.

INDIAN TRIBES

CAT. CODE: ITS — FILE NO.: 270, 384, 453, 605

Each coin-medal in this collection honors the history, culture and people of the tribe it represents and is designed in close cooperation with the appropriate tribal leaders. Arrangements for this series are coordinated with Indian Tribal Series of Phoenix, Arizona, which reserves the first 5,500 specimens for its own subscribers.

For each coin-medal, there is a matching tribal history book written by a distinguished authority of the American Indian. Each book is individually hand-signed by a tribal leader and bears the same matching serial number as the coin-medal. The number of proof—quality coin-medals struck for any one tribe is limited to 15,000 specimens. Of this number, a maximum of 9,500 have been reserved exclusively for established Franklin Mint collectors.

All medals are Pure (.999 fine) Silver, 39mm, Proof.

CAT CODE KQE — FILE NO. 93, 758 (Mint)

The original sculptures were modeled solely and exclusively for this series by two of Britain's finest artists, Michael Rizzello and William Gardner. This collection honors all the rulers who helped shape the British Empire for the last 1,000 years. The face of each sculptured medal bears a distinctive portrait of the monarch honored, while its reverse carries an heraldic design that reflects the personal symbols of that monarch's reign.

In 1970-1974, a 43-medal, 45mm edition was issued. (The 44th medal honoring H.M. Queen Elizabeth II was issued in 1977.) To commemorate Her Majesty's Silver Jubilee, a 44-medal, 13mm miniature edition was issued in 1977. This later edition includes a medal honoring Her Majesty. A collector's album was included with the regular size edition. Subscribers to the miniature edition received a hardwood case, fitted with a transparent top.

KINGS OF FRANCE

CAT CODE KFR — FILE NO. 697

In the year 481, a great warrior named Clovis made history by uniting the French people, for the first time, into one kingdom and under one rule. In so doing, he became the first true King of France. In commemoration of the 1500th anniversary of that first unification, the mint's French affiliate, Le Medaillier of France, is minting a tribute to all the kings of France. This is the first collection of 48 fine art medals ever to commemorate the true and legitimate Kings of France. The 48 monarchs selected represent only those rulers whose right to the crown is unassailable. The collection is being minted in France, under authorization of a special panel consisting of six of France's most distinguished scholars, who are experts of international renown.

The face of each medal bears a distinctive portrait of the French King commemorated, sculptured from the most trusted historical evidence and authenticated by one of the eminent scholars involved in making the selections. The reverse bears a sovereign emblem of the king that medal portrays. A symbol with which he signified his royal will, in his lifetime. This can take the form of his personal coat of arms, his seal, his signature, or some other appropriate element, depending upon the era in which he reigned.

Each subscriber received a custom designed bound album that traces the lineage of the Royal Families of France, with spaces for inserting each medal in its proper historical sequence. A reference folder with each medal provides information on the monarch portrayed, and explains his symbol of sovereignty. These notes are being written especially for this collection by members of the selection panel, with the biographies prepared by historian Andre Castelot, and the heraldic references provided by Jean Metman, President of the Societe Heraldique.

LOVE TOKENS

CAT. CODE: LVT — FILE NO.: 535, 701

In 1976 and again in 1977 the mint issued a love token. The Lover's Knot token issued in 1976, features the endless lover's knot, an ancient symbol of love and fidelity. It is a symbol that has been exchanged between lovers for centuries to express the intertwining of their lives and the unending nature of their love.

The Flower of Love (Fleur d'Amour) token issued in 1977, bears a sculptured flower design, with individual hearts forming the petals of the flower. It expresses both tenderness and passion, since flowers and hearts are among the most ancient symbols of love, The design is especially evocative of the larkspur, in the language of flowers, symbolizes 'An open heart and an ardent attachment.'

Pendants, with the same obverse and reverse designs, were also issued. See the Pendants and Charms section of this Guidebook.

MAYAN TREASURES

CAT. CODE: TOM — FILE NO.

One of the most significant figures in the exploration of the New World was Hernandez de Cordoba. He was the first of the Conquistadores to happen upon the shores of a land now known as Yucatan, but which was then the last stronghold of the sophisticated and complex civilization of the Mayas. The Mayas are often referred to as "the Greeks of the New World." They possessed the most advanced written language of any pre—Columbian people on the continent. Also, their knowledge of science and mathematics was extremely advanced. The great civilization of the Mayas has all but vanished from the face of the Earth. But It Has Left An immortal imprint upon succeeding centuries.

The great art of the Mayan culture which survives today is considered amoung the most precious cultural treasures of mankind. Many Of These treasures are in The Mexican National Museum of Anthropology. The Museum issued this collection to commemorate the splendors of Mayan art. These 12 gold and silver sculptured art medals honor The Treasures of the Mayas.

The obverse of each medal depicts an individual treasure, personally selected by the experts of the Museum as one of the supreme demonstrations of Mayan artistic genius. The reverse features the name and symbol of the Museum as well as the title of the work, in both Spanish and Mayan. The bas-relief sculptures in precious metals reflect the distinctive character of Mayan art, for they were masters of the technique of bas-relief. There is a wealth of imagery and symbolism in the bas-relief.

The use of the medallic technique of sculpture-vignetting—24KT gold on sterling silver—dramatizes the subtlety of the sculptor's art, and enhances the intrinsic beauty of these two metals. A framed wall plaque and slipcase was provided to each subscriber.

MISCELLANEOUS PRIVATE ISSUES

CAT. CODE: MPI — FILE NO. 7

Prior to 1970, various individual issues struck by The Franklin Mint for private sponsors were included in the 'Special Private Issues' (SPI) category. Beginning in 1970, the 'Special Commemorative Issues' (SCI) program was inaugurated which includes only issues of a commemorative nature selected by a board of advisors from among those struck for private sponsors. Other medals and promotional issues struck for private firms are included in 'Miscellaneous Private Issues' (MPI). Most of these issues have not been offered frequently enough on the secondary market to establish market valuations.

PERSONALIZED COINS

CAT. CODE: PCI

From 1971 through 1974, The Franklin Mint produced Personalized Coins to order. One side of the coin was minted with the wording and design that the collector or sponsor chose. Often this took the form of family arms, monograms or portraits. The other side could also be of personal design but frequently used a stock design such as Gilroy Roberts' portrait of Franklin. Other popular stock designs included Weddings, Signs of the Zodiac, Masonic, U.S. Flag, Praying Hands, Bar Mitzvah and The Franklin Mint Collectors Society emblem. All coins are of Sterling Silver but some were also minted in Gold on Sterling. The first specimens in 1971 were of Mint quality, but later specimens were produced in Proof-like finish. Several hundred kinds were minted, mostly in quantities of 100 to 500 specimens.

All coins are Sterling Silver, Proof-like.

CAT. CODE: POG — FILE NO.: 1015

1978 marked the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Alliance with France. This was America's first international treaty. It was one of history's great turning points, for the support provided by France was essential to the success of the American Revolution. On this occasion, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger guided the creation of a definitive and authoritative tribute to those men and women whose character, vision and courage led America in its rise to preeminence in the world.

The 50 sculptured portrait medals in profile, honor the 50 great Americans personally selected by Dr. Kissinger. It is his own personal survey of American statesmanship, recorded in precious metal. As Secretary of State and chief architect of U.S. foreign policy under two Presidents, he contributed much to the establishment and maintenance of peace.

Each medal is accompanied by a special biographical commentary, prepared expressly for this collection under Dr. Kissinger's supervision in collaboration with his associate, William Hyland, and personally edited by Dr. Kissinger. In addition, Dr. Kissinger wrote a special preface for these commentaries, expressing his own overview of American diplomatic history. Each subscriber also received a specially printed hardbound volume, combining all of the commentaries and preface.

Proof sets were reserved solely for established Franklin Mint collectors. Each proof medal was individually edgemarked with the subscriber's personal serial number. Each set of 50 medals contains 27.5 troy ounces.

PRESIDENCY, HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN

CAT. CODE: HAP — FILE NO. 835

For the first time in history, a former President of the U. S. is involved in the creation of a definitive and very different study of the American Presidency. A history of America's highest office that focuses not only on the men who have held it, but also on the events that have shaped that great office. This history is being recorded in a series of 100 commemorative medals. Gerald R. Ford, the 38th President of the U. S., re-examined the history of the Presidency and chose the 100 events in the history of the U. S. that were most influential in shaping the nature of that office, important, exciting and controversial events that have defined and dramatized the extent of our Presidents powers.

President Ford wrote a special preface for the collection and is personally editing the written commentaries that accompany each medal. Each subscriber also received a matched set of two custom-designed hardbound albums. A Certificate of Authenticity bearing President Ford's signature was also included. The proof edition was the only serially numbered edition. The complete set of 100 medals contains 55 troy ounces.

RUBENS' MASTERPIECES

CAT. CODE: MRB — FILE NO. 671

For centuries, Peter Paul Rubens has been universally acknowledged as one of the greatest artists who ever lived, a towering genius whose work stands beside that of Michelangelo, Leonardo, Rembrandt and Raphael. For Rubens was an artist of power and vision, who could make even the most traditional subjects come alive with remarkable freshness and vitality. A brilliant artist who could capture the graceful beauty of the human form with a skill unsurpassed in the history of art. A master whose bold yet beautiful style ushered in the Baroque era of art, and whose work still stands as the ultimate achievement of that creative period.

At the 400th anniversary of his birth in 1577, the genius of Rubens was captured in this collection of 100 fine art sculptured medals, that portrays 100 of his greatest works. A hand-crafted, hardwood collector's chest, custom-designed in the rich Baroque style of Ruben's own time, was furnished to each subscriber. The complete set of 100 medals contains 96 troy ounces.

SHAKESPEARE

CAT. CODE: WSS — FILE NO.: 115, 1187

The plays of Shakespeare represent an achievement without parallel in the entire history of civilization. In our time, they are more widely read and more frequently performed, throughout the world, than they have ever been in the past. The reason is that through the prism of Shakespeare's genius, the entire pageant of human experience is seen clear and whole. He alone totally succeeded in holding a true "mirror up to nature," human nature.

These 2 editions of 38 Shakespeare medals were issued by the Royal Shakespeare Theatre of Stratfod-upon-Avon, England. The 45mm, Proof series, was issued to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the first printed folio of Shakespeare's plays, in 1623. The 32mm medals commemorate the centenary of the founding of the Royal Shakespeare Theatre at its present location, in 1869.

Each medal is sculptured in bas-relief, and captures the essence of one of Shakespeare's 38 Plays. Each work of medallic art is the creation of the distinguished English sculptor Philip Nathan. He spent three years in Shakespeare's birthplace, and received advice from the staff of the Theatre, who helped him to decide on the characters to portray, and the dramatic impact of each scene. Each medal interprets the essence of a different play, in a finely detailed sculpture. The reverse has a memorable quotation from the play that illuminates the meaning of the scene portrayed. A custom-designed hardbound album was provided to each subscriber.

The signers of the Constitution of the U.S. were the ablest, most experienced and most honored men of their time. They had earned the respect and trust of their fellow Americans. Working together, they succeeded in creating a plan of government unparallelled in the history of mankind. In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, this collection of 40 medals was issued.

The Bicentennial Council of the 13 Original States issued this series of authentic portrait sculptures depicting each of the 40 men who signed the Constitution. Each medal bears an original work of art, based on extensive historical research. Each portrait of the Signer is as he appeared at the time of the Constitutional Convention. These portraits are the most authoritative and definitive portrayal of the Signers that have ever been created. The reverse of each medal bears the Signer's signature exactly as it appears on the Constitution, together with his occupation and the State he represented. A hardwood chest designed to display and protect all 40 medals was supplied to each subscriber.

Large bronze casings of these portraits were placed in Signer's Walk at Independence Hall in Philadelphia—site of the signing of both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

SPACE FLIGHT EMBLEMS, NASA MANNED

CAT. CODE: SFE — FILE NO. 69?

The most vivid and dramatic symbols of America's commitment to the exploration of space are the official NASA manned space flight emblems. Authorized by NASA as official crew and mission emblems to be worn on America's manned space flights, and often based on designs by the Astronauts themselves, they are badges of honor, of pride, of heroic achievement. All 25 of these official space emblems are included in this collection of 25 sterling silver emblems.

Each emblem honors an important American space program or mission, and is minted in the design and shape of the official NASA emblem it depicts. The face of each emblem portrays the actual crew or mission emblem. The reverse identifies the title and date of the mission and its major accomplishment. A custom-designed collector's wall plaque was provided as part of the collection. The complete set of 25 medals contains 15.7 troy ounces.

SPORTS HISTORY, AMERICAN, 100 GREATEST EVENTS

CAT. CODE: HGS – FILE NO. 784

For millions of Americans, few experiences can equal the excitement of a great achievement in sports. And over the years, America's athletes have achieved thousands of such outstanding feats, setting records that all the world admires and that every American can take pride in. Recognizing this, ABC'S 'Wide World of Sports', America's most popular television sports program, issued this series of 100 commemorative medals to pay tribute to the 100 Greatest Events in the History of American Sports.

These events have been selected especially for this series by a panel of America's most distinguished sports authorities. The face of each medal bears a sculptured 'action' scene, created expressly and exclusively for this collection, that depicts one of these historic moments in sports. The reverse includes a brief description of the event portrayed, and the date on which it occurred. A custom-designed album was provided to each subscriber. The complete set of 100 medals contains 35 troy ounces.

In the early 19th century, Sir Edward Thomason of England Produced a series of 60 Biblical medals, titled The Thomason Medallic Bible. These 78mm medals portrayed important events of Biblical times, and were based on paintings by early Masters. A new version of this collection, in 45mm size, was produced by The Franklin Mint with newly engraved obverses, and newly selected Biblical quotations on the reverse. VALLEY FORGE GOLD MEDAL

CAT. CODE: VFM — FILE NO.: 849

The 200th anniversary of the first day of George Washington's heroic winter encampment at Valley Forge was observed on December 19, 1977. Valley Forge has long been one of the most inspiring symbols of America's struggle for independence. To commemorate this anniversary, Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge issued this official gold medal.

America's foremost living medallist, Gilroy Roberts, was selected to create this medal. On the obverse of the medal is a portrait of a lone American sentry standing guard in the bitter winter cold. He serves as a symbol of all the dedicated Americans who risked their lives two centuries ago so that we might live in freedom today. The reverse of the medal, the symbol of the Freedoms Foundation, is a study of Washington at prayer at Valley Forge.

Proofs of this medal were made available exclusively to established Franklin Mint collectors. A non-proof edition was made available to those who personally visited Freedoms Foundation.

VAN GOGH ART MEDALS

CAT. CODE: VGM — FILE NO.: 960

Vincent van Gogh created some of the most powerful works of art of all time. He painted the world as he saw it, and in so doing, he revolutionized the concept of what a painting should be. Today, his masterpieces are treasured by the great museums of the world.

To celebrate the 125th anniversary of his birth in 1978, a distinguished panel of leading scholars, authors and museum curators on Van Gogh's work, from his native Netherlands, selected 12 of his greatest masterpieces for this collection of 12 fine art medals. The medals are sculptured in a different technique, one developed expressly to capture the unique artistry of Van Gogh. David Cornell, chief sculptor of Franklin Mint international and Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, developed the technique of medallic brushwork.

Van Gogh's brush strokes were in some cases applied in short blunt dabs, at other times almost carved upon the canvas. They were an essential part of his creative genius. To depict this texture of his art, the master sculpture for each medal is "painted in clay", with every brush stroke in sculptured relief. All of this detail is then transferred to the high-relief coining dies. As a result, each medal conveys the feeling and movement of the masterpiece it portrays, as well as its beauty.

The rich gold surface of these medals adds further importance to this collection. For gold was the dominant color that Van Gogh himself chose for many of his greatest works. A specially designed wall frame was provided to each subscriber. The Director of the Van Gogh Museum in Amsterdam, Dr. Emile R. Meijer, prepared the informative commentary accompanying each medal.

WATERLOO MEDAL

CAT. CODE: PWM — FILE NO. 223

This work of art, which has been called the most beautiful medal ever conceived, was a tribute to the Allied victory over Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo in 1815. The medal was created by Benedetto Pistrucci, the famed Italian medallist. Pistrucci worked on the medal, which he regarded as his finest work, for 33 years, from 1817-1850. When he died, the work was technically unfinished, since it carried no inscription to specifically connect the medal with Waterloo.

The face of the medal carries profile busts of the 4 sovereigns whose alliance overthrew Napoleon, the Prince Regent (later King George IV) of England, Francis II of Austria, Alexander I of Russia and Frederick William III of Prussia. The outer border provides an allegorical interpretation of the victory and of the peace which followed. The central motif on the reverse depicts 2 mounted horsemen galloping into action, urged on by the winged figure of Victory. The border composition represents the mythological battle of the giants in their assault on heaven.

When this work was complete, the dies were considered so valuable, no one had the courage to harden them and risk damaging the sculpture. As a result, the original medal was never struck. Those original dies measure 5- 1/4" in diameter and to this day they have still not been hardened. Many years ago, John Pinches (Medallists) Ltd — the British affiliate of The Franklin Mint, was authorized to make 2 sets of electrotypes in soft copper from these dies. From one of these electrotypes, Pinches struck the medal in a 2-1/2" size. New dies were produced, and Pinches added the inscription 'Waterloo June 18, 1815' on the edge of each medal. All specimens are serially numbered.

WESTERN ART

CAT. CODE: GAW — FILE NO.: 871

The art of the American West is unique in all the world. It was born of adventure, inspired by the rugged beauty of the West itself, and nourished by the talents of some of America's most gifted artists. From the middle of the last century, and well into the 20th, these artists of the Old West created a treasury of works as vast and imposing as the land they loved.

In tribute to this distinctively American art tradition, the 50 greatest masterpieces of the Old West were issued in this collection of 50 art medals of 24KT gold electroplate on bronze. Each medal captures the essence of a great masterpiece of Western art. This is the most comprehensive collection of fine art medals ever to honor the great artists of the Old West. It deals with every great theme of Western Art, and includes the work of every outstanding artist of the era, selected with the aid of an independent panel of eminent authorities on Western art.

To capture the sweep and power of each work in this series, the medals are unusually large, each measuring 2" in diameter. Each medal is of exceptional thickness, allowing for the depth and detail of the sculptured high-relief. A specially designed collector's album was provided to each subscriber.

WILDLIFE OF NORTH AMERICA

CAT. CODE: NAW — FILE NO.: 807

The wildlife of the North American continent is among the most beautiful and majestic in all nature. To capture the spirit of these magnificent animals, the North American Wildlife Foundation commissioned the distinguished wildlife sculptor Anthony Jones to create a series of 6 fine art medals. Each medal bears an original work of art portraying the animals in realistic detail. The reverse identifies the animal portrayed, the artist's signature and the Foundation's name.

Sculptor Anthony Jones has traveled throughout the world, studying wild animals in their native habitats. On the American continent, he has found the wilderness of Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons to harbor a unique variety of wildlife, including all the subjects chosen for these medals. Each design has been authenticated by the Foundation to assure accuracy in every detail. Each medal was accompanied by its own display stand; and a wood-framed wall plaque was included to hold all 6 medals. There was a limit of one medal of each design per person. The complete set of 6 medals contains 5.7 troy ounces.

MEDALLIC FIRST DAY COVERS

Medallic covers bring numismatics and philately together by combining medals with commemorative covers. In each case, both the medallic specimen and the stamp commemorate the same subject, and the postmark certifies their first day status. The first Medallic First Day Cover produced by the mint was issued by the United Nations on the occasion of its 25th anniversary in 1970.

† – Due to the fluctuating prices of silver and gold, no specific market values can be assigned to First Day Covers in either silver or gold.

LINDBERGH GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

CAT. CODE: LGA — FILE NO: 743

In May of 1927, Charles A. Lindbergh became the first human being ever to fly across the Atlantic alone. To honor the 50th Anniversary of this event, the Franklin Mint and its French affiliate, Le Medaillier S.A. of Paris, created this international commemorative. It consists of two separate medallic first day covers. Each cover combines a 32mm proof medal, in gold on sterling silver, with the official Lindbergh Flight Commemorative Stamp of the country of issue. Each cover bears the official First Day of Issue cancellation. This double commemorative was issued in a collector's case.

The American cover bears the official postmark of Roosevelt Field, New York, Lindbergh's actual take-off site. It bears the cancellation of May 20, 1977 — 50 years to the day after Lindbergh embarked on his flight. After the U. S. cancellation was applied, the American cover was flown overnight across the Atlantic to Paris. Here, it received a special arrival cancellation at Le Bourget Airport on May 21, 1977 — the exact 50th Anniversary of Lindbergh's landing. The U. S. stamp on this cover portrays Lindbergh's plane, the 'Spirit of St. Louis,' flying low over the Atlantic as the sun sets on its first day of flight. The proof medal bears a portrait of Lindbergh as he appeared when he made his flight, with the symbolic 'Lone Eagle' in the background.

The French cover was officially postmarked at Le Bourget Airport in Paris, where Lindbergh completed his flight. It bears the cancellation of June 4, 1977, the date the Government of France chose to officially commemorate the 50th Anniversary flight. The French stamp on this cover depicts Lindbergh's plane crossing the Atlantic toward Paris. This stamp was cancelled on its first day of issue. The proof medal bears a close-up of Lindbergh's plane, the 'Spirit of St. Louis' in flight.

MICHELANGELO QUINCENTENNIAL

CAT. CODE: MQC — FILE NO: 437

This is Italy's first medallic first day cover. It was minted and issued by Franklin Mint Italiana of Rome. It commemorates the 500th anniversary of the birth of Michelangelo. The face of the medal portrays Michelangelo himself, while the reverse is based upon the design for the dome of St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome.

The three official commemorative stamps issued by the Italian Government to honor Michelangelo's birth bear denominations of 40, 50 and 90 lire. The specially designed commemorative cover is postmarked on the stamps' first day of issue, April 18, 1975. The postmark is that of Caprese, Italy, the Tuscan city in which Michelangelo was born.

MOUNT EVEREST ASCENT

CAT. CODE: MEC — FILE NO.: 972

For 30 years, since the first Everest expedition, the mightiest of all mountains had resisted man's attempts to master it. So by 1953 Mt. Everest remained unconquered and unclimbed despite man's ambition to reach the top. Yet at 11:30 a.m. on May 29, 1953, two men surmounted the hazards and discomforts of Everest, to stand at the top of the world. The New Zealander, Sir Edmund Hillary and the Nepalese sherpa, Sirdar Tenzing Norgay, had scaled the peak.

In 1978, 25 years after that historic moment, the government of Nepal authorized the creation of an international tribute to Hillary and Tenzing — the 25th anniversary commemorative of the first ascent of Mt. Everest. Each medallic cover consists of a sterling silver proof medal depicting Hillary and Tenzing at the top of Everest, 2 official commemorative stamps issued by the postal service of the Kingdom of Nepal, depicting different views of Everest, and a first day of issue cancellation bearing the 25th anniversary postmark of Namche Bazar, the postal station serving the expedition's original base camp. In addition, each cover bears the personal hand-signatures of Hillary and Tenzing.

Each cover included an integral Certificate of Authenticity and a special collector's wallet.

Each medal bears an original work of art honoring the heritage of a different state. A special cancellation authorized expressly for these covers bears a Bicentennial salute. The complete set of 50 covers contains 30.5 troy ounces.

NATIONAL HISTORICAL SOC. — HISTORY OF AMERICA

CAT. CODE: CHA — FILE NO.:

The National Historical Society, headquartered in Gettysburg, Pa., is dedicated to bringing the significance of American history to all the people in the U.S. And to enrich their enjoyment and understanding of the events contributing to American freedom.

In keeping with this purpose, the Society is issuing this unique history of America. This new history is being recorded in the form of 100 medallic cachets, each recapturing one of the greatest events in America's past. Each cachet carries a sterling silver medal portraying the event it honors in authentic and historically accurate detail. And each stamped cachet is officially postmarked at the closest available post office to the site identified with the event, on its exact anniversary date. To add to its historical value, each cachet bears a first-person account of the event commemorated, as reported by an actual eyewitness of the time. The eyewitnesses to these great events include some of America's most outstanding patriots.

The 100 events selected by the Society encompass the entire history of America. To give the collection a feeling of immediacy, each of these events is depicted as it was actually seen and reported by an eyewitness to that event.

A special Certificate of Authenticity, bearing the signature of the Society's president, also accompanies the collection. To house and display the cachets, a matched set of 2 custom-designed hardbound library albums was provided to each subscriber. This collection was issued in a single edition of 2,500 proof sets.

PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURAL

CAT. CODE: IMC — FILE NO. 680

On January 20, 1977, America's 39th President, Jimmy Carter took the oath of office in Washington, D. C. and began his term as President. In honor of this occasion, the Inaugural Committee, a non-political organization established pursuant to an Act of Congress, authorized the creation of the Official Inaugural Commemoratives. These are the only officially authorized commemoratives of the inauguration, and the only ones to bear the Presidential Seal. (See the Index for the full list of commemoratives.)

For the first time in its history, the Inaugural Committee authorized the creation of a medallic-postal commemorative. This commemorative consists of a fine silver proof medal which bears the Official Inaugural Portrait of President Carter created by Julian Harris, one of America's most distinguished sculptors. The reverse bears the Presidential Seal along with a special inaugural inscription. Included with the medal are three U. S. 13¢ stamps bearing the official Inaugural Day postmark — January 20, 1977. The three stamps are cancelled, respectively, in Washington, D. C. (the site of the inauguration), in Plains, Georgia (Jimmy Carter's birthplace), and in Ceylon, Minnesota (Vice President Walter Mondale's birthplace). The commemoratives were issued in a protective album.

WORLD WAR II HISTORY

CAT. CODE: WWT — FILE NO. 1063

In tribute to those who served with distinction in the Second World War, the mint issued this collection of 50 engraved commemorative cachets. The 50 events selected cover the entire course of the war and range through every part of the world. A distinguished Advisory Panel assisted in the selection of the events. This set was issued on the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the beginning of the War. Each cachet carries a 32mm sterling silver proof medal portraying one of the most significant events of the War. Each medal is historically accurate and detailed.

Each stamped cachet bears the official postmark from the post office serving the site of that event, and is cancelled on the anniversary of the actual day it took place. The official postage stamp is issued by the country in which the event took place. Each cachet also features an historic news headline of the time, reporting the event which is depicted on the medal. The mint undertook extensive research, with the cooperation of major English-language newspapers here and abroad, to find the most compelling headlines that tell the story of the War. Special permission was received from the newspapers to re-create these historic headlines for use on the cachets. A custom-designed hardbound album was provided to each subscriber.

MONETARY COVERS

Money — the spending kind — and stamps — the postage kind — are brought together in the form of monetary covers. Monetary covers were first produced at The Franklin Mint in 1973 and since that time, they have included complete coin sets, individual commemoratives and gold — plus paper money. Many are first day covers with the coins and stamps honoring the same event. In several instances, the coins are also depicted on the stamps in commemoration of a nation's first coins. Monetary covers have generally been limited to comparatively few countries but in "Coins of All Nations", The Franklin Mint has taken on the difficult task of providing collectors with monetary covers from the entire world.

SOLOMON ISLANDS

CAT. CODE: SIC — FILE NO.: 825

On October 24, 1977, in the Solomon Islands, 3 events of particular interest and importance to collectors took place on the same day. These events were in honor of the forthcoming achievement of nationhood for the Solomon Islands. (1) The Government of the Islands issued the first coinage of the new nation. (2) The Government issued the first banknotes of the new nation. (3) And at the same time, the Government issued new stamps honoring its first coins and banknotes. These special stamps bear the legend 'First Currency Issue', and are postmarked in Honiara, capital of the Solomon Islands.

To provide a permanent record of these history-making events, the Government issued a first day of issue presentation set. The set consists of 5 official Government First Day Covers. The 2 covers that contain coinage are described in the Coin-of-the-Realm section of this Guidebook. The 3 other covers each contain one of the new banknotes in crisp uncirculated condition, with each of the 3 denominations bearing the same serial number. Each of the covers bears a new commemorative stamp created for the occasion that depicts the banknotes. And each cover bears a specially designed, distinctive 'First Day of Issue' cancellation reserved for this day, attesting to the unique first day status of the coins, the banknotes, the stamps and the covers. The reverses of the 3 new banknotes feature aspects of native culture: on the 10 dollar banknote, the making of shell money . . . on the 5 dollar banknote, a traditional war canoe, with a wood carving of a sea spirit . . . and, on the 2 dollar banknote, a fishing scene. The obverses bear an engraving of H.M. Queen Elizabeth II.

This is the only set of its kind ever issued by any government in the world. Each cover includes an integral Certificate of Authenticity signed by the Chairman of the Solomon Islands monetary Authority. The complete set was housed in a display album.

PHILATELIC FIRST DAY COVERS

Unlike medallic covers which are a comparatively recent development, philatelic covers date from the very first issue of government postage stamps: the Penny Black, on May 6, 1840. At first, philatelic covers were not widely collected. For that reason, early covers postmarked on the first day of issue are rare and have sometimes sold for thousands of dollars. Fortunately for most collectors, the collecting of first day covers became more widespread by the 1920's. Since the 1930's, philatelic and first day covers have usually included a cachet which supplements and adds interest to the stamp or postal use. A fascinating collection of these later issues can still be built at modest cost through the covers issued by The Franklin Philatelic Society and its international affiliates.

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL

CAT. CODE: BFD-P — FILE NO. 496

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) issued this collection of 89 first day covers representing every nation that issued commemorative stamps to honor America's Bicentennial during 1976. Each stamp was the most significant Bicentennial stamp issue of the nation it represented. Each cover bears the official first day of issue cancellation, and was postmarked in the issuing country, at the official post office of first issue. An original engraving on each cover complements the theme of the stamp.

CAT. CODE: ASW-P — FILE NO. 973

For they depict the masterpieces of painting, sculpture, tapestry art and other art forms of every age, every culture and every region of the world. The International Council of Museums Foundations, representing all of the great museums of the world, issued this collection of first day covers.

Each art stamp honored in this collection is selected by the Council, from among all those issued by the nations of the world, as especially worthy of inclusion. Each cover bears a finely engraved illustration, created exclusively for this collection, which provides a fascinating insight into the subject of the stamp. The cover complements and enhances the beauty of the stamp it bears. Each stamp bears the first day of issue cancellation, postmarked in the country of origin. A collector's album was provided to each subscriber.

AVIATION HISTORY

CAT. CODE: HAC-P — FILE NO.:

Throughout the year 1978, the 75th anniversary of the Wright Brother's flight, nations in every part of the world officially commemorated the history of aviation by issuing commemorative stamps. Together, these historic stamps form a tribute to one of the greatest achievements of mankind — powered air flight. An achievement that was launched with the Wright Brother's flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903, and has culminated in the exploration of outer space.

This collection was issued by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in Paris and includes all of the commemorative stamps issued in 1978, devoted to the history of aviation. The FAI is the oldest organization in the world dedicated to the science of aeronautics. More than 25 countries are included in this collection. Each stamp portrays a famous person, a major event or an important milestone in the history of aviation during the past 75 years.

Each cover bears the official first day of issue cancellation for the stamp it carries, and is postmarked in the county of issue, at the official post office of first issue. An original cachet design, created solely and exclusively for this collection, by a distinguished artist, is engraved on each cover. Each design complements the theme of the stamp carried on the cover. Each cover is mounted on its own individual display and reference page. A hard-bound album with protective pages was included with each collection.

COUSTEAU SOCEITY STAMPS OF THE SEA

CAT. CODE: SEA-P — FILE NO.: 1016

Throughout the world, 1979 marked the beginning of a continuing campaign to protect the wildlife of the sea. Governments of many nations officially called attention to this campaign by issuing new postage stamps that portray the most interesting sea life native to their shores and coastal waters. To encourage this activity, Captain Jacques Cousteau and The Cousteau Society selected the most significant and most beautiful of these new issues for this international collection of philatelic cards.

In addition, The Cousteau Society also commissioned original art depicting the subject of each stamp. Each illustration is issued with the stamp it honors on an official Cousteau Society First Day Cover. Jacques Cousteau has prepared the specially written commentary for the reverse of each philatelic card, that is an authoritative and interesting description of the wildlife depicted.

All of these first day covers have the First Day of Issue postmark applied to both stamp and cover in the country of origin, and the official imprint of the Cousteau Society. Each subscriber received a collector's case, with special index dividers so that the covers can be filed for easy reference.

Each cover is 8" x 4- 1/2"

EUROPA

CAT. CODE: HLE P, HCE P — FILE NO. 943

The annual EUROPA commemorative stamps, issued by nations throughout Europe are among the most coveted collector's items since the inception of their issue over 20 years ago. Beginning in 1978, the European Council of the International Society of Postmasters issued these stamps in an annual series of philatelic covers.

The collection combines every EUROPA stamp issued in a single year with original art by expert designers. About 30 European nations issue these stamps, the only stamps which bear the EUROPA CEPT designation of the European Conference of Postal and Telecommunications Administrators. The collection contains individual covers, representing every nation that issued EUROPA stamps. Most covers carried 2 stamps, some carried more. All stamps are postmarked in the country of issue, with the first day of issue cancellation at the designated post office of first issue.

Each cover bears an original engraved cachet design, created exclusively for this collection. This is an original work of art by a master designer, which graphically portrays the cultural and historical significance of the landmarks they depict. An album with protective pages was provided to display the collection. Each year, the EUROPA stamps had a unique theme.

FAIRY TALES OF THE WORLD

CAT. CODE: FTC-P — FILE NO. 1040

Each country has its own unique heritage of fairy tales and children's stories, handed down from generation to generation. All of these fairy tales are different. Each bears the distinctive flavor of the country of its origin, and each has its own particular style and character. All have one thing in common, they are loved by boys and girls of every age.

On the occasion of International Children's Year in 1979, established by the United Nations to honor the children of the world, this collection of 72 illustrated First Day Covers from many different countries was issued. It recaptures the charm of the world's most beloved fairy tales. These covers are exceptionally large in size, providing an artistic portrayal of each fairy tale, and comprising a virtual "storybook" of the best in children's literature from around the world.

Each cover bears a distinctive stamp centered around the theme of children, issued by one of the nations represented in the collection. Each cover bears an original work of art created exclusively for this collection. The full-color designs interpret one of the most famous fairy tales associated with the country issuing the accompanying stamp. They are suitable for framing and display.

Each stamp is hand-canceled in the nation of issue; each cover bears the special First Day of Issue postmark reserved for that stamp. The reverse of each cover tells the story of the fairy tale. The covers measure 8-1/2" x 11" in size. A custom-designed hardbound album was included with each subscription.

GOVERNMENT

CAT. CODE: GCC — FILE NO.: 834

Official Government First Day Covers issued by nations around the world are among the most prized and sought-after collector's items. For not only are they official government issues of unique status, they are also works of beauty and importance. They honor people, places and events of lasting significance to the issuing country — and frequently to the entire world. They are traditionally available in limited quanity, and only for brief periods of time.

This collection features the finest of these covers, bearing the world's most important new commemorative stamps. Each cover bears the official First Day of Issue cancellation for the stamps it carries, and is postmarked in the country of issue, and at the official post office of first issue. SILVER JUBILEE

CAT CODE: SJC-P — FILE NO.: 658

In early February 1977, the 25th anniversary of the accession to the throne of H. M. Queen Elizabeth II was celebrated. This was the first time in the thousand-year history of the British Monarchy that a reigning queen has officially celebrated her Silver Jubilee. It was one of the most widely observed royal anniversaries of the century. To mark this occasion, independent nations, associated states and dependencies throughout the Commonwealth issued official Silver Jubilee commemorative stamps in 1977. These stamps deal with major events of the 25-year reign.

The Royal Commonwealth Society, headquartered in London, England, commissioned these covers. The Society is a nonpolitical organization concerned with the spread of knowledge and understanding about the Commonwealth, and its peoples and countries. The collection contains the most significant Silver Jubilee stamps, more than 100 in all, from every government of the Commonwealth issuing stamps to honor the 25th Anniversary.

Each stamp-issuing government is represented by a First Day Cover. Each cover is postmarked with the official First Day of Issue cancellation, applied by the officially designated post office of first issue. Each cover is imprinted with the official Coat of Arms or insignia of the stamp-issuing territory. The integral Certificate of Authenticity is signed by the Secretary General of the Society.

SPACE AGE, 20th ANN.

CAT. CODE: SPA-P — FILE NO. 808

Cosmonaut Alexei Leonov was the first man ever to walk in space, and was also the Soviet command pilot for the Apollo-Soyuz mission, which successfully linked an American and Soviet space ship. He is also an accomplished artist, and specializes in space exploration subjects. The 20th anniversary of the launching of the world's first earth satellite was celebrated on October 4, 1977. Alexei Leonov created six original works of art in commemoration of this anniversary, which appeared on six first day covers.

Each first day cover bears a different cachet design created especially for that cover. The designs are in full color and depict some of the most dramatic space accomplishments of the past 20 years. Each cover bears a new and different commemorative stamp of the U.S.S.R., matching the theme of the cachet design. Each commemorates a major space achievement. The official first day of issue postmark of Baikhonur, U.S.S.R., site of Soviet space launches, appears on each cover. The cancellation is of October 4, 1977, the exact 20th anniversary of the space age. This is the first time in history that the U.S.S.R. has ever designated a cancellation outside of Moscow as an official first day of issue cancellation.

Each cover includes its own integral Certificate of Authenticity, bearing the signature of the Deputy General Director of the Post of the U.S.S.R. A further special certification, for each complete collection, is personally and individually hand-signed by Alexei Leonov. An album was included with each set of six covers. Also included is a souvenir stamp sheet honoring the launching of Sputnik I, the world's first earth satellite, 20 years ago.

AMERICA'S GREATEST STAMPS

CAT. CODE — FILE NO. 1009

Of the thousands of postage stamps issued by the U.S. Post Office, few have achieved the status of greatness. Most specimens of these great stamps are in major private collections, or are housed in leading museums. As a lasting tribute and commemoration, Postmasters of America (POA) honored the 50 greatest postage stamps ever issued by the U.S. in this collection of 50 proofs.

Each of these great stamps is captured by sculptors and engravers in fine detail in 24KT gold electroplated on sterling silver. The frosted sculptured area, corresponding to the stamp's intricate design, stands out against a background of mirror-like brilliance.

The stamps have been selected for their exceptional rarity, unique designs and historical importance by POA experts on philatelic history and stamp values. The reverse of each stamp carries the name of the stamp. An album to store and display the entire collection was provided to each subscriber.

ART MASTERPIECES

CAT. CODE GMA — FILE NO. 1154

The International Society of Postmasters, in Geneva, Switzerland, whose membership consists of postal officials from more than 100 different countries, issued this definitive collection of art stamps honoring the world's greatest art treasures. The collection consists of 100 stamps issued by the nations of the world to honor the supreme artistic achievements of mankind, from the beginnings of civilization to the present day. These art masterpieces were selected by a distinguished international panel of art experts, scholars, historians and museum directors.

Because of their beauty and importance, art masterpieces are honored by the nations of the world in their postage stamps. Collecting art stamps has been an avid interest for individuals throughout the world. This collection provides each subscriber with a private, philatelic art gallery.

The collection consists of both important new issues and often difficult to obtain out-of-issue stamps. Each stamp honors and portrays one of the world's 100 greatest art masterpieces. Each stamp is in perfect mint condition, and each is contained within a transparent, protective sleeve to preserve its beauty, and enable the viewer to enjoy it. Each stamp is combined with a finely engraved portrait of the artist.

Each issue is accompanied by a fascinating commentary specially written for the collection, describing the work of art, the artist, his times, and the lasting importance of his work in the history of art. This commentary also provides similar information about the engraved portrait of the artist that is combined with the stamp. Often this engraving is based on another major work of art. Where no such work of art is available, the Society has commissioned an original work of art based on authentic source materials, expressly for this collection. A collector's album to display and protect the collection was also provided to each subscriber.

The Council is issuing this collection which brings together the most significant and desirable bird stamps issued anywhere in the world. Every one of them has been chosen specifically for this collection by a distinguished international panel of noted ornithologists and wildlife artists.

Many of these stamps are brand new issues, others are out-of-issue and no longer obtainable from the postal authorities in the issuing nations. Still others are important commemorative stamps, issued in relatively small quantities, and available for only brief periods of time. But all have one thing in common: they are all perfect mint quality stamps — unused and uncanceled.

Each stamp is set into a transparent protective mounting on an Official Commemorative Presentation. With each stamp is an original and exclusive work of art created expressly to complement that stamp, by an outstanding wildlife artist. Subscribers received a quarterly newsletter featuring interesting and authoritative articles about the stamps, the works of art and the artists who created them, and about the birds portrayed. A collector's album was also provided to each subscriber.

50-STATE FLAG STAMPS

CAT. CODE: FILE NO.: 585

This special issue was made available by Postmasters of America (POA) to subscribers to POA Philatelic First Day Covers, and also to POA Medallic First Day Covers. The 3rd First Day Cover in 1976 was issued as a Bicentennial tribute to the 50 United States, and commemorated the 50—State Flags. The official State Flag Stamp of the State in which the subscriber resides was included on the cover. The stamp is part of a special 50 State Flag Stamp Issue made available by the U.S. Postal Service.

P.O.A. securred full sheets containing all 50 of the new State Flag Stamps. A special presentation folder exclusively for P.O.A. subscribers, was prepared to protect and display this issue.

This issue was especially significant from a collector's point of view for a number of reasons:

1) This is the first U.S. postal issue depicting all the State Flags of the United States.

2) This is the first issue of the U.S. Postal Service ever to include 50 different stamps. Each stamp bears an authentic full-color design portraying the official State Flag of one of our 50 States.

3) There is a possible error in the depiction of the Tennessee State Flag on this sheet. Some newspapers in Tennessee claim that the flag is shown upside down, but the Postal Service maintains that the flag is shown correctly.

4) Each stamp sheet includes all six different plate block numbers assigned to this special issue by the Postal Service—and appropriate marginal inscriptions.

GREAT AMERICANS

CAT. CODE: GAH-P — FILE NO.: 970

Down through the years, the U.S. has paid tribute to America's greatest men and women by issuing official postage stamps in their honor. These stamps continue to increase in importance with every passing year. A selection of these stamps were brought together in this collection which forms a comprehensive tribute to the 100 greatest Americans who have been officially honored on America's postage stamps.

Each of these stamps is now out of issue and no longer obtainable from the U.S. Postal Service. To protect these historic stamps, each one of them is individually sealed in its own engraved commemorative cover. An advisory board of prominent Americans assisted in choosing the stamp, and each honored person included in this collection. The 100 stamps form a historic honor roll of the greatest Americans from every era and every sphere of American life. Only a very limited quantity of certain key issues in mint-condition could be found, thus restricting the total number of subscriptions to 7,500.

A distinctive commemorative cover was created to hold each individual issue. In every case, the historic stamp is set into a transparent protective capsule within the cover. Each cover is engraved with the name of the honored American and the date of first issue of the stamp. Also, the cover bears a postmark applied by the U.S. Postal Service in the city where the historic stamp was first issued. Each postmark date is the exact anniversary of the historic stamp's first day of issue.

Each cover is mounted on an individually designed reference page. Every page provides specially written biographical information on the great American commemorated. Each page also bears an original illustration, commissioned expressly for this collection, depicting an important event in the life of the honored American. In addition, each subscriber received 2 matched collector's albums to hold the collection.

HERITAGE OF AMERICA

CAT. CODE: HAS-P — FILE NO.: 766

One of the most fascinating accounts of the story of America is provided by U. S. commemorative stamps. Issued in honor of great persons, historic anniversaries and significant events, these stamps are made available at Post Offices for a very limited time. Each stamp bears a work of art selected to dramatize the subject commemorated. This collection of 50 commemorative stamps issued over the past half century tells this story in a new way. Each of the 50 historic stamps has been chosen for its ability to evoke the heritage of a different one of the 50 states. Each stamp is now out of print and out of circulation, and none is available from the U. S. Postal Service.

A unique new kind of commemorative cover has been designed not only to display the stamps, but also to preserve them in mint condition. Each of the 50 engraved and embossed covers honors a different state. Preserved within the cover, beneath a transparent capsule, is the historic stamp. The U. S. Postal Service cancellation is applied in the city in which the historic stamp was first issued, and dated on the exact anniversary of that stamp's first day of issue.

Each cover is inserted in a reference page which not only discusses the significance of the stamp, but bears a historically authenticated drawing, commissioned exclusively for this collection, honoring the subject commemorated. A display album with 50 clear protective pockets was also included.

HISTORY OF THE U.S.

CAT. CODE: OHU — FILE NO. 1240

The story of America is a vast mosaic of great events, rich with the themes of adventure, courage and accomplishment. One of the most fascinating accounts of that history has been provided by the U.S. Government in the form of official U.S. postage stamps. Stamps that have been issued to pay tribute to the most significant people, places or events in America's history. The Postmasters of America issued this collection of 200 out-of-issue mint-quality U.S. postage stamps that tells the story of America. The stamps selected include some of the most distinctive U.S. postal issues of the last half century. Each stamp was chosen for this collection because it evoked an important aspect of America's story: political events, military triumphs, social and cultural landmarks, scientific discoveries, and technological advances. They honor every facet and every era of America's history.

Each stamp is out-of-issue and no longer available from the U.S. Postal Service. Each stamp is a mint specimen, in perfect condition. It is protectively sealed within a transparent pocket and mounted on its own illustrated philatelic presentation card. Each card also bears a different, original, full-color illustration, specially designed to honor the event commemorated by the accompanying stamp. Specially written commentaries prepared exclusively for this collection appear on the reverse of each card.

A bound collector's album to hold all 200 cards was also provided. The collection was issued in a single, numerically limited edition of 15,000 sets.

OLYMPICS

CAT. CODE: UOS — FILE NO. 1253

On February 13, 1980, the 13th Olympic Winter Games began at Lake Placid, New York — the first time in a generation that Olympic Games have been held in the U.S. To commemorate this important occasion, the U.S. Postal Service issued a series of 10 postage stamps honoring the 1980 Olympic Games. At the same time, it authorized the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee (LPOOC) to issue 10 matching re-creations of these stamps in proof-quality sterling silver. This was the first collection of silver stamps ever issued with U.S. Postal Service authorization.

Like the stamps themselves, this collection paid tribute to both the Winter and Summer Games. Each stamp evokes the drama of a specific Olympic sport, depicting 10 of the most exciting events. Every detail and every characteristic of the stamp has been faithfully re-created in sterling silver.

The face of each stamp portrays the Olympic event being honored. The reverse bears a legend identifying the LPOOC, the year, the U.S. Postal Service, and the name of the event. Each issue is accompanied by a specially written commentary that traces the history of the event being portrayed. There are perforations around the edge of each stamp. The collection was issued in a custom-designed presentation case, fitted with a special easel to display the collection on a desk, or in a bookcase.

POSTMASTERS OF AMERICA BICENTENNIAL SOUVENIR SHEETS

CAT. CODE: PFD-P — FILE NO.: 585

On May 29, 1976, the U. S. Postal Service issued a set of four special Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets in commemoration of America's 200th anniversary. These stamp sheets are unlike any the Postal Service has ever authorized before in this unusual and distinctive format. Each of these Sheets depicts a famous masterpiece portraying one of the historic events of the American Revolution.

Within each Sheet are five individual U. S. postage stamps which highlight important details of the painting. All of the stamps are official U. S. postage stamps authorized by the Postal Service specifically for this special issue. All five stamps in each Sheet are the same denomination, however, each of the four Sheets has a different denomination. Each Sheet measures 6" x 8" in size and was produced in full color by the U. S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing. These Sheets in selected mint condition were made available to POA subscribers in deluxe presentation folders.

WORLD'S FIRST STAMPS

CAT. CODE: FSW — FILE NO.: 1145

In 1840 the first postage stamp in history was issued. This historic stamp heralded the issuance by other countries of their own postage stamps, and eventually resulted in an international postal network linking peoples in all corners of the globe.

The International Society of Postmasters (ISP), headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland, which represents postmasters in more than 100 nations, paid official tribute to the first stamps of the world by issuing this collection comprising authentic re-creations of 73 great stamps, each from a different nation. In each case, the stamp honored is the first stamp ever issued by that nation. Together, the collection includes the very first stamps ever issued by sovereign nations anywhere in the world, all issued during the 19th century's great 'Golden Age of Philately.'

Working from the actual stamps themselves, the designs were re-created capturing all of their distinctive features, precisely as to size, shape and design, even to the minutest details, including perforations around the edge. Each stamp is struck as a gold electroplate on sterling silver proof.

The reverse of each minted stamp bears the symbol of the ISP, as a mark of approval, and the name and denomination of the stamp, both in English and French. The historical background and significance of each stamp is described in a specially written commentary that accompanies each minted stamp. A custom-designed hardbound album and special magnifier were provided to each subscriber.

INGOTS

In 1970, The Franklin Mint introduced its first sterling silver ingot to collectors. By producing ingots in a convenient size and of consistently high quality, the mint popularized a new kind of numismatic collection. Many significant subjects and events have been commemorated, and all published mintage figures show the exact limits of each edition.

† – Due to the fluctuating prices of silver and gold, no specific market value can be assigned to ingots in either silver or gold.

AIRLINES OF THE WORLD EMBLEMS

CAT CODE EAW – FILE NO. 779

100 of the most important airlines, from all around the world, authorized the minting of their official emblems in sterling silver. The emblems of airlines are in a very real sense the 'heraldry of the air'. They are dramatic and proud symbols that are instantly recognized when displayed. Each emblem is minted with a full proof finish, so that each design is frosted and stands out in contrast to the polished background. The shape of these emblems is unusual, each is created in the style and shape of an airliner tail fin. So, the emblems appear as they would be seen on the planes themselves.

The face of each emblem bears the official insignia of the airline it represents. The reverse carries the airline's official name, country and date of first service. Each of the 100 airlines received only its own individual silver, proof-like, emblems for distribution or purchase. The mint was granted the right to issue the complete series of all 100 emblems to collectors. A collector's chest was provided as part of the complete collection. The complete collection of 100 ingots contains 54 troy ounces.

AIRPLANES

CAT CODE AIR – FILE NO. 931

In 1903 the Wright Brothers made the first successful, sustained powered flight in a heavier-than-air machine. To commemorate the 75th anniversary of that historic first powered flight, in 1978, this collection of 50 sterling silver ingots was issued. It honors the 50 greatest planes in aviation history, with each famous plane sculptured in authentic detail.

The aircraft honored have been selected with the assistance of a distinguished international board of advisers. Among its members are some of the world's most honored aviation pioneers — flyers, builders, designers and industry leaders.

The face of each ingot bears a sculptured portrayal of one of these airplanes, shown in flight in its most characteristic attitude. The reverse bears front, top and side silhouettes of the plane, and the date of its first flight. Each subscriber received a display chest to house the collection. The complete collection of 50 ingots contains 30.5 troy ounces.

AMERICA IN SPACE

CAT CODE ASI – FILE NO. 119

America's first manned space flight occurred on May 5, 1961. Astronaut Alan B. Shepard, Jr. soared into space in a 2800-pound capsule 'Freedom 7.' This ingot, issued in 1971, commemorates the 10th anniversary of that historic flight. The obverse design depicts an eagle soaring through space with the earth in the background. The reverse contains the names and flight dates of the 25 American astronauts who traveled in space during the first 10 years of American space exploration. Each ingot weighs 1,000 grains.

AUTOMOBILE EMBLEMS

CAT. CODE: OEA — FILE NO.: 950

The emblems of the great cars are among the world's most recognized symbols. They are vivid and powerful reminders of the greatness of the cars they represent. To honor the 50 greatest cars of all time, the mint issued this collection of 50 hand-enameled sterling silver ingots. Each ingot is crafted of sterling silver, and bears in hand-enameled colors, an authentic re-creation of the official marque or emblem of the 50 greatest cars.

The emblem designs are deeply recessed into the polished surface of the ingots. Each design is individually hand-painted with enamel colors, and each color is applied separately, one by one. The emblem re-creation is authentic and true to the original in both color and design. To accurately represent the many emblems in which gold appears, actual 24KT gold is used to selectively embellish the ingots. The reverse of each ingot bears the name of the car and the country with which it is identified.

Each subscriber received a custom-designed collector's chest crafted of solid oak, and fitted with a transparent top. Some individual ingots were presented to automobile companies, but the entire collection was available only from the Mint. The complete collection of 50 ingots contains 38 troy ounces.

BIBLE TABLETS

CAT. CODE: TSB — FILE NO.: 979

The Silver Bible is a collection of 100 original works of art minted on sterling silver tablets, each inspired by one of the most loved and revered passages of the Holy Bible. This is the first medallic bible ever brought into being under the guidance of ecclesiastical authority. A specially constituted advisory board of the Pontifical Biblical Institute selected the 100 great biblical passages.

Europe's greatest medallic sculptors — Michael Rizzello, David Cornell, Savana Montanari and 8 others sculpted the original designs in finely detailed relief. Each design was reviewed and approved by the Institute's advisory board. The Institute also issued a Certificate of Authenticity attesting to theological correctness. Each tablet is accompanied by a commentary written especially for this collection by members of the Institute.

This collection was issued in the U.S. in a single edition limited to 1,000 subscriptions. An album designed to hold all 100 tablets, fully bound in leather and richly ornamented, was provided to each subscriber. The complete collection of 100 ingots contains 83 troy ounces.

CLASSIC CARS

CAT. CODE: CLC — FILE NO.: 1198

The Classic Car Museum in Victoria, British Columbia, Canada, was established in 1959 expressly for the purpose of acquiring, studying and preserving great classic cars. The Museum has obtained more than 100 of the finest classic cars in the world, all of which have been authentically restored and displayed for the benefit of automobile enthusiasts and the general public.

The Museum issued this collection of 63 ingots honoring 63 of the world's greatest, most beautiful and most intriguing cars. This series honors every marque (make of car) that is officially recognized as a "classic". The classic car has been officially defined as a "fine or distinctive American or foreign car built between 1925 and 1948," by the Classic Car Club of America, the definitive authority on great luxury automobiles of the world. Out of the thousands of cars that have been produced over the years, only 63 marques qualify as true classics. And each of these marques is represented in this collection by one specially outstanding model.

Each ingot is a totally authentic and accurate portrayal, in exacting detail, of the great classic car being honored. Even the most subtle and intricate features are portrayed. To gain a full appreciation of the beautiful design of each car, the ingots were produced in a unique oblong shape. This form allows every car to be shown in two different perspectives: from the front and from the side. The side view shows all the features clearly visible when one views a car from this angle. The front view shows all the relevant features clearly and accurately. These two distinct designs appear side-by-side on the face of the ingot. The reverse of each ingot provides the name of the classic car portrayed, and the official identifying emblem of the Classic Car Museum.

Each subscriber was provided with a special magnifier, so that the ingots may be studied close-up. A hardwood display case was provided as part of the collection. There was a limit of 1,500 proof sets in 24KT gold electroplate on sterling silver, and 1,500 in sterling silver. Every set is individually numbered. These will be the only proof sets of this collection ever to be produced.

During the war for independence, American patriots marched under many different flags which they had created as symbols for their cause. This collection of 64 flag ingots portrays all the American flags known to have flown during the Revolution. The flag designs were authenticated by Dr. Whitney Smith, Director of the Flag Heritage Foundation, and the nation's leading authority on flag history.

Each ingot conforms both to the design and proportions of the flag it depicts, therefore, the sizes and weights of each ingot vary. The complete collection of regular size sterling silver proof ingots contains 25,000 grains (52 troy ounces) of sterling silver. The complete collection of gold mini-ingots contains 2,000 grains of pure 24KT gold.

GEMS

CAT. CODE: OGI — FILE NO.: 1041

A select group of the world's leading gem houses have privately issued sterling silver presentation ingots for their prime customers, which were struck by the mint. Each ingot bears the official identifying mark of the gem house it represents. It thus serves as a "silver calling card" for that gem house.

The ingots in this collection are all different. Each ingot is set with a precious gem stone, the one most closely associated with the issuing gem house. Each one bears the name and official identifying symbol of the gem house issuing it, along with the city and county in which it is located. The ingot's reverse identifies the gem stone it contains, and includes a brief description of it.

Individual specimens of these official private presentation gem-ingots are minted in limited numbers, less than 100 a year. The mint offered a complete collection of these 30 sterling silver gem-ingots to its own collectors, and Diners Club Members. A custom-designed display case covered in genuine leather and fitted with a combination lock, was provided to each subscriber. Each ingot is accompanied by a specially-written reference folder, which has been prepared with the assistance of Dr. Eduard Gubelin, one of the world's leading gemologists. The complete collection of 30 ingots contains 23 troy ounces.

HOMER'S AMERICA

CAT. CODE: WHA — FILE NO.: 710

Winslow Homer is perhaps the greatest artist America has ever produced. His works, ranging from portrayals of American country life to seascapes of power and beauty, have inspired generations of Americans. His realism captured the freshness and vigor of rural America 100 years ago. He has been called 'the greatest pictorial poet of outdoor life in 19th century America', and the 'most American' artist who ever lived. In tribute to this great artist, this collection of 12 ingots portraying 12 of Winslow Homer's most famous works was issued.

The ingots are exceptionally large, measuring more than 3" long by 2" wide. The face of each ingot presents the masterpiece in finely sculptured detail. The reverse identifies the work and the date of its creation. The complete collection contains more than 15,000 grains of pure silver. KABUKI

CAT. CODE: KBI — FILE NO.: 646

Kabuki is the great traditional drama of Japan. It has been called the most perfect and complete form of theatrical expression in all the world. The official Japanese Kabuki Theatre in Tokyo commissioned The Franklin Mint's affiliate in Japan to create this collection of 18 ingots. LAST SUPPER

CAT. CODE: LSI — FILE NO.: 723

"I was always inspired by Da Vinci's overwhelming achievement in creating 'The Last Supper'," Fritz Weiland says, "and I knew the painting was gradually disappearing from the wall. I decided it would be a good thing to create 'The Last Supper' in metal, to make it permanent so it would never be lost to us. This interpretation of 'The Last Supper' was first conceived 50 years ago by the brilliant artist and engraver Fritz Weiland, and protected and preserved throughout a career of achievement. He retired in 1975, at the age of 75, as master engraver of the mint. This is the first issue of this work of art.

Weiland worked from a reproduction of 'The Last Supper' that was unclear because the original work done by Leonardo in the 15th century was faded. So he engraved what he thought Leonardo would have wanted. Weiland engraved the work directly into steel, in reverse, creating in one hand-operation the dies from which the finished ingot was struck. It was struck in relief, then antiqued to bring out the beauty of the work. Each ingot is issued custom-mounted in a hardwood frame.

The surface area of the ingot is more than 7.5 square inches. Each silveringot contains at least 2500 grains of pure (.999 fine) silver (5.2 troy ounces). The reverse of the ingot bears Fritz Weiland's signature, etched into the ingot, to certify the authenticity of the work.

RACING CARS

CAT. CODE: GRC — FILE NO.: 769

In 1902, for the first time, an automobile race was run over several laps on a closed course — the Circuit des Ardennes in Belgium. Within a few years, closed circuit auto racing won international recognition as the ideal form of high-speed competition. To commemorate the 75th Anniversary of that event, the Federation Internationale de l'Automobile (F.I.A.), the world governing body for automobile racing, authorized a collection of 75 sterling silver ingots honoring the World's Greatest Racing Cars. This is the first official collection ever authorized by the F.I.A.

The cars to be honored in this collection were chosen by the F.I.A. and include every category of racing car. The face of each ingot bears a detailed sculpture of the car it honors, while the reverse features a summary of that car's racing history, in both English and French.

A custom-designed collector's chest crafted of mahogany was provided to each subscriber as part of the subscription. It includes specially-fitted drawers and a carved design portraying crossed checkered flags, symbols of victory. The complete collection of 75 ingots contains 71 troy ounces.

RAILROAD EMBLEMS

CAT. CODE: RRE — FILE NO.: 1115

During the golden days of the railroads, the last half of the 19th century, hundreds of steel ribbons stretched their way inland from the Atlantic and Pacific tying America together. Always in the spotlight of railroading, always there when railroading history was made were the railroad's emblems, emblazoned in bright, stylish designs. Like banners, these emblems heralded the passing of the train to admiring onlookers. To the employees, these emblems became an object of dedication and pride. These identifying emblems, their coat-of-arms, symbolized the tradition, the adventures and the romantic past of railroading.

The mint in cooperation with the management of the 50 greatest American railroads is paying tribute to the history of railroading by issuing this collection of 50 hand-enameled, sterling silver ingots. Each ingot bears an authentic and true re-creation of the emblem design of one of the great American railroads, deeply recessed into the surface of the ingot. Each emblem design is individually hand-painted with rich enamel colors, and each of these colors is applied separately, one by one. Many of the ingots are embellished with 24KT gold.

A custom-designed collector's chest of solid oak, fitted with a transparent top was provided to each subscriber. The complete collection of 50 ingots contains 38 troy ounces.

REGIMENTAL EMBLEMS

CAT. CODE: WGR — FILE NO. 120

The exploits of the greatest regiments of all time are the stuff of history. They have been documented in eyewitness reports, recorded in countless books, praised in story and song, and spoken of with admiration. The International Military Archives in Washington, D.C., a center dedicated to the study and dissemination of military history, issued this collection of the badges of the 50 greatest regiments of all time.

Regimental emblems are the most fascinating of all military insignia. They are heraldic in bearing, rich in meaning, bold in design and vivid in color. This collection consists of 50 individual ingots of solid sterling silver. These emblems are historically correct and faithful to the heraldic bearings of the original designs in every detail of color and form. The emblems are minted in detailed sculptured relief. Into the minted recesses in the ingot, rich enamel colors are hand applied - one color at a time. More than half of these emblems are embellished with 24KT gold, whenever a golden color traditionally appeared. The reverse of the ingot identifies the regiments name, and the country of origin.

Archivists have prepared a specially written regimental history to accompany each ingot. These histories also provide fascinating stories associated with the emblems. A collector's campaign chest, with corner plates and fittings, to house and protect the complete collection was also provided.

SHIPS — REGISTER OF AMERICAN FIGHTING SHIPS

CAT. CODE: ASH — FILE NO.: 1177

In a single, dramatic encounter on September 28, 1779, John Paul Jones and the Bonhomme Richard defeated the Serapis, the pride of the Royal Navy, and established a tradition that has inspired American seamen for two centuries. Many consider it America's single most important victory. On the occasion of the 200th anniversary of that first great American naval victory, the National Maritime Historical Society (NMHS) issued this collection in tribute to America's naval heritage. These 50 sterling silver ingots honor the 50 greatest fighting ships ever to have flown America's colors. It encompasses the entire history of the American Navy, and honors ships of every era. Each ingot portrays one of the ships in intricate and authentic detail.

Each ship is portrayed at a significant moment in its service career—with spar, mast, stack, gunport and turret in sculptured relief. Each ship is fully authenticated by the NMHS. The reverse of each ingot identifies the ship portrayed, its type and such important registry data as commissioning date, length and displacement. An oak collector's chest fitted with a transparent top was provided to each subscriber.

23rd PSALM

CAT. CODE: TNC — FILE NO. 209

The comforting words of the 23rd Psalm have echoed down through the ages since the young shepherd David first set them to the music of his harp. They are a celebration of the Glory and Goodness of God: an affirmation of the spirit that can inspire mankind. Today, there is a deeply felt need for such inspiration. This collection of 10 ingots is a medallic interpretation of the spirit and of the scenes evoked by the 23rd Psalm.

The obverse of each sculptured Antique/Proof ingot reflects the artist's visual interpretation of a different line from the psalm, while the reverse bears the inscription of the line portrayed. The background of each ingot, in traditional antique finish, is characterized by bold design and sharply defined relief. The inset displays the mirror-like quality of the proof finish. The antique finish background depicts a broad panoramic scene, while the proof quality inset focuses on another aspect of the inscription that is portrayed.

Each ingot is minted as a tablet, in the shape of the Romanesque arch characteristic of religious architecture. Each ingot contains at least 1,000 grains of sterling silver. A collector's case fitted with a special display frame was provided as part of the collection. The complete collection of 10 ingots contains 20 troy ounces.

BIRDS AND FLOWERS OF THE ORIENT

CAT. CODE: BFO — FILE NO.: 1154

Naoka Nobata is one of the most brilliant and imaginative of today's painters in the traditional Oriental style. She is celebrated in her native land both for her exceptional talent and the sensitivity of her technique. She is the foremost exponent of the classic "Rimpa" tradition of Oriental art, which intertwines the real and imaginary.

Her works have been shown at important art exhibitions throughout Japan. These 12 porcelain plates are her first works of art in porcelain. This collection portrays exquisite flowers of Oriental lore and legend, and the exotic birds associated with them. Each of the plates is a distinctive work of art.

Each plate represents a different month of the Oriental Calendar and combines the flower and bird symbolizing that month. The plates are exceptionally large, 10- 1/4" in diameter, and each plate is hand-decorated with a border of 24KT gold.

Each plate is produced in the finest Japanese porcelain, highly prized for its translucence and strength. A wide variety of colors were used in the creation of these designs. Also, floral elements of the design on the front form a floral border on the reverse.

The first edition of these plates is a special limited Signature Edition. It is the only edition in which the artist's "hanko" (personal signature mark) is impressed by hand on the reverse of each plate. Included with each plate was fascinating reference information and 12 individual wall brackets for display of all the plates.

CINDERELLA

CAT. CODE: CNP — FILE NO.: 1002

Of all the world's fairy tales, the story of Cinderella is perhaps the most universal and best-loved. Its author is Charles Perrault, an illustrous man of letters of the 17th century. In honor of the 350th anniversary of his birth, this Limoges porcelain plate was issued. This intricately decorated plate bears 9 different works of art that, together, tell a story.

Each scene depicts one of the unforgettable episodes of the fairy tale. Each was created solely and exclusively for this plate by the famous European artist Pauline Ellison. Eight vignettes surround the circumference of the plate. Cinderella dressed in rags, seated among the ashes in the corner of the fireplace. Her ugly step-sisters receiving invitations to the ball. Cinderella dressing her step-sisters' hair. The magic pumpkin coach. Cinderella's rags transformed by the touch of her fairy godmother's wand into the most beautiful of ball gowns. Cinderella dancing with the prince. Her flight at the stroke of midnight, when her glass slipper is lost on the palace steps. The moment when her tiny foot slips easily into the glass slipper. At the center of the plate, the ending, when she marries her prince.

Each plate is crafted of the finest French porcelain, by the firm of Haviland of Limoges. Each plate is decorated with 24KT gold — around each individual scene and the ornamentation that unites the scenes. As many as 14 ceramic colors were used in this plate.

DAYS OF THE WEEK

CAT. CODE: DWP — FILE NO. 1058

Monday's child is fair of face . . . Tuesday's child is full of grace . . . so goes the old rhyme, through the days of the week. The charming lines of this delightful and well-loved verse were the inspiration for this collection of 7 porcelain plates.

The original works of art created solely for these plates by the outstanding young English artist Caroline Ebborn portray, one by one, the 7 days of the rhyme. A different plate for each day of the week. And in the artist's imaginative interpretation, each day's "child" is symbolized by an engaging little baby animal.

An intricate border encircles the center of each plate—a different one for every day of the week. Around the rim of each plate there is a hand-applied band of 24KT gold. The back of each plate bears the signature of the artist, together with the appropriate line of the "Monday's child" rhyme. These plates were made in Japan expressly for Franklin Porcelain. An individual display stand was included with each plate.

FAIRY TALES MINIATURES

CAT. CODE: BLF — FILE NO.: 1143

Each of the 50 miniature fine bone-china plates in this collection portrays a favorite scene from one of the world's best-loved fairy tales. The collection is the creation of one of the most gifted young artists of our time, Carol Lawson, who chose the tales to be featured, and the particular scenes portrayed. (Each plate is accompanied by the artist's comments on why she chose the tale, and her own approach to its portrayal.) The 50 works of art were created expressly for this collection.

Fine bone china was chosen for this collection because of its pure white color, and its translucency which makes it ideal for the clear bright colors the artist uses. Glazed bone china has a certain richness especially when it is decorated with gold. Miniature plates were chosen because the daintiness of the plates would complement the fairy tales themselves, which are filled with evidence of a fascination with all things miniature. Each plate is rich in fascinating and precise detail.

The intricate and delicate border design which encircles each plate is of 24KT gold. It is an interweaving of attractive decorative motifs. The Signature Edition bears on the back of each plate the artist's full signature in 24KT gold. This is the only edition to bear the artist's full signature. Each subscriber also received a hardwood frame with shelves to accomodate the complete collection.

FLOWERS OF THE AMERICAN WILDERNESS

CAT. CODE: FAW — FILE NO.: 959

The flowers of the American wilderness are among the most beautiful of our natural treasures. The Sierra Club, America's foremost conservation organization, has commissioned Jeanne Holgate one of the world's finest floral artists to capture these flowers with accurracy and realism. The Sierra Club, founded more than 85 years ago, has been dedicated to protecting and conserving our nation's rich and scenic beauty. The Club seeks to broaden the public's awareness, appreciation and enjoyment of our natural resources, scenic areas and wilderness. Jeanne Holgate's work is a permanent part of the great floral art collections of the world. She has taught floral art for several years at America's famed Longwood Gardens, and is the only artist ever to win two successive gold medals by the Royal Horticultural Society.

The artist works directly from the living flower, and depicts each wildflower exactly as it is in nature. Each of the 12 porcelain plates in this collection measures 7-3/4" in diameter, a size chosen especially to enhance the delicate beauty of its subject. Each of the original works of art created exclusively for this collection portrays the loveliest wildflowers of a different region of the U.S. Thus, together, the complete collection portrays America's most distinctive and beautiful wildflowers.

Each plate is crafted of fine Bavarian porcelain, decorated with a border of 24KT gold. A display stand was provided with each plate.

FOLK ART OF TURN-OF-THE-CENTURY AMERICA

Jo Sickbert is the most popular folk art painter in the U.S. today. Her paintings have graced the cover of The Saturday Evening Post and the pages of the Chicago Tribune Sunday Magazine. Like other self-taught artists of the past, she has created her own fresh, innocent and joyous vision of the world.

It is a vision that has charm, nostalgia and emotional appeal. The setting is small-town America at the turn of the century. And in that setting she has created a work that is full of gaiety, happiness and fun. Full of delightful surprises, such as her use of balloons, parasols and flags, for example, to create an enchanting composition. It is "primitive art" — naive, natural, popular folk art.

The plates bear new and original works of art created solely and exclusively for this edition. Each Japanese porcelain plate is decorated with a border of pure 24KT gold. They are Jo Sickbert's first collector's plates.

FRANKLIN, BEN., PRINTER

CAT. CODE: FPR — FILE NO.: 1072

To the world, Benjamin Franklin was a statesman, a scientist, a journalist, a philosopher, a diplomat, an inventor, and one of America's greatest patriots. But when Franklin himself wrote his last will and testament, he began with these simple words: "I, Benjamin Franklin, Printer . . . " This is the way Franklin thought of himself, first and foremost. As a printer, he gave the world "Poor Richard's Almanack," "The Pennsylvania Gazettee" and many other periodicals, tracts and books — including the first novel ever published in America.

The 250th anniversary of Franklin's establishment of his press in Philadelphia was celebrated in 1978. On that occasion, this new work of art was issued honoring the genius of Benjamin Franklin, Printer. This original detailed collector's plate in fine porcelain depicts young Franklin at his press. Each sculptured, bas-relief plate was crafted, almost entirely by hand, in parian porcelain, with the design in ivory tones of white against a dusky blue background.

Parian is admired for its unique quality of translucence. By varying the depth of relief, a craftsman can create varieties of tone and shade within a single work. The visual effect in this sculpture approaches that of fine marble. The total edition of this plate was reserved solely for Collectors Society Members.

GAME BIRDS OF THE WORLD

CAT. CODE: GBR — FILE NO.: 1025

Basil Ede, of Sussex, England, has been called the "outstanding wild bird portraitist of his generation, and perhaps of his century." He is widely regarded as Europe's most distinguished bird artist. His works are represented in many prominent public and private collections. He created the works of art in this series of 12 plates, which portray the beauty and grace of game birds in precise, authentic detail. These are new and original works of art created expressly and exclusively for this edition.

These plates were crafted in France because the translucence and whiteness of fine French porcelain are ideally suited to bring out the subtle colors of Ede's art. The plates are large enough to provide for the portrayal of the game birds in their natural habitat. Each plate is hand-decorated with a border of 24KT gold, and incorporates as many as sixteen separate ceramic colors. Each plate is accompanied by a special display stand.

GRIMM'S FAIRY TALES

CAT. CODE: GFT — FILE NO. 562

Among life's most cherished memories are the timeless tales recorded for posterity over 150 years ago, in the legendary forests of Germany, by the Brothers Grimm. Enchanting tales that enthralled us in childhood, remained memories as we grew and continue to enrich our lives. Employing words and images, Jakob and Wilhelm Grimm emblazoned pictures on the windows of the mind. Translated into nearly 100 different languages, the enchanting tales they wove have become classics of an art whose appeal is universal and immortal. Over the years artists of almost every nationality have attempted to capture the charm and flavor of these tales.

Each plate in this collection of 12 hand crafted fine Bavarian porcelain plates bears an original work of art portraying a scene from one of the 12 most beloved of all the Grimm's fairy tales. These works are executed in more than 20 different ceramic colors. The paintings that adorn the plates are by one of the most eminent of contemporary European artists, Carol Lawson — whose lyrical style and vivid sense of color are virtually unmatched in her field. Each of these paintings has been executed exclusively and expressly for this collection. Carol Lawson has also designed the ornate circular border design which frames each painting, and which is individually hand-applied to every plate in 24KT gold.

MOTHER'S DAY

CAT. CODE: PMD — FILE NO.: 1/698, 2/952

Each year since 1977, Franklin Porcelain has issued an annual Mother's Day plate in Parian Porcelain. Each plate bears a traditional scene between Mother and Child, sculptured in fine detail. The designs are in white ivory tones over a pastel colored background. Parian takes its name from the translucent marble quarried on the Greek island of Paros. Parian has long been treasured by collectors for its translucence, as well as its ability to reflect subtle nuances of tone and color. It is ideally suited to express themes involving sensitive moods and emotions.

Each original sculpture was created exclusively for issue in each plate. It will never appear again in any other form.

ORIENTAL

CAT. CODE: ORP — FILE NO. 1030

The artists of Japan have been masters of the porcelain art for three centuries, and among their favorite themes have been the sea and the mountains. In Oriental lore, the foam crested waves of the ocean represented purity—and the majestic mountains, strength. This legend has been interpreted in this porcelain plate. Each plate is hand-decorated with a border of pure 22KT gold. A matching Oriental Bowl is illustrated in the Bowls section of this Guidebook.

PETER PAN

CAT. CODE: PAN — FILE NO.: 1083

In 1979, the 75th anniversary of the first performance of J.M. Barrie's immortal play Peter Pan, was celebrated. To mark the event, Carol Lawson, one of the world's most gifted artists created this special tribute to Peter Pan. Her lyrical style and vivid sense of color are admired especially for her ability to reawaken the special joys of childhood.

This plate is crafted of fine English porcelain, in 12 separate colors, and captures the most memorable moment in the story of Peter Pan. The instant when Wendy and her brothers first realize that, like Peter himself, they too can fly, if only they believe. The central scene is framed within a circular frieze of velvety-blue, suggesting the star-studded London night sky, which in turn is surrounded by an hand-embellished border of 24KT gold.

This original work by the artist has never appeared before, nor will it ever be issued again, in any form whatsoever. It is the only commemorative plate that has been authorized for issue, by anyone, during the Peter Pan anniversary. This plate was made available in 1979 only by Franklin Porcelain and by a few dealers.

PRINCE AND PRINCESS

CAT. CODE: WAP — FILE NO.: 1225

This imperial decorative commemorative plate (Hiyoki, Renri) from Japan celebrates the 20th wedding anniversary of The Crown Prince Akihito and The Crown Princess Michiko. It is crafted in fine porcelain by the House of Okura, porcelain makers by appointment to the Japanese Imperial Household. The design on the plate was inspired by the epic poem by Po Chu-i, one of the distinguished poets of the T'ang Dynasty. The theme of the eternal love of a couple was described in the last few lines of the poem, and it is honored in this plate.

"Hiyoko-no-Tori" are mythical birds with one wing each, which always fly in pairs; they are the symbol of the oath of eternal love. "Renri-no—Eda" means two trees with entwined branches. Originally, the word "Renri" referred to filial affection; however, as time passed, it came to symbolize the tight bond of a couple. The plate was designed by T. Okamoto, Chief Designer of the House of Okura. In the design, the Hiyoku-no-Tori are represented by two Imperial Phoenixes, and the entwined trees of the Renri-no-Eda are the Kiri (Paulownia), the emblem of the Crown Prince, and the Shirakaba (White Birch), the emblem of Princess Michiko.

The reverse of the plate has the hand applied personal seal of the designer to certify that this is his original work of art. It was made available in the U.S. exclusively through a small number of authorized retail dealers, only in the anniversary year, 1979. Selected collectors in Japan and Germany were also given the opportunity to purchase this plate.

SONGBIRDS OF THE WORLD

CAT. CODE: SWP — FILE NO.: 706

The National Audubon Society authorized the creation of a series of porcelain plates portraying the world's most beautiful birds. The first collection in this series is the Songbirds of the World. This is the first collection of porcelain plates ever to carry the name and official authorization of the National Audubon Society. This collection comprises 12 fine English bone china plates, each bearing an original work of art by one of the world's leading wildlife artists, Arthur Singer. Mr. Singer created these new works of art exclusively for this series, and they will never appear again.

Arthur Singer created all of the illustrations for the famous nature book, 'Birds of the World.' He has also created works of art for the National Georgraphic Society and has had his paintings exhibited by the New York Zoological Society. In this collection, he has portrayed every fine detail of each bird in his art. Each bird is depicted in its natural colors and shadings — just as it appears in nature. To assure their accuracy, the designs were authenticated by the National Audubon Society.

These plates are crafted in English bone china by Josiah Wedgewood and Sons, Ltd. of Barlaston, Stoke-on-trent, England, one of the most distinguished names in fine bone china. Each plate measures 10-1/2" in diameter and each plate is ornamented with a border decorated in pure 24KT gold.

BUTTERFLIES OF THE WORLD

CAT. CODE: BWP — FILE NO.: 725

The fine art technique of champleve, hand-enameling on precious metals, that originated more than 2,000 years ago was used to create this series of 6 collectors plates. The collection combines sterling silver with the colors of butterflies, leaves and flowers. Each of the plates portrays one or more of the most striking butterflies of a major continent of the world. The design for each plate is an original work of art, created exclusively for this collection. Each work is enameled in France, under the direct supervision of Rene Restoueix, who holds the title of Master Enameler of Limoges. (The French at Limoges have created masterpieces of Champleve for more than 700 years.)

Each color is applied separately, by hand, under the personal direction of Rene Restoueix. The enamels are permanently bonded to the silver by intense heat. To achieve the variety of effects that champleve affords, certain enamels are applied in depth, to create an opaque design. Others are inlaid so that the light can shine from within. Since each plate is created by hand, no two are exactly alike. Each plate shows subtle differences in shading, in color, and in depths of relief.

The reverse of each plate bears a sterling silver medallion which includes the signature mark of Rene Restoueix, the title of the plate, and an individual serial number registered in the owner's name. Each plate was accompanied by a custom-designed hardwood frame, matted in soft velvet.

FREEDOM

CAT. CODE: FRP — FILE NO.: 1/774

America's Bicentennial Era extends well past 1976. For many of the events most vital to the establishment of the U. S. as a free nation took place after the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Recognizing this, the Bicentennial Council of the 13 Original States, which represents the individual Bicentennial commissions of all 13 of America's founding states, is issuing a series of annual Freedom Plates, each commemorating a momentous event in America's march to freedom in the years after 1776.

The first plate, commemorating the year 1777, portrays the meeting of General George Washington and the Marquis de Lafayette, the young French nobleman who came to America to risk his life and fortune in the cause of freedom.

The plate itself is of sterling silver. The sculptured central scene which portrays the meeting between Washington and Lafayette is vignetted in 24KT gold electroplate on sterling silver. The etched legend around the rim is inlaid with 24KT gold. Each plate bears a serial number which is individually registered in the owner's name. Each plate was issued in a satin- lined library case.

COLLECTOR'S SPOONS

Collector's spoons have been treasured by discriminating collectors for thousands of years. The ancient Roman silversmiths fashioned patterns (examples) beautifully decorated with mythological designs — for their wealthier patrons. In Egypt, silver spoons crafted by highly skilled artists were used in religious services. As late as the 13th century, dinner guests carried their own silver spoons in individual velvet pouches.

Spoons especially for collectors first became popular about 1890. These spoons, made in elaborate designs to commemorate people, places and events throughout the United States, have always been avidly sought by aficionadoes. The Franklin Mint issued its first set of limited edition spoons in 1972.

APOSTLE MINIATURES

CAT. CODE: APN — FILE NO. 1111

Four centuries ago, Apostle Spoons were the most popular and the most important of all spoons. Complete sets of 13 spoons were often bestowed as important christening gifts by royalty and nobility. This new set of miniature Apostle Spoons consists of 13 sculptured spoons.

Each of the sculptured figures on the spoons is a new and original work of art. The 12 spoons of the Apostles measures just over 2 1/2" in length, while the Master Spoon of Jesus measures just under 3". The sculptured figures themselves measure less than 1" from head to toe. These spoons are crafted in gold vermeil, 24KT gold on sterling silver, just as the most important Apostle Spoons of old were crafted.

Every detail of each miniature figure is clearly detailed. The work of art includes the symbols traditionally associated with each figure. A pattern of three circles suggests the halo behind each head, as well as the Holy Trinity, and this pattern of three is continued throughout the spoon design. A display frame was provided to each subscriber.

CANTERBURY TALES

CAT. CODE: CTS — FILE NO.: 855

The 500th anniversary of the first printing of Geoffrey Chaucer's Canterbury Tales by William Caxton, the father of English printing, was celebrated in 1978. It still remains one of the liveliest, most delightful of the world's literary masterpieces. The characters are as fascinating, as fresh and as real as they were on the day the book first appeared.

To mark this historic anniversary, the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury Cathedral commissioned the creation of this collection of 24 sculptured pewter spoons. Each spoon portrays a member of the company of pilgrims who took part in the storytelling on the road to Canterbury Cathedral, a pilgrimage to one of the most important shrines in Christendom. Each of the sculptured figures on the stems of the spoons is an original design, created in England by the noted British artist Philip Nathan, whose portrait figures for this collection are completely true to Chaucer's own descriptions.

Each spoon is crafted in fine pewter, and hand-finished to bring out its rich lustre. A spoon rack designed to hold all 24 spoons was provided to each subscriber. The Certificate of Authenticity is issued by the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury Cathedral.

STATE FLOWER MINIATURES

CAT. CODE: SFS FILE NO. 82

Over the years, state flora emblems have appeared in many forms: floral art, needlework, book illustrations — and they have been used for state and national conventions. For the first time, all 50 official State flowers are represented in this collection of 50 miniature sterling silver spoons. The stem of each spoon is adorned with an intricate flower design.

Since the art of fashioning spoons in precious metal was discovered in ancient times, the craft of spoon-making has evolved to a high level of beauty and design. Each of these spoons faithfully portrays each flower in sculptured relief. Each spoon is minted to capture all the minute detail which the design requires. To house this collection, a solid hardwood presentation chest was specially created. It is designed so that, with the lid removed, the base serves equally well as a wall frame with a place for every spoon.

PEWTER SCULPTURE

Sculpture can range in size from the Colossus of Rhodes to miniatures that can be displayed at home on coffee tables or in cabinets. Today, the trend is toward smallness — sculpture that satisfies the senses rather than overwhelms one by its size. Equally important is the fact that while many people wish to collect and enjoy sculpture, comparatively few have either the space or resources required for large sculptures which are more properly the domain of museums and national monuments. Since 1974, The Franklin Mint has made available sculptures of small size appropriate for collectors. Subjects range from the historical to the purely artistic.

ARRIVAL OF THE SANTE FE

CAT. CODE: ASF — FILE NO.: 1181

Don Polland is regarded as one of America's greatest Western sculptors. A brilliant artist whose works capture the very essence of life in the Old West. This panoramic sculpture captures the drama, excitement and vitality of one of the most colorful periods in the history of the American West.

With the coming of the railroad in the 1870's, America's frontiers surged Westward. In the wake of the ever-expanding network of railroad tracks, new towns sprang up virtually overnight. For those who lived and worked in these towns, the railroad provided a vital link to the outside world. The arrival of each train was an important and eagerly awaited event.

This sculpture captures such a moment, just as it might have happened nearly a century ago in a thriving cattle town on the Kansas prairie. The train has just rolled to a stop, and the station platform is the center of that frontier world. At the head of the train is the locomotive "Cyrus K. Holliday" named for the founder of The Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. Following the coal tender is the passenger car. There are more than 20 separate figures, as well as horses and other animals.

On the station platform, a youngster waves to the brakeman who stands at the edge of the coal tender. A cowboy on horseback greets a familiar passenger. The conductor hops down to the platform to help a woman and her daughter board the train. In the rear of the car, an Army paymaster descends the stairs carrying the monthly payroll for the cavalry troops stationed in the area. This action-filled tableau is finely detailed and completely accurate and authentic. The total edition is limited to no more than 750. Each work of art is serially numbered and each is individually finished by hand, and mounted on a base of solid mahogany.

GREAT AMERICANS

CAT. CODE: GRA — FILE NO

The National Historical Society, Gettysburg, Pa., issued this collection of 50 miniature pewter sculptures portraying 50 great men and women whose achievements are part of America's story. Americans who have distinguished themselves in different eras, and in every field from government to the arts, from invention to medicine, and from literature to exploration.

One of the most fascinating art forms is the sculptured miniature. Outstanding examples of this art are a relative rarity, because of the challenge they pose to even accomplished sculptors. Each of the great Americans portrayed is depicted in a pose that evokes the essence of his or her character and personality. Not the usual familiar "public image"—but a less formal, and more lifelike personal view.

Each figure is totally accurate and authentic—based on careful historical research. These sculptures are so meticulously designed that the smallest details can be readily seen. This gallery of historical art is crafted of fine American pewter, a metal whose smooth surface and warm sheen have been prized by collectors since the Colonial era. Each sculpture is cast, then hand-finished and hand-polished. An integral pewter base bears the name of the man or woman depicted.

A custom-designed, five-tiered wall rack was included with each collection. A special magnifier to view the minute detail of the sculptures was also included. This edition was limited to 7,500 sets.

HOLDUP OF THE OVERLAND STAGE

CAT. CODE: HOS – FILE NO. 831

In the 1860's the stagecoach reigned as the foremost means of travel on the great plains and mountains beyond the Missouri. Long before the coming of the railroad, it was the chief carrier of passengers, mail and freight, including both gold and silver bullion from the mines of Nevada and California. As a result, stagecoaches became prime targets for outlaws. This sculpture captures the drama of one such confrontation just as it might have happened.

An outlaw, who has just grabbed the bridle of the 'leader' horses, is twisting it to bring the 6-horse team to a halt. A second outlaw holds a 6-shooter on the passengers. Up on the driver's seat the guard gazes down at the shotgun pointed at him by the third member of the gang, as the driver struggles to control his team. Beneath the guard rests the strongbox. From inside the coach, the 3 passengers stare at the outlaws in a state of shock. The sculpture includes 8 separate figures and 9 horses.

This new and original work of American Western Art was created by Gordon Phillips, one of the finest Western artists America has ever produced. His devotion to historical accuracy is reflected in the finished sculpture; he has portrayed every detail of the scene with perfect authenticity. Each sculpture is individually cast and hand-finished in fine American pewter. The work was issued in a serially numbered edition of 750. It is mounted on a base of solid mahogany.

INVENTIONS THAT SHAPED THE MODERN WORLD

CAT. CODE: ISW – FILE NO. 1054

For nearly 3 million years, man has existed on this planet. But, for most of that time, he lived in ignorance and superstition. Yet today, we stand at the very threshold of the stars. This emergence from the shadows of pre-history was made possible largely by man's genius for invention. That dimension of the human brain which has given birth to ideas that have changed the course of civilization. A number of these technological achievements have actually occurred within living memory.

The Deutsches Museum in Munich, West Germany, the largest museum of science and technology in the world, marked the occasion of its 75th anniversary in 1978, by issuing this collection of 10 pewter sculptures. Each re-creates an historic "moment of invention", and pays homage to 10 of the most important landmarks in the history of invention. Each sculpture depicts the invention itself and the man credited with its creation.

Each of the detailed sculptures is an original work of art, created exclusively for this collection. Each sculpture has been authenticated for scientific accuracy by the Museum. Each sculpture is individually hand-finished to bring out every feature and detail.

KINGS AND QUEENS OF ENGLAND

CAT. CODE: KQS – FILE NO.

People of the English-Speaking World are always aware of the glorious heritage which is the British monarchy. And at no time was this awareness stronger—in Britain itself—than in 1978, the 25th anniversary year of the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. In the spirit of this heritage, Britain's Society of Portrait Sculptors issued this historic collection comprising 43 full figure pewter sculptures in miniature, portraying every reigning English monarch since Edward the Confessor. Each is an original work of art in its own right—an extraordinary example of portrait sculpture in miniature.

The artist who was chosen to create the figures in this cavalcade of monarchy through the ages is a sculptor of outstanding ability. His name is Roger Saunders. Saunders has based the figures on a wide-ranging study of the most authentic sources in each case.

The figures vary in height; a consistent scale was used throughout the collection to reflect the differences in stature among the 43 monarchs. The sculptor has worked throughout at the actual size of the finished figures—no reduction has been made from larger originals, as is the case with many works of this kind.

Each figure is portrayed so that the smallest detail of dress is conveyed with great immediacy. Each sculpture is individually cast to the Society's commission in fine pewter. Each is cast with an integral base of pewter, bearing the name and dates of reign of the monarch portrayed.

MAIN STREET AMERICA

CAT. CODE: MSA — FILE NO.: 780, 845, 982

One of the most delightful and appealing periods in American life was the turn of the century, the early 1900's. It was a time when colorful brass bands played in the village square on Sunday afternoons. When young and old alike took to the bicycle. When the tinkling sound of a player piano could be heard in the front parlor. When the dashing young man of the day would spend Saturday night with his best girl friend at the soda fountain on Main Street.

This collection of 4 original pewter sculptures captures the atmosphere and charm of this fabled era in America's past. Each work of art was designed and sculptured by the talented American artist, Albert Ciriaco. They are fully authentic in every respect and highly detailed.

This is the most comprehensive collection of military sculptures ever created to honor American fighting men.

Each miniature pewter sculpture is finely detailed and totally authentic. Each figure portrays an American fighting man in the uniform of his service at a specific period in America's history. The sculptures honor heroes of every rank and service. Each figure is a new and original work of art created solely and exclusively for this collection by Ron Hinote, one of America's leading sculptors of military miniatures. To assure authenticity, each figure is sculpted from a living model wearing the actual uniform portrayed.

Each pewter figure is individually hand-finished and hand-polished. The rank, service and year is etched in the base of each sculpture. Every subscriber received a five-tiered display cabinet crafted of cherry wood solids and veneers, and fitted with latching glass doors.

MUSTANGS OF THE AMERICAN WEST

CAT. CODE: MUS — FILE NO.: 770, 836, 941, 999

For Don Polland, mustangs are the embodiment of all that is spirited and free. As a boy, growing up in the West, the sight of them fired his imagination. Now, as a sculptor, he has found these beautiful free-roaming creatures to be a most natural and rewarding subject for his art. Polland is considered to be among the front rank of today's Western artists.

This collection of 4 original pewter sculptures was created by Don Polland and portrays mustangs of the American West. Each sculpture is cast in fine pewter, and is finished by hand with a soft patina that provides highlighting for the fine detail. The base of each work bears its title, along with the personal signature mark of Don Polland. These works have never been issued before and will never be made available again.

NOBLE AMERICANS (INDIANS)

For untold centuries, the Indian was America's native nobility, sovereigns of the land from sea to sea, the rulers of their own world. To appropriately honor this unique and remarkable heritage, the Museum of the American Indian in New York City, which is dedicated to the preservation of all things connected with the native peoples of the Americas, presented, in 1978, a comprehensive special exhibition devoted to the history and culture of these peoples.

On the occasion of this exhibition, the Museum announced this collection of 12 full figure pewter sculptures portraying the Indian men and women who once ruled this land. Each figure has exceptional quality of detail, and is individually sculptured and cast in fine pewter. The Museum authenticated every detail of each figure. The museum's scholars also supervised the preparation of the information reference folders that accompanied the sculptures. They describe in detail the activity each figure portrays, the historic costume and regalia, and the role each played in the life and ritual of the tribe.

Each new work of art is cast and hand-finished, and each stands on its own sculptured pewter base. Each base carries the name of the Indian tribal nation that sculpture represents.

PARADE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

CAT CODE: PAM — FILE NO.: 974

For over 250 years, The Saturday Evening Post has been recording the American scene with its remarkable portrayals of Americans in every walk of life. On the occasion of its 250th anniversary in 1978, The Post issued a collection of 50 miniature pewter sculptures that captures the rich and varied panorama of American life — from The Post's unique viewpoint.

This collection portrays the men and women of America through each of those 25 decades. Each decade is represented by 2 figures: a man and a woman, costumed in the dress of that period and portrayed in a manner reminiscent of the time. Each of these 50 detailed pewter figures captures the authentic feeling of the period it represents.

Each of the 50 figures is an original work of art, created exclusively for this series by Ronald Hinote, one of America's most distinguished sculptors of miniature figures. Hinote's work is widely admired for its artistic quality as well as its wealth of detail. Each figure is hand-finished to bring out every feature of the sculptor's work and the rich lustre of the metal. The signature mark of the sculptor appears on each figure. A 5-tiered hardwood cabinet was provided for display of the complete collection.

RENAISSANCE GUILDS MASTER CRAFTSMEN

CAT. CODE: CRG — FILE NO.: 844

Pride in craftsmanship has always been admired and respected by collectors throughout the world. And above all, it was the ancient European craft guilds which, for centuries, were responsible for establishing and maintaining the highest standards of excellence. During the Renaissance, these craft guilds reached the zenith of perfection. And their master craftsmen created magnificent works which have been passed down to us as a cultural legacy. This collection of 12 pewter sculptures, created by The Franklin Mint Germany, is an historic tribute to these master craftsmen.

Each sculpture is an original work of art by the distinguished European sculptor Quirin Roth. In these sculptures, he has portrayed the great Renaissance craftsmen exactly as they appeared centuries ago. Each is portrayed as he labors at his own craft. The figures are exceptionally detailed and have been authenticated for historical accuracy. They are crafted of fine pewter, and individually hand-finished to enhance the natural patina of this metal. Each figure stands on its own integral, sculptured base. Each base bears an emblem symbolizing the guild of the craftsman portrayed.

WATERLOO'S GREAT REGIMENTS

CAT. CODE: GRW — FILE NO. 1126

Finely crafted miniature military figures are rich with historic detail and have been admired and collected for centuries throughout the world. Collectors seek out works of artistry and high craftsmanship, preferably dealing with great battles of history. They prize those beautiful hand-painted miniatures which are authentic and historically detailed. To fill this need, Les Amis du Musee Wellington at Waterloo, Belgium, which is the definitive authority on the subject, situated actually on the battlefield at Waterloo, issued this new collection of 50 military miniatures, sculptured in pewter and individually hand painted.

Waterloo is widely regarded as the most compelling subject of all battles. It involved the finest fighting men of their time, under the direction of the great generals Wellington and Napoleon. The names of the regiments that won glory at Waterloo are known throughout the world.

To be certain that these figures will stand amoung the finest ever created, the Museum chose two of the world's best qualified artists. Gerald Embleton, Eminent Painter and Illustrator, Expert on military costume, member of the Company of Military Historians, and Malcolm Dawson, outstanding sculptor in the classic tradition of European military art. Each figure portrays a regimental soldier as he appeared on the battlefield, with uniforms, weapons and equipment precisely as they were then. Moreover, each figure is also endowed with a sense of life, for the facial expression and vigorous pose evoke an authentic 'Man of Waterloo.' Taken as a whole, the collection vividly recaptures the brilliant pagenantry of the Battle, portraying the interplay of differently colored regimental uniforms. Both Napoleon and the Duke of Waterloo are represented.

Each figure stands on its own integral pewter base, which has been individually designed to complement the figure. The base of each figure bears an identifying title, in the language of the regiment concerned, as well as the signature mark of the sculptor. The collection was accompanied by maps and historical reference material. A finely crafted hardwood wall cabinet was provided to each subscriber. There was a limit of 5,000 sets worldwide.

BRONZE & SILVER SCULPTURE

Bronze is the medium preferred by many of the world's greatest sculptors for their most ambitious works. It is not only one of the most durable of all sculptural materials, but it is also one of the most responsive, capable of reflecting subtle nuances of detail. These properties, combined with the extraordinary surface luminosity of this metal, distinguishes bronze as one of the most versatile of all sculptural mediums. Sterling silver sculptures have also been used.

CHAPEL BRONZES

CAT. CODE: RCS — FILE NO. 796

The brilliant American sculptor Ron Chapel created 2 sculptured bronze works of art. Each portrays the discovery of the joy of reading, that moment of youth when the pages of a book first opened our minds and hearts to a new world of discovery. Because of their theme and design, the bronzes are suited for display in a study, den or library. They make unique bookends, used separately or as a pair.

Each of these sculptures is individually hand-cast by the lost wax (cire perdue) method. This is the same casting technique that has been used for the finest bronzes throughout history. CURTAIN CALL by DAVID

CAT. CODE: RSB — FILE NO.: 1051

The Royal Society of British Sculptors is the largest association of professional sculptors in the English-speaking world. It is a registered non-profit organization, under the patronage of H.M. Queen Elizabeth II. The Society is inaugurating a program to seek out, and bring to public notice, the work of exceptionally talented sculptors. The Society will award to these outstanding artists special commissions, for the creation of original sculptures, which will be issued in limited edition, under the official imprimatur of the Society.

The first such commission is an original work of art in bronze by the distinguished sculptor Nathan David. "Curtain Call" is a sculpture that reflects one of the richest traditions in the history of art, the fascination of sculptors with the art of the ballet. The sculpture interprets that moment when a young ballerina responds to the ovation which greets the completion of her first great performance.

This is the first such work ever to be commissioned by the Society. Each bronze is created by the age-old cire perdue (or "lost wax") method of hand casting. Each bronze is hand-chased, finished with a subtle patina, then polished to a golden lustre.

GOLDEN ELEPHANT by JONES

CAT. CODE: GEL — FILE NO.: 1205

The Government of Liberia, first and oldest sovereign republic on the African continent, authorized the issuance of a new $100 gold coin, in 1979, portraying its national animal, the Elephant. To design this new monetary coin, the Liberian Government commissioned the well-known big game sculptor, Anthony Jones.

Jones began by producing a three-dimensional sculpture of the Elephant—in order to assure accuracy in the coin design. So impressed with this work was the Government that it commissioned the casting of a small number of sculptures for presentation purposes. Those sculptures were cast in gilt bronze—24KT gold electroplate on bronze.

Coins based on famous sculptures go back more than 2,000 years to the Golden Age of Greece. The mint was appointed to strike the new $100 gold coin (described in greater detail in the Coin-of-the-Realm section of this Guidebook), and produce the sculpture. The work was cast for presentation to visiting dignitaries, and then only to Franklin Mint collectors. The sculpture is mounted on a solid African mahogany base.

HORNED OWL by ROBERTS

CAT. CODE: GHO — FILE NO.: 1008

Gilroy Roberts is America's most renowned living sculptor of birds. His accomplishments are almost a chronicle of the finest bird sculpture of our time. The owl has always intrigued Gilroy Roberts. For the haunting call of an owl from the deep of a wintry night seems to speak to the American experience, and to the generations who have contributed so much to America. The owl has meant many things to many other peoples and cultures. A symbol of wisdom, the bird of omens, and the creature Shakespeare called 'the bird of night'. Silent in flight, and with its large unblinking eyes, swift and sure in descent, the owl is compelling as a subject for art. The most impressive of all owls is The Great Horned Owl.

Each sculpture is individually hand-cast, utilizing the ancient lost wax process. After casting, each sculpture is finished by hand. Each is serially numbered and bears the signature mark of Gilroy Roberts; there were no non-numbered sculptures. A Certificate of Authenticity from Mr. Roberts accompanies each work. The wingspan measures 9-1/32", height to wingtips with wooden base is 12-7/18".

LINDBERGH'S SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS

CAT CODE LSS — FILE NO. 746

On May 21, 1927, Charles Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis landed at Le Bourget Airport in Paris, after a flight of 33 hours and 30 minutes, from Roosevelt Field in New York. To commemorate the 50th anniversary of that first solo flight across the Atlantic, this limited edition sculpture in sterling silver was issued.

The sterling silver sculpture portrays Lindbergh's plane, the N-X-211, The Spirit of St. Louis, in precise and authentic detail. Every aspect of the plane was taken directly from the original plans and verified by reference to the plane itself, which has been at the Smithsonian Institution since 1928. The hardwood base bears an etched silver map of the North Atlantic.

MAN O'WAR BRONZE

CAT CODE MOW — FILE NO. 677

The Thoroughbred Racing Association (TRA), representing 56 major race tracks in North America, commissioned the creation of a limited edition bronze sculpture of the greatest race horse of all time. This new work of art, the Man O' War Bronze, is recognized as the finest sculpture of this race horse ever created. It portrays Man O' War as he appeared at the height of his career, head held high, tail flying, legs extended in the 28' stride that set him apart from other thoroughbreds. The jockey is Clarence Kumma, who rode Man O' War in all but one of his triumphs as a 3-year-old.

To create this bronze, the TRA selected Marilyn Newmark, who is considered to be North America's finest living sculptor of classic equestrian figures. In this work, the artist has captured every detail of Man O' War at the peak of his career. The rich patina the artist selected for this work suggests Man O' War's gold-red coat. Each sculpture is hand-cast by the ancient "lost wax" process. After casting, each bronze is hand-finished, then it is permanently affixed to its base of solid mahogany.

PLAYTIME by CHAPEL

CAT CODE PTC — FILE NO.

The cat has long been a favorite subject for great artists. One of the foremost artists of our time, Ron Chapel, created this new and original work of art that recalls the finest achievements of that tradition. This original bronze sculpture titled "Playtime" captures two of the most enduring characteristics of the cat. The love of mother for her young, and the spirit of mischief that animates a kitten's love for its mother. Each sculpture is individually cast, and then hand-chased, finished with a subtle patina, then buffed and polished to a dark golden luster.

Like so many fine sculptors, Chapel began his career as a painter. But, he was drawn to the challenge of sculpture in bronze. Says Chapel today, "bronze is capable of conveying so many different moods, and all with such richness of depth and feeling....."

Each of the sculptures was created by the ancient cire perdue ("lost wax") method of hand-casting. For centuries, this process has been regarded as the finest casting technique ever developed for sculpting in bronze.

SHIPS OF COLUMBUS

CAT. CODE: SHC — FILE NO.: 1/816

The 3 ships that Columbus sailed on his voyage of discovery to the New World in 1492 are re-created as beautiful and unusual works of art. These detailed sterling silver sculptures were created in Italy by skilled Florentine artists and craftsmen.

Creating an authentic sculpture of these ships was a challenge, because no accurate drawings or precise plans are known to exist. To assure the greatest accuracy possible, the mint obtained the assistance of one of the world's leading authorities on the ships of Columbus, Jose M. Martinez-Hidalgo, Director of the Museo Maritimo in Barcelona. By studying extracts from the actual logbook that Columbus kept of his journey, and piecing together shreds of evidence gathered from various sources he was able to provide the most accurate information on the ships. The Florentine artists recreated the ships from his scale drawings.

These detailed sculptures capture the distinctive features of these ships, as they are believed to have appeared when they sailed the seas. Each sculpture is mounted on a hardwood base.

STARTLED by WEAVER

CAT. CODE: STR — FILE NO.

John Weaver is one of the leading sculptors of the American West. He is also a man steeped in its lore and its ways. Using that knowledge, he has channeled his talent into creating powerful and evocative works that show the West as it really was.

In this new sculpture, he has portrayed a cowboy on the trail in the 1880's — during the height of the great cattle drives that crossed the northern plains. The sculpture captures a tense moment in the rigorous life of a trail rider. The cowboy's horse, frightened by an unexpected movement ahead, has reared and is scrambling backwards. The cowboy reacts instinctively to bring his horse back under control.

It is a work of classic Western realism. It is rich in fine detail and historically accurate in every respect. The sculpture is hand-cast in bronze, according to the traditional "lost wax" method. It is hand-finished in a rich patina of burnished brown. Each sculpture is authenticated with both the artist's personal mark, and the artist's signature appearing on the base. This new work was commissioned exclusively for this issue, and was made available in a limited edition of 1500 bronzes.

BALLET by FELDMAN

CAT. CODE: RBL — FILE NO.: 824, 998, 1070

The Royal Ballet, based at the Royal Opera House in London's Covent Garden, is considered one of the foremost ballet companies in the world. This series of 4 sculptures captures the most memorable moments in the history of ballet. Every sculpture is crafted in fine bisque porcelain which is individually hand-cast and hand-finished. The base of each sculpture is inscribed by hand with its own special number, and registered in the owner's name.

The outstanding contemporary figurative sculptor, Stuart Mark Feldman, depicted the minutest physical detail in the scenes. To ensure fidelity of the sculptures to classic balletic form, the ballet scenes were actually posed for the sculptor by leading dancers of the Royal Ballet. In addition, each succeeding stage of the sculptor's work was reviewed and certified by the Principal Repetiteur of the Royal Ballet, Mr. Michael T. Somes.

The first work in this series was issued to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky's immortal Swan Lake. The moment depicted is the second-act pas de deux which symbolized the first flowering of love between Odette and Siegfried, the princess who is condemned to live her life as a swan, and the noble lover who vows in vain to break the evil spell that binds her.

BIRDS, INTERNATIONAL

CAT CODE FILE NO.

Originally founded in 1889, the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, under its patron Her Majesty the Queen, is dedicated to the conservation and protection of wild birds everywhere. It is the largest voluntary wildlife protection society in Europe and has more than a quarter of a million members. The Society maintains and manages more than seventy nature reserves in Britain.

For the first time in its history, the Society is creating a collection of international porcelain bird sculptures. Each sculpture is crafted in hand-painted porcelain, and each is a model of ornithological accuracy.

Each sculpture is a new and original work of art designed for the Society's commission by the internationally renowned wildlife artist Peter Barrett. He has blended perfectly the eye of the naturalist and the artistry of the sculptor to capture his subject as it is to be found in nature. Every aspect of each sculpture is depicted with realism and accuracy, in authentic natural color.

Over 40 different castings are needed for each sculpture. These castings are then assembled by hand and then, after each sculpture has been fired, it is individually hand-painted in 17 different ceramic colors, and then fired once again. Each sculpture is created life-size for the Society by Franklin Porcelain in Japan.

BLUE-WINGED WARBLER

CAT CODE BWW FILE NO. 977

The National Audubon Society commissioned Franklin Porcelain's chief sculptor, Ronald Van Ruyckevelt, one of today's leading sculptors and designers of original works of art in porcelain, to create this bird sculpture, and Franklin Porcelain to produce it. It is completely accurate and authentic in every detail, and bears the full approval of ornithological experts.

The Blue-Winged Warbler is one of the world's most beautiful songbirds. Distinctive for its bright golden crown, its sleek yellow-green body and blue-grey wings and tail, it is graceful and colorful. Even its song is different from that of any other bird, with an unmistakable trill.

In this sculpture, 2 Warblers are portrayed among the blossoms of a Sweet Bay Magnolia tree. The female of the species is perched on a branch enjoying the sun, when a male Warbler descends from above and lights on the same branch, his wings fully open. The female turns her head suddenly to acknowledge the presence of her suitor. Every feature of these birds is shown in exacting detail, and in natural color. There are more than 25 different colors in this sculpture. The magnolia blossoms are fully open with their white petals and deep green leaves.

More than 100 separate molds and fine castings were made in order to re-create the intricacy of the sculptor's design. Each sculpture was assembled entirely by hand. After the piece was fired and glazed, the sculpture was individually painted by hand. The sculptor inspected each piece, and personally hand-signed it. Each sculpture is serially numbered.

COUSTEAU'S UNDERSEA WORLD

CAT CODE CSW FILE NO. 776

In more than 30 years devoted to undersea exploration, Jacques Cousteau has revealed to millions a world of fascinating creatures and breathtaking beauty beneath the sea. A world that has never been seen before. In his honor, The Cousteau Society issued a work of art that captures in fine crystal the beauty of the watery depths, and reflects man's new-found freedom to explore and discover the living sea. The result is a 4-part crystal sculpture, spherical in shape and engraved to portray the life and movement of the undersea world.

Peter Yenawine, one of the foremost designers of fine art crystal, created this sculpture. Its spherical shape suggests Cousteau's own description of our earth as "the Water Planet." The sculpture consists of 4 free-standing yet interdependent sections. Each bears an original design deeply engraved on an interior surface. On the central section, a diver from Cousteau's research vessel Calypso explores the undersea world. Engraved on the 3 surrounding sections are sea otters feeding among kelp beds, tropical fish which form part of the life chain of a coral reef, and 2 dolphins "conversing" under water. These designs are frosted to bring out every detail. Each section is shaped, polished and finished so that the entire sculpture fits together.

The crystal is the finest full-lead crystal, color-free and flawless. The sculpture weighs 18 pounds. It was issued in a serially numbered world-wide edition limited to 500. Each bears the engraved signature of designer Peter Yenawine. A special turntable base, designed to display the complete sculpture was also provided.

CRYSTAL MORNING

CAT. CODE: CRM — FILE NO.: 934

Original sculptures in fine crystal bearing the signature of Peter Yenawine are prized by collectors. He is an acknowledged master designer of crystal art. His sculptures have been exhibited, both in Europe and America, as outstanding examples of the crystal designer's art. This new sculpture was issued in a single, limited edition of 1500 hand-signed pieces.

In 'Crystal Morning' the artist has recaptured those winter mornings when we were young, and everyday cares were cast aside at the country skating pond. The scene is of tall pines, winter ice, a glittering pond and a lovely young girl. Crystal is the perfect medium for achieving such detail as the tracemarks of skates on the ice. The silver figure of the skater is reflected on the crystal, in the crystal and through the crystal, in a thousand ways.

This sculpture was individually hand-made for each owner at the Crystalleries de Baccarat of France — purveyors of fine art crystal to Presidents and Kings. The crystal is flawless, color-free, full lead crystal of the highest quality. Each crystal sculpture is hand-formed and hand-finished. Baccarat's mark appears on the base of every piece. The sterling silver skater was crafted by the mint. Peter Yenawine has hand-engraved his own signature into the base of each sculpture to indicate his approval.

THE JUGGLER by MEISSEN

CAT. CODE: JGL — FILE NO.: 669

Founded in 1710, Meissen is the oldest and foremost of the great porcelain houses of Germany. This is the first Meissen figurine ever to portray a character from the circus. It was privately commissioned from Meissen by The Franklin Mint's affiliate in Germany. It is also the first Meissen figurine ever to be issued in a limited edition. Prior to this sculpture, the molds for figurines were preserved at Meissen so that further works could be produced at their discretion. The molds from which The Juggler have been created were destroyed and this figurine can never be produced again.

The Juggler was created by Meissen's chief sculptor, Peter Strang. Each figurine is painted by hand. It is in a dazzling circus costume, with a green wig and green shoes. Each of the five miniature Meissen plates is caught in mid-flight and each is hand-painted with one of the famous traditional Meissen patterns, the blue onion design. The reverse of each plate also bears the cobalt-blue crossed swords which form the Meissen trademark.

OCEAN VOYAGER

CAT CODE OCV — FILE NO. 1195

This original work of art is an official issue of The Cousteau Society, and was designed for the Society by Franklin Crystal. "Ocean Voyager" is a poetic and beautiful new work that captures the spirit of the sea, and of flight, as never before. In design, concept and execution, it represents a major advancement in the art of crystal sculpture. It was crafted at the world-renowned cristalleries of Daum, in Nancy, France.

The sculpture portrays a majestic seagull poised above the waves, its great curving span supported only by a wing tip touching the sea. The most widely recognized symbol of the living sea is the graceful gull. A solitary gull, wheeling effortlessly above the sea, playing among the waves. The design possesses a soaring quality. A lightness, balance and airborne grace that were generally thought impossible to achieve, until developed by the mint's designers and brought to reality at the Daum Cristalleries.

The full lead crystal is brilliant and color free. Each sculpture is hand formed and hand finished. Consequently, no two sculptures are exactly alike. Each sculpture is a true original, a work of art that is one of a kind. Daum has long been noted for creating crystal of daring design. They have been given commissions by the royal houses of Europe, heads of state, and major art museums.

SHAKESPEARE by FELDMAN

CAT. CODE: RST — FILE NO.:

In 1879, The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-upon-Avon, England had its gala opening night performance. It was the culmination of a centuries-old dream: a theatre that would honor William Shakespeare in the town where he was born. From that theatre (re-named the Royal Shakespeare Theatre in 1961) and that first performance grew the Royal Shakespeare Company—one of the foremost theatrical companies in the world.

In observance of this historic centennial, in 1979, the Theatre commissioned these 4 original works of art for display at its Picture Gallery at Stratford-upon-Avon. These 4 fine bisque porcelain sculptures capture 4 unforgettable moments in 4 of Shakespeare's plays. The Theatre commissioned a master of porcelain sculpture, Stuart Mark Feldman, to create these works of art. Each sculpture is meticulously detailed and completely authentic, and each sculpture is individually hand-finished.

Inscribed by hand on the base of each sculpture is its own special number, which is permanently registered in the owner's name. The base also bears the title of the work and the signature of the artist.

STREET VENDORS OF JAPAN

CAT. CODE: SVJ — FILE NO.: 1021

It was with cries or witty songs, with the beat of drum or twang of samison, with clickety-clack of shoulder pole or bright ring of bell, that the legendary street vendors of Japan would give loud notice of their approach. Some of this music can still be heard by one of the street characters, but most are gone forever.

All the excitement and charm, the vitality and magic of Japanese downtown street life was vividly and authentically brought back to life in the traditional Japanese medium of fine porcelain. This collection of 10 hand-painted porcelain figures portrays the most memorable of all the famed street vendors of yesteryear. The collection was crafted by the Maruyama Porcelain Company of Nagoya, Japan's leading manufacturer of porcelain figures. This was the first such collection to depict these street vendors.

Each sculptured figure is a meticulously accurate work of art. It is correct in every detail and historically authentic. Each street vendor is shown in the traditional costume of days gone by. All the brilliant colors of these costumes is vividly depicted, for each figure is hand-painted. The original designs for these figures were created by Shigeru Miyao, the most distinguished authority on the picturesques street life of the Japan of old.

Each figure measures approximately 5" in height. Beneath the porcelain base upon which it stands appears the name of the street vendor portrayed, and the Maruyama Porcelain Company. This collection was made available in the U.S. exclusively to Collectors Society Members. Elsewhere, the collection was made available only to collectors in Japan.

ETCHINGS, ENGRAVINGS & LITHOGRAPHS

Among the most sophisticated techniques in use today, are the arts of etching, engraving and lithography. The mint has commissioned some of the greatest artists to produce art works on a variety of themes, including birds, ships, airplanes and nature.

AMERICAN BIRD ENGRAVINGS by ALBERT EARL GILBERT

CAT. CODE ABE — FILE NO. 551

In commemoration of the 150th anniversary of John James Audubon's "Birds of America" engravings, the National Audubon Society issued this series of 4 hand-engravings, in color. Each engraving portrays one of America's most beautiful birds. The Society commissioned one of the greatest nature artists of our time, Albert Earl Gilbert, to create these engravings. The artist traveled throughout America and created his own designs, portraying each bird in authentic detail. The original design is then hand-engraved on the master plate by the master engraver, Yves Beaujard. The colors are then applied to this master plate by the artist. For each subsequent engraving, the colors are also applied — one by one. Audubon considered this method to be the only correct way to create bird engravings.

Each engraving is hand-signed and dated by the artist. Each engraving is mounted and custom-framed in a black and gold hardwood frame.

BROWN'S OLD GEORGIA FARMHOUSE

CAT. CODE BBL — FILE NO. 751

Butler Brown of Georgia is one of the nation's most widely acclaimed new artists. Two of his works were acquired by President Jimmy Carter, and are displayed in the White House. Through the medium of his art, the countryside surrounding the artist's studio at Hawkinsville, in Central Georgia, is fast becoming familiar. Brown's portrayal of the images of his native Georgia are direct and plainspoken. His inspiration has come from the Georgia midlands where he was born to a farm family.

This original lithograph was issued in a single limited edition. Its subject is "The Old Georgia Farmhouse". A scene of an abandoned farmhouse, the sense of a departed family. At the same time, the artist has captured the atmosphere of an American autumn. The artist himself regards this study as one of the most compelling works he has ever created. The lithograph was created through the use of nine separate colors, each color applied individually. The image area is 22" wide and 18" high.

Each lithograph is personally hand-signed. At the time of signing, Butler Brown created a personal remarque in the margin of the lithograph. The remarque is a detailed pencil sketch personally drawn in by the artist for each individual owner. Therefore, no two remarques are exactly alike. Each lithograph is individually matted in a hardwood frame.

CONQUEST OF SPACE LITHOGRAPH, and STAMPS

CAT. CODE: COS — FILE NO.: 1182

One of America's greatest accomplishments was the conquest of space. To document its role in this historic undertaking, the U.S. Government has, over the years, issued 15 different postage stamps honoring the greatest landmarks in America's space program. Each Of These Issues proved to be among the most significant of all the American postage stamps ever issued. In 1979, all but one of these space stamps was out-of-issue, no longer obtainable from the U.S. Postal Service. As a result, mint-quality specimens were hard to come by.

This commemorative was issued to celebrate the 10th anniversay of the first moon landing in 1969. A complete set of mint-quality specimens of these historic stamps was presented in an appropriate setting, along with an original lithograph by America's most celebrated space artist, Paul Calle. The 15 stamps provide a unique pictorial history of America's exploration of space. To preserve its perfect mint condition, each stamp is set into a transparent protective capsule. It is displayed to full advantage, yet protected from dust and moisture.

Paul Calle served for over 10 years as an official artist of NASA, and personally designed the U.S. commemorative stamp honorings man's first step on the moon. This new work of art by Paul Calle captures the spirit, the courage, and the determination that enabled America to achieve its conquest of space. It is an original lithograph, and utilizes 10 separate colors, each applied individually. This specially commissioned work is authentic in every detail, and true-to-life. Paul Calle has personally hand-signed each original lithograph. The lithograph and the complete set of 15 stamps are mounted in a brushed aluminum frame. The total edition was limited to 15,000 commemoratives.

FLOWERS OF THE YEAR MINIATURE LITHOGRAPHS

CAT. CODE: FYM — FILE NO. 1157

The American Horticultural Society is America's foremost organization serving the interests of all American horticulture, with more than 30,000 members nationwide. Headquarters of the Society are located at historic River Farm, Mount Vernon, Virginia, a property once owned by George Washington.

The Society issued this collection of 12 new and original works of flower art. These are authentic, limited edition lithographs available only from the Society. Each of the 12 works of art depicts the favorite and most captivating flower that blooms during a single month in the gardens of the headquarters of the Society at River Farm.

One of America's most renowned flower artists, Davis Carroll, was commissioned to create this collection. His works have been exhibited in galleries throughout this country, and he has had more than 30 one-man shows. He has won particular acclaim for his genius in composition—his ability to portray flowers in superb arrangements. The vases, baskets and containers that hold the flowers are all depicted in detail. In these miniatures, each arrangement achieves a gracious balance all its own. Each of the 12 works are in miniature, with each petal and each leaf all portrayed in fine detail. The colors are soft, warm and glowing.

Each lithograph requires the application of as many as ten different colors. Each color must be separately pulled from its own distinct plate. And the artist himself has created each of the plates, supervised the "proving" of each color and image, and has examined each finished lithograph. After the inspection of each lithograph, the artist personally signs each work, thereby adding his mark of approval. The hand-penciled signature indicates it is an original work.

Each lithograph is fully matted and mounted in a frame specially designed to complement the floral miniatures.

HUNTER, MEL, LITHOGRAPHS

CAT. CODE: MHL — FILE NO. 1147

One of the most active, exciting and fastest growing segments of the art world today is the original, limited-edition color lithograph. Among the most gifted and accomplished artists specializing in this art form is Mel Hunter, of Grafton, Vermont.

In the great tradition of American realism, he has chosen to portray the world he knows best—the countryside surrounding his home and studio. Mel Hunter is identified with Vermont; here, in a tiny village surrounded by high forested hills, he lives and works—portraying this countryside with clarity of vision and perfection of detail.

This collection of 4 original color lithographs was created exclusively for this issue. Hunter personally created each of the separate color images for these lithographs. These separate images are superimposed upon each other—one at a time—which produces true "multiple originals." These lithographs are pulled on the finest museum quality paper, in 15 separate color impressions.

Each completed lithograph is personally examined by the artist in detail, and when he is satisfied, he adds his mark of approval by hand-writing his signature, and the date. Each lithograph is matted and sent in a custom-designed frame of fine hardwood, which compliments the work of art.

The 150th anniversary of the birth of Jules Verne, the great French author, was celebrated in 1978. To honor this occasion the Jules Verne Museum, in the novelist's native city of Nantes, issued this series of 4 original color lithographs, inspired by the novels of Jules Verne.

His vivid descriptions of exotic, fanciful, even dream-like occurrences are woven throughout his many novels. They are virtually paintings in words. David Mc Call Johnston, the talented American painter, was selected to create these works. The work of this artist is radiant with richness and brilliance of color, aglow with detailed imagery of fantastic complexity.

These lithographs were created through the use of no less than 24 separate colors. The artist worked directly with the lighographer in France, Jacques Mourlot of Paris, the internationally respected atelier, to develop each of the color renderings used to create each work. Each color is applied individually, with the utmost care. Each lithograph is pulled on extremely fine paper, and is examined by the artist. When he is satisfied, he adds his personal signature as his mark of approval.

The lithographs are matted and issued in a specially designed wood frame. The framed lithograph measures 23-1/2" x 19" overall. The actual original lithograph measures 16" x 11". These were not made available through art dealers or other galleries.

WHALING ETCHINGS by JACK COUGHLIN

CAT. CODE: WHL — FILE NO.: 1/709,726, 2/792, 3/842, 4/967

The Whaling Museum at New Bedford, Mass., which was established more than 70 years ago in this historic New England seaport, is dedicated to preserving the heritage of one of 19th century America's greatest and most colorful industries, whaling. To commemorate this important American pursuit and the courageous men who devoted their lives to it, the Museum issued this series of 4 original etchings depicting exciting and dramatic whaling scenes.

To create these etchings, one of America's most distinguished artists, Jack Coughlin, was selected. The artist created 4 original etchings, exclusively for this series. Each work of art portrays each thrilling moment with skill and realism; every detail is carefully depicted. His works are in the permanent collections of leading museums and galleries throughout this country. In addition to his work as an artist and sculptor, he is Professor of Art at the University of Massachusetts. The artist actually created the copper master plate for each work in this series, and every etching was hand-pulled directly from that master plate. He personally examined each etching, and added his mark of approval by hand-signing and hand-dating the etching. Each etching is matted and issued in a custom-designed hardwood frame. The frame complements the style and atmosphere of the artist's work.

GARDEN OF THE 3 FRIENDS WOODBLOCK PRINTS by TOSHI YOSHIDA

CAT. CODE: GTF — FILE NO.: 1216

Centuries ago, the artists of the Orient created an art form like no other in the world. Characterized by beautiful colors, harmony of composition and subtlety of design, it is the Japanese Woodblock Print. It has been a source of inspiration to artists of both Each and West. Today, the master of this art form is Toshi Yoshida. His works have been exhibited on more than 100 occasions in the U.S. alone, and his prints are in the collections of major galleries and museums all over the world.

He was commissioned to create a trio of new and original woodblock prints expressing the beauty of "The Garden of the Three Friends" of Japanese lore. This collection was created solely for The Franklin Gallery, an affiliate of the mint, and Diners Club members. These prints were created in the tradition of woodblock prints of the past. For the most distinguished of these prints have been those in which Nature has played the central role. The trio comprises 3 separate woodblock prints—each depicting a different aspect of the Garden of the Three Friends, which symbolizes happiness, abundance and other virtues prized by man. It is a trio of complimentary works in which each can stand alone, or be displayed together.

Each of the prints is an original work of art. The artist is deeply involved at every stage of their creation: the carving of the 19 woodblocks from which each print is made, the selection of the papers, the colors and the individual preparation of the prints. The artist personally examines each print, and when he is satisfied with its quality, adds the distinctive mark of his approval by inscribing his signature upon it. Each print is individually matted in silk, in a soft green color, and individually framed in teakwood.

JAPANESE WOODBLOCK PRINTS by TOSHI YOSHIDA

CAT. CODE: JWP — FILE NO.: 843, 954, 1046, 1155

The art form of the Japanese Woodblock Print is like no other in the world. Created centuries ago in the East, it is a rich source of inspiration to the artists of the West. The fascinations of this distinctive traditional art are many: the colors are rich and subtle, the line of the artist is powerful and vigorous, yet also delicate, the meticulous hand-craftsmanship, and the harmony of design. And the subject reflects the calm and tranquility of the oriental view of Man and Nature.

The centuries-old tradition of the woodblock print is most exemplified in the work of the great artist Toshi Yoshida. He is internationally recognized as the master of this medium, perhaps the greatest now living. His work has been exhibited on numerous occasions, and his prints have been acquired by galleries and museums in countries all over the world.

This collection of 4 original woodblock prints by Toshi Yoshida forms a group, each one reflecting the mood of Nature in one of the 4 seasons. The beauty of Nature as expressed in the form of bird and tree, or bird and flower, is the most significant traditional theme of Japanese art. Each work of art is extraordinarily detailed. The artist is deeply involved at every stage of its creation — the carving of the woodblocks from which each print is made, the selection of the mulberry bark paper, the mixing of the colors and the pulling of each individual print. He also examines each print in detail and adds his distinctive mark of approval by actually inscribing his personal signature.

Each print is individually matted in a finely grained wood frame especially created to complement each work. Each corner is smoothly rounded.

NATIONAL AUDUBON SOCIETY PHOTOGRAPHIC PRINTS

CAT. CODE: APP — FILE NO.: 861

The camera, in the hands of an artist, can capture images of such compelling power, of such truth and beauty, that they rival the greatest paintings of the past. Through AUDUBON magazine, the National Audubon Society has sought out the world's finest color photographs of birds, and has brought these masterpieces of photographic art to bird lovers and connoisseurs alike. But no mechanically printed page can convey the beauty of an original photograph: the depth of color, the subtle gradations of tone, the quality of light and the fine nuances of a work of art.

The Society issued this collection of 4 original, hand-printed, and hand-signed works of photographic art. Each of these original prints is a dye-transfer print, in which colors are laid down individually on paper of exceptional quality. Such prints are both expensive and time consuming to create, requiring many steps and much skilled hand-work. The depth and clarity of color in these prints is superior to the color prints with which most people are familiar.

The art of these distinguished artist-photographers is represented in important public and private collections. Each print is produced to the photographer's own specifications. The artist examines each print and adds his mark of approval by personally hand-signing it himself, directly on the photograph. Each print is mounted and matted under glass, in a specially designed wood frame, that matches the work of art.

FREEDOM TABLEAUS

CAT. CODE: AFP — FILE NO.: 674

Distinctive and important works of art will forever be inspired by the great moments of history — moments when the fate of a people, the outcome of a conflict, the future of a continent rests on the shoulders of a few. On the 200th anniversary of General George Washington's crossing of the Delaware River on Christmas night, 1776, to attack Britain's Hessian mercenaries at Trenton, the mint issued this bas-relief pewter sculpture in a collection portraying the winning of America's freedom. The sculptures honor great moments in America's long struggle to achieve nationhood, from 1776 to 1787.

Each tableau is historically authentic and fully detailed in every respect. Each bas-relief sculpture is cast in fine American pewter and is individually hand-finished to highlight its beauty. Each sculpture is individually mounted on polished hardwood.

GAME BIRDS AND HUNTING DOGS

CAT. CODE: GBD — FILE NO.: 1/1249

Hunting game birds is a kind of ritual, developed over three centuries. Any hunter who has ever worked game with an outstanding field dog can never forget what it feels like. The patient discipline displayed by man and dog alike. The teamwork. The excitement of the hunt. And the satisfaction of having met a challenge as demanding as that of any sport ever developed by man. These new bas-relief original wall sculptures in fine pewter captures perfectly this special world of beauty.

This collection of 4 sculptures portrays game birds and hunting dogs, and were all sculpted by Anthony Jones. He has devoted himself in his work to the world of nature, creating sculptures of animals in their natural surroundings. Each richly detailed sculpture is hand-cast in fine pewter, and individually handfinished. Then each sculpture is individually mounted on polished hardwood, ready for display. The series was made available exclusively to American Express Cardmembers, and established Franklin Mint collectors.

NATURE'S FOUR SEASONS

CAT CODE: NFS — FILE NO.: [illegible]

Since the Renaissance onward, the tradition of man's artistic achievement, deriving their inspirations from nature has found expression in the master works of virtually every creative genius. This collection of 4 fine art plaques consists of four original sculptures that depict the woodland animals and foliage of Nature's Four Seasons. Each plaque is crafted in one of the rarest of all porcelains, fine translucent Parian. Depending upon its thickness and color, Parian porcelain can be made to appear completely opaque or highly translucent. This translucency lends itself perfectly to the substance and art of these plaques.

Each of the 4 original artworks, commissioned exclusively for this collection, is set against a background of opaque Parian, in a color appropriate to the particular season which that work represents. For contrast, the sculptured design itself is crafted in ivory toned Parian, which takes on an entire spectrum of shades and hues, depending upon the color of the background. Each plaque is set against a linen textured matte, and mounted in a hardwood frame that has been assembled entirely by hand. Each frame is also individually hand rubbed to an antique gold finish.

ROCKWELL'S AMERICA

CAT CODE: NRA — FILE NO.: 1165

His name was Norman Rockwell. No other artist ever created such a loving, or such an honest portrait of America. He saw us as we were and as we wanted to be. In a career that lasted more than 60 years, he created some of our most treasured works of art. Works that are cherished not just here but throughout the world. The New York Times described him as the most popular illustrator who ever lived.

The depth of his faith in America's future is evident in this, the last still-unpublished work of art Norman Rockwell ever completed. It's there in the faces of Americans he loved. Men and women. Young and old. From many backgrounds and many walks of life. Rockwell's self-portrait (the last self-portrait he ever did) appears at the very left, along with his wife.

This work of art was issued as a fine framed porcelain, to distinguish it from any other work the artist ever created. It is an authentic commissioned original, that the artist himself intended for collectors, from the very beginning.

SERENGETI BIG GAME

CAT. CODE: LTS — FILE NO.: 956

The Serengeti is probably the most famous wildlife area in the world today. To honor the 50th anniversary of the setting aside of the Serengeti as a Game Reserve, in 1929, the Officers and Trustees of the Tanzania National Parks issued this series of 5 authentic sterling silver wall sculptures mounted on fine Philippine Mahogany. Each sculpture portrays one of the 5 most splendid and awe-inspiring animals which roam Africa's Serengeti plain, the 'Lords of the Serengeti'.

Each is sculpted by the world-renowned wildlife artist Anthony Jones especially for this collection. These works are lifelike portrayals of these animals, shown exactly as Jones observed them in the wilds of the Serengeti. Each animal is captured in a dramatic close-up.

100 sets were made available at Game Reserve Headquarters in Seronera, Tanzania during 1979, the 50th anniversary year, for official presentations and for purchase by visitors.

VICTORIAN YEAR CAMEOS

CAT. CODE: TVY — FILE NO.:

In the days of Queen Victoria, England was the home of a civilized way of life. Of croquet games, cricket matches, lavish dinner parties, musical soirees, of the Great Exhibition of 1851, and of Yuletide. It was a golden age, an era as memorable as it was charming. This collection of 12 cameo wall plaques has been designed to bring the joyful and romantic Victorian spirit into today's homes.

The original designs for these plaques were created by the distinguished British sculptor Peter Jackson, an ardent enthusiast of the Victorian era who combines the vision of the artist, and the accuracy of the historian. Each of these plaques is an individual vignette of Victorian life. A simple scroll incorporated into the border of each design bears the name of the month portrayed. The 12 plaques give an appealing and characteristic picture of life throughout the Victorian year, month by month, just as it was lived a century ago.

The cameos are fashioned in fine Parian porcelain, which the Victorians themselves admired. Each cameo is individually hand-molded and hand-finished. The plaques are oval shape, the bas relief sculptures are white and translucent, and the background is a deep blue shade. All of the sculptures are finely detailed. The plaques were provided ready to hang.

AIRPLANES

CAT CODE SSC — FILE NO. 627, 715, 762, 814

These works of art are unlike any the mint has ever issued before. The lines and tones of the original art are etched into the sterling silver, while other aspects of the design are etched through the sterling silver. AMERICA'S ADVOCATE

CAT CODE ABA — FILE NO. 940

1978 was the 100th anniversary of the founding of the American Bar Association, the first national organization to serve the legal profession. To honor this anniversary, the Association issued an official centennial commemorative. America's Advocate is an original framed etching on sterling silver, capturing the spirit of American justice and portraying the great figures and events in the history of American law. It was available exclusively to members of the American Bar Association.

At its center is the quintessential attorney, pleading his case in the role of advocate for the American people. In the background are the traditional symbols of American justice and liberty: the preamble to the U.S. Constitution, the scales of justice, and the American flag. And framing these symbols is an etched border that weaves together in a harmonious design, portraits of the great figures of the legal profession and scenes that recapture the drama of great moments in American law.

The portraits include Oliver Wendell Holmes, John Marshall, Louis Brandeis, Clarence Darrow, and Charles Evans Hughes. It also includes the landmark events and decisions that have shaped the course of American history.

The design is an original work of art created exclusively for this commemorative. Every line is etched into sterling silver, and it is framed in dark hardwood.

DALI'S 'SOMBRA LA PLAYA'

CAT. CODE: SDE — FILE NO: 734

Salvador Dali is recognized throughout the world as one of the greatest artists of the 20th century. His works hang in many of the great art museums and private collections in the U.S. and abroad. Dali has raised the art of drawing to new heights in this century. His greatest and most famous works have all been surrealistic, portraying the inner world of his own mind with incomparable power and technical skill. In these masterpieces, he has been able to give to his own fantasies, dreams and subconscious desires the shape and substance of concrete reality. This is Dali's first silver etching, and belongs to the mainstream of his surrealistic works.

Sombra sobre la Playa (Shadows on the Beach) is a new and original work of art created by Dali expressly and exclusively for this limited edition. Each etching is individually matted and mounted in a custom- designed frame. Dali created a special intaglio imprint exclusively for this work. It combines Dali's signature, the 1977 date, and the famous Dali crown. This special intaglio imprint is impressed on the mat, certifying Dali's approval of the etching. Dali describes the etching as the projection of his own memories, in the personal landscape of his youth in Spain. Dominating the scene is a sharply defined shadow, suggestive of the interplay between thought and reality, memory and experience.

HALLETT, WILLIAM

CAT. CODE: — FILE NO.: 1193

This collection of 4 original works of art portraying marine animals is in the form of etchings of silver and gold on polished copper. It is the first work of art of its kind ever issued by the mint. Each new and original work was created exclusively for this issue. Every detail and every fine line was planned by the artist expressly for this etching of sterling silver and fine copper, inlaid with 24KT gold.

The use of different metals to create distince color variation is very much like a color etching. The result is a multi-hued image of life-like quality. The markings of each fish are seen just as they appear in nature, with one color gently bleeding into the next.

Each work bears the signature of the artist, William Hallett, etched into the metal. Each work is mounted in a custom-designed hardwood frame. The frame enhances the lustrous quality of the precious metals.

MAP OF NORTH AMERICA

CAT. CODE: RMA — FILE NO: 755

In 1650, Nicolas Sanson, geographer to the French Royal Court and perhaps the foremost cartographer of his time, created a new map of North America for his country's King and Queen. Considering the date of his work, and the vast areas of the New World that were still unexplored, it was a marvel of quality and accuracy. So much so, in fact, that nearly 20 years later this map was translated, illustrated and printed by a noted British mapmaker, expressly for the King and Queen.

Under the auspices of the American Geographical Society, this historic map was produced in a new collector's edition. Every line, every detail of Sanson's work is etched into smooth brushed silver. The map is surrounded by a border of polished silver, decorated in 24KT gold with an original design created by the mint's artists. It is mounted in a toned wood frame.

MAP OF THE HEAVENS (CHARTA CAELESTIS)

CAT. CODE: CHC — FILE NO. 984

The tradition of creating richly ornamented maps of the sky and stars goes back to the Renaissance — and to the golden age of cartography. This new and original work of cartographic art unites the romance of the past with the precision of modern astronomy. This map of the heavens etched into smooth-brushed silver and embellished with 24KT gold was issued by the International Astronomical Union.

It provides a comprehensive and accurate depiction of both the Northern and Southern hemispheres as they are known to modern astronomy — ornamented and adorned in the tradition of cartography's golden age. It was issued to mark the 50th anniversary of the Union's greatest achievement: the establishment for the first time of universal boundaries for all the 88 heavenly constellations.

Between the two hemispheres are the famous diagrams of the universe according to Ptolemy and Copernicus, each one decoratively set out in the Renaissance manner. The corners of the map are ornamented with delineations of the four ancient and traditional instruments of the astronomer: the armillary sphere, globe-like model of the earth and the planets; the telescope; and the astrolabe and the quadrant. The precision of the star positions is as impressive as the detail with which the familiar creatures of the Zodiac and other mythological figures are depicted.

The map itself is surrounded by a shining border, ornamented with a classic design in pure gold. The border of the map is enclosed by wood beading, and surrounded by a band of black velvet. The entire map is framed in dark hardwood. The surface of the map measures 22" x 15", overall framed dimensions are 27" x 20".

SHIPS OF EXPLORATION

CAT. CODE: GSL — FILE NO.: 937, 1140

To commemorate the 400th anniversary of Sir Francis Drake's voyage around the world, The Royal Geographical Society authorized the creation of these 4 golden silhouettes honoring 4 great ships of exploration and conquest. These works of art evoke the spirit of these renowned ships; they are detailed interpretations in gold on silver.

One of today's most respected marine artists, Lionel Willis, was commissioned to create these silhouettes. Special consultant to Britain's National Maritime Museum, Willis is a painstaking craftsman, admired by collectors for his authentic silhouettes of famous sailing ships. Before beginning this work, he spent months carefully studying accounts of each ship, examining nautical manuscripts and texts, and familiarizing himself with every detail of shipbuilding.

All of the rigging, spars, sails, gunports and planking of each ship are portrayed with the utmost precision and meticulous accuracy. Each detail of the artist's work is in 24KT gold electroplate on sterling silver. Each silhouette is mounted against a black background in a hardwood frame designed to complement the art.

WYETH'S AMERICAN PANORAMA

CAT. CODE: JME — FILE NO.: 1/803, 2/859, 3/958, 4/1043

Jamie Wyeth represents the third generation of artists in the internationally renowned Wyeth family, and has become recognized as one of the leading exponents of contemporary American realism. He is regarded by art critics as one of the foremost artists in our country today. His works hang in prominent art museums and are also treasured by important private collectors. The artist's one-man exhibitions have consistently sold out within a few days. Perhaps no other artist today is better able to portray the beauty and splendor of our country.

This collection of 4 sterling silver etchings depicts the panoramic beauty of America. These were the first works the artist has ever created in the medium of the framed silver etching. Each original work of art was issued only as an etching, and will never be issued again in any other form. Each etching is mounted in a specially designed hardwood frame. A special intaglio imprint, designed by the artist, was impressed in the mat, certifying Jamie Wyeth's approval of the etching.

CAT. CODE: ORC — FILE NO.: 1031

In 1476, the wonder of printing was introduced to England by William Caxton. Two years later, in 1478, the first book was printed in the great university city of Oxford. In 1978, The Oxford University Press celebrated its 500th anniversary, a landmark in the history of the English speaking world. To mark this occasion, the Press authorized this issue, by The Franklin Library, of this definitive reference library of the English language.

In this Anniversary Edition of this collection, every one of the volumes is leather-bound and ornamented in gold. (These books are described in greater detail in the introduction to this section "Leather-Bound Books.") For this collection, the 8 volumes are bound in leather of a deep shade of blue, the distinctive "Oxford" blue. SIGNED EDITIONS LEATHER-BOUND

CAT CODE: GBT — FILE NO. 679,957,1186

Over the years, knowledgeable collectors have found few treasures in the world that can compare with a great book that has been personally signed by its author. Such volumes are prized not only for their rarity, but because the author's signature sets them apart, giving them special meaning and lasting importance. Books like these are as hard to come by as they are desirable.

This collection of 60 leather bound books consists of the great books of the greatest living authors in new editions, with each book individually and personally hand signed by its author. The works included in this collection are the masterpieces of our time. Works of fiction and non-fiction alike, written by the most honored and admired authors. Each of the authors has also written a special foreward that will appear only in this edition. For a complete description of the Franklin library and these books, see the introduction to this section. This series was formerly cataloged as "AUTOGRAPHED BOOKS".)

CHRISTMAS TREASURY AND PERSONAL FAMILY RECORD

CAT CODE: DCT — FILE NO: 1261

Christmas is a time when the family gathers together to celebrate a joyous holiday. One much-loved tradition of Christmas seems to have been lost over the years: the tradition of keeping a family Christmas book. A book which celebrates the joys of Christmas and also serves as a family record, in which thoughts and remembrances of the holiday can be written down and enjoyed years later. This volume captures the spirit and feeling of an old-fashioned Christmas.

It is 9" x 12" with 256 pages, and is bound in a combination of leather and fabric known as "quarter binding." The leather spine is "hubbed" with raised horizontal ridges, and decorated with 22KT gold, and the page edges are gilded as well. The fabric cover is matched to the leather which surrounds the spine. The end sheets are of marbelized paper and a ribbon marker is also included. The original illustrations in this volume are by Jerry Pinkney and will not appear in any other book. Each full-page and some double-page illustrations portray another joyous aspect of the Christmas season.

There are embellished borders for many pages, the text is ornamented, and the type is highlighted by the use of decorative initials designed by a calligrapher exclusively for this volume.

It contains the best stories, poems, articles, essays and songs about Christmas and the holiday season by more than 50 leading authors of the past and present. As an exclusive feature, 4 leading American authors were commissioned to write special pieces for this volume, recalling their own memories of Christmas. This is the first time they have appeared anywhere. The 4 are: Joyce Carol Oates, Wallace Stegner, James T. Farrell and Margaret Cousins.

Several sections are devoted to a Personal Family Record, where one can write in one's own thoughts, feelings and memories of Christmas—people, places and events to be remembered. There are sections on holiday and tree decorations, gifts exchanged, special surprise gifts, people who visited and visits made to friends and relatives, and holiday menus for food served at Christmas. Each page is attractively designed, and is intended for this and future Christmas' as well.

A professional calligrapher personally hand-lettered, in fine black ink, the purcharser's name on a specially-designed bookplate, which could be placed inside the volume.

CANADIAN COLLECTIBLES

Canada and the United States have the longest continuous border of any two countries in the world. Not surprisingly, there are many collectors on both sides of the border who collect numismatic and other specimens of both countries. To facilitate the collecting of Canadian specimens, this section catalogs those issued since 1970 by The Franklin Mint Canada Ltd., and its predecessor The Wellings Mint Ltd.

HISTORY OF BRITAIN MEDALS

CAT. CODE: — FILE NO.: 1168

The British are born with a sense of history. For their heritage is rich with momentous events. The story of this extraordinary island race is of great significance to Canadians. For Britain's history is Canada's too. This centuries old tradition inspired the creation of this collection of 100 medals of British history, from the birth of the nation to the present day.

The events portrayed have been selected by an eminent board of advisers, specifically assembled for the purpose, under the chairmanship of Sir Arthur Bryant, with each member an outstanding expert in his or her own field. The sculptured design for each medal is an original work of art, created by a talented sculptor working under the personal direction of David Cornell, Vice President of the Society of Portrait Sculptors. In each case, the sculpture has been created for this collection and will never appear in any other form.

Each medal in the First Edition gold electroplate on sterling silver proof set is serially numbered. Each subscriber also received a hardwood chest to store and display the collection.

MEXICAN COLLECTIBLES

To Mexico belongs the honor of having the longest numismatic tradition in the Americas, dating from 1536, when the Spanish established a mint at Mexico City. There is a great deal of affinity between the numismatics of Mexico and the United States for many of the Mexican coins circulated across the border until there were sufficient U.S. coins to supplement them by the mid-19th century. In more recent years, the coins and paper money of the Mexican Revolution have attracted much interest among both Mexican and American collectors. Today, Franklin Mint Mexico continues in that tradition by offering numismatic specimens which are of interest not only to Mexican collectors, but to American collectors as well.

Beginning in 1974, issue prices for Mexican specimens are in revalued Pesos (M.N.).

CAT. CODE: POM

This series of 12 medals was issued under the auspices of the International Association of "Friends of Pompeii." Before the city was destroyed by an eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A.D., Pompeii was a flourishing Greco-Roman city covering about 155 acres near present-day Naples. It is from the collection of the National Archaeological Museum of Naples that the artifacts and examples of life in ancient Pompeii were obtained for depiction on these medals. Excavations at Pompeii began in 1748 and are unusual for the reason that the daily life of the city was caught at the very moment it was covered by ashes when the volcano erupted.

GAMING TOKENS

For years, U.S. silver dollars were used in Nevada on the gaming tables and in dollar slot machines, as well as for general monetary purposes. When these silver dollars started selling at premium prices in 1964 – as a result of rising silver prices and collector demand – Nevada gaming casinos found themselves in a difficult position. The "cartwheel" disappeared just about as fast as they were placed on the gaming tables.

When it became apparent that the silver dollar problem was not going to solve itself, the Nevada Gaming Commission passed a regulation permitting the casinos, for the first time, to issue their own private dollar denomination metal tokens.

The Franklin Mint minted its first gaming token for the Horseshoe Casino in July 1965. During the years from 1965 through 1969, The Franklin Mint produced a total of 267 Gaming Tokens issues, each bearing the name and trademark of a hotel, casino or race track in the U.S. or abroad. These tokens were minted in $5.00, $2.50, $2.00, $1.00, 50¢ and foreign denominations, in various metals and sizes.

In 1965 and 1966, gaming tokens were issued only in the $1.00 denomination. In 1967, 50¢, $2 And $5 Denomination gaming tokens were introduced. And in 1968, a $2.50 gaming token was introduced. With a new silver (or silverless) dollar on the horizon, The Franklin Mint discontinued producing gaming tokens at the end of 1969.

All 1979 One Dollar Gaming Tokens are of copper-nickel, 37mm in size, unless otherwise noted. Each was struck in Proof-like quality. With one exception, all were issued by Nevada casinos. Mintage figures are not available at this time. A small number of sterling silver specimens were also minted for El Cortez, Club 93 and Landmark Hotel in Proof quality.

CAT. CODE: MGT — FILE NO.: 830

The world-famous Monte Carlo Casino issued these official gaming tokens. The face of the 100-franc chip bears a sculpture of the "Statue of Fortune", the symbol of luck which stands in a niche above the Casino's terrace. The 1000-franc obverse bears a portrayal of the famous statue Song — created by the legendary actress Sarah Bernhardt for the opening of the Casino in 1879. The reverse of both chips features a sculptured design of the Casino itself. Each gambling chip is proof quality.

GAMING COINS OF THE WORLDS GREAT CASINOS

CAT. CODE: OGC — FILE NO.: 994

The great casinos of the world are palaces of fortune where millions are made and lost overnight. The most universally recognized symbols of the world's great casinos are the chips which they issue regularly for play at their tables. Not as well-known, however, are the metal gaming coins that casinos often use for private play. Such gaming coins are distinctive, because they bear unique designs that capture the special character and mood of the casinos they represent.

The mint has struck for the world's great casinos, a number of privately-issued silver gaming coins. These silver coins are struck in circulation quality for use by the casinos. In addition, a limited number of proofs have been minted, generally for presentation by the casino to distinguished patrons and preferred clients. These individual proofs are not circulated and only a very limited number are minted for any one casino. They are extremely difficult to come by.

With the permission of the individual casinos, the mint has assembled a collection of proofs of these sterling silver gaming coins. These proof sets offered by the mint to collectors comprise 25 sterling silver gaming coins from as many leading casinos. Each gaming coin has an established face value, and is redeemable at the casino of issue. While the face value differs for each coin, the average face value is equivalent to $25 U.S. at 1978 exchange rates.

Each official gaming coin bears an original design that symbolizes the casino issuing it. Not only are the designs of these coins different, but the shapes and sizes vary throughout the collection as well. Each coin is highlighted by its individual identifying mark created in the distinctive style of the issuing casino.

The edge of each coin bears a unique reeding pattern, which distinguishes that casino's particular gaming coin for security purposes. A special presentation case was also provided.

EASTER EGGS

CAT. CODE: EGP — FILE NO.: 933/1131

FLOWERS OF LOVE

CAT. CODE: VLP — FILE NO. 866

The Victorian language of flowers spoke secretly of all the feelings lovers of those days dared not trust to words. On Valentine's Day, in that romantic era, you would have given a lavishly decorated and lacy Valentine, full of hearts and flowers.

This cameo pendant is adorned with four intertwined flowers, which conceal among their petals a secret message. A tiny moss rose whispers, I Confess My Love. Be Mine urges the four-leafed clover. Accept My Devotion says the curling honeysuckle, and the little forget-me-not chants its own name. The intricate design is sculpted in frosted relief on polished sterling silver, and includes a matching sterling silver chain.

IMPERIAL HORSE

CAT CODE: PIH — FILE NO: 925

At the end of Buddha's time on earth, he summoned all the animals so that he might bid them farewell. And the first to arrive, among them, the horse, received a special reward for their devotion. For Buddha decreed that henceforth the cycle of the years should, in turn, bear their names and reflect their influence. February 7, 1978, marked the beginning of the Year of the Horse in the lunar calendar of the ancient East. A period traditionally auspicious for those who pursue their purposes with sincerity, with love, and with generosity.

The mint's Hong Kong affiliate created this Pendant of the Imperial Horse in gold and jade. The image of the imperial horse is of solid 14KT gold; the pendant of jade, which bears the horse, is water-green color. In the ancient East, a gift of jade and gold was the ultimate token of affection and esteem. The pendant includes a 12KT gold-filled neckchain. It was issued only during 1978.

LITTLEST ANGEL

CAT. CODE: LAN — FILE NO.:

The Littlest Angel was the rascal who was always skipping, running, tripping and losing his halo—arriving late to prayers,singing off key at choir practice,and just generally turning heaven upside down. The other angels laughed at him. But it was the Littlest Angel who showed them, that first Christmas, just what giving is all about, with the gift of love.

This pendant in 24KT gold electroplate captures him with tousled hair, impish grin, and wings not exactly straight. He's hanging onto his halo with both hands—just to make sure he doesn't lose it. The pendant comes with its own 12KT gold-filled 18" neckchain.

CAT. CODE: LVT — FILE NO.: 535, 701

In 1976 and again in 1977 the mint issued a love pendant. The Lover's Knot pendant issued in 1976, features the endless lover's knot, an ancient symbol of love and fidelity. It is a symbol that has been exchanged between lovers for centuries to express the intertwining of their lives and the unending nature of their love.

The Flower of Love (Fleur d'Amour) pendant issued in 1977, bears a sculptured flower design, with individual hearts forming the petals of the flower. It expresses both tenderness and passion, since flowers and hearts are among the most ancient symbols of love. The design is especially evocative of the larkspur that, in the language of flowers, symbolizes 'An open heart and an ardent attachment.'

A sterling silver neckchain was included with each sterling silver pendant. The gold on sterling, and solid gold pendants came complete with a gold-filled neckchain. Medals, with same obverse and reverse designs, were also issued. See the Medallic Issues section of this Guidebook.

MICKEY MOUSE

CAT. CODE: MMP — FILE NO.: 947

There's something about the world of Walt Disney, and especially about Mickey Mouse, that's wonderfully appealing. Something that makes grown-ups enjoy Disneyland even more than the children they take along as their excuse to go there. Perhaps it's the fantasy, the pure fun of it all. The 50th birthday of Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse was celebrated on November 18, 1978. This official 24KT gold on sterling silver pendant was issued in tribute to Mickey. It was accompanied by a 12KT gold-filled neckchain.

MIDSUMMER'S EVE

CAT. CODE: MSE — FILE NO.: 768

In Sweden, 'the land of the midnight sun,' there is a very old tradition. It is a festival of light and gaiety celebrated on Midsummer's Eve, the 25th of June. A tribute to the sun, that is, by custom, also dedicated to lovers.

The face of the pendant captures the brilliance of Sweden's midnight sun, as it lights up the evening sky. The reverse evokes the charm of the traditional Midsummer's Eve revelries — with the delicate flowers that a girl places beneath her pillow to dream of the man she will marry . . . and the inscription: 'Like the sun of Midsummer's Eve, your love will always light my life.' The pendant hangs from a gold-filled neckchain. The pendant was designed solely and exclusively for this edition by the distinguished Swedish artist Svante Ahlsen.

PAVIUM ZODIAC

CAT. CODE: PZP — FILE NO.: 978

Since the dawn of civilization, man has probed the mystery of the stars and delved deeply into the wonders of the Zodiac. It was the learned men who developed a calendar of classic symbols for the 12 months of the astrological year. These symbols hold a many-layered, and even mystical, significance, related to the zodiac "animals", to aspects of the human body, personality and character, and to the influence of sun and moon, as well.

These ancient symbols have inspired a new concept in zodiac jewelry that is unlike anything ever seen. The Pavium Zodiac Pendant, is in fact, a whole collection, a different pendant for every one of the 12 signs of the Zodiac. Pavium consists of crystals of pure silver, with the same brilliance as pave diamonds.

Each symbol is set in a vermeil mounting, 24KT gold electroplate on sterling silver, and suspended from a 12KT gold-filled neckchain. The pendant was packaged in a velvet-covered jewel presentation case.

PERFECT LOVE

CAT. CODE: PLP — FILE NO.

In Japan, many years ago, one of the Japanese emperors declared his love for the empress-to-be with this little poem:

If but we could two birds become,
To fly forever, entwined as one.

With these simple words, the emperor was able to convey the depth of his love and his longing.

This beautiful sentiment, echoed through the centuries by countless other lovers, inspired this original yet classic work of jewelry. The sterling silver pendant portrays two graceful lovebirds flying together with chrysanthenum blossoms held in their beaks, around two trees whose branches intertwine. Chrysanthenums are the Oriental flowers of long life and happiness. The design is deeply rooted in traditional Japanese culture and in the poetic symbolism that remains a part of Japanese life, even today.

The pendant was created in Japan. The sculpted design has the birds and blossoms in frosted relief against a mirror-polished background. It is suspended from a cord of black silk—in the traditional Oriental manner.

FORGET-ME-NOT-LOCKET

CAT. CODE: FMN — FILE NO.: 797

Of all the flowers poets praise, the one that best expresses lasting affection and true love is the forget-me-not. For this flower has been closely tied to feelings of friendship and love for many centuries. The mint has chosen a spray of forget-me-nots as the inspiration for its first locket.

At first glance, the locket looks like a medal with a sculptured design. Where the locket opens, to hold a photograph, the two halves are so precisely fitted, they seem as one. The sculptured flowers and satin ribbon in the design are frosted so that they stand out in contrast to the mirror-like background. Each locket includes its own neckchain.

Each locket is 32mm diameter, proof-like.

CORONATION SCARAB OF THE PHARAOH TUTANKHAMEN

CAT. CODE: CSP — FILE NO.: 782

On a November day in 1922, the archaeological expedition headed by Howard Carter discovered the legendary tomb of the boy-king Tutankhamen. Within was a treasure house of riches, which had been buried for more than 3,000 years, hidden by the sands of the desert. Notable among the treasures is a scarab of deep-blue lapis lazuli and solid gold — the gold worked with a scene representing Tutankhamen's coronation. It is one of the great treasures of ancient jewelry in the collection of the National Museum at Cairo, Egypt.

This authentic re-creation is an official issue of the Egyptian Museum and is virtually identical to the original in the Museum's collection. The upper surface is a scarab of lapis lazuli, set in gold. Beneath the scarab is a base of solid 14KT gold, sculptured with a scene depicting the crowning of Tutankhamen by one god, while another god bestows upon him the gift of eternal life. Above Tutankhamen's crowned head is the sun, flanked by two cobras — symbols of regal power. And below the three figures is a design of hieroglyphs, signifying: 'Adoration by all the people of united Upper and Lower Egypt.' This scarab may well have been part of the actual coronation regalia worn by Tutankhamen, or it may have been created as a commemoration of his coronation, to accompany his spirit in the hereafter.

This re-creation was made possible when the Egyptian Museum authorized the taking of castings directly from the Tutankhamen scarab. This work was done with the greatest of care, by highly skilled artisans who worked within the Egyptian Museum itself, with the assistance and cooperation of the Museum staff. The large lapis lazuli gemstones that form each scarab were carefully matched and fitted.

The scarab was accompanied by an Egyptian-style rope chain of 14KT gold. This single edition was limited to 1,000 pieces worldwide.

DOVE IN THE AMETHYST TREE by FABERGE

CAT. CODE: DAT — FILE NO.: 1214

The days when royalty reigned over most of Europe are past. Gone, too, is the one artist who created precious objects of beauty for the kings, the queens and the czars. Peter Carl Faberge, court jeweler to the Imperial Russian family. Faberge fashioned jewelry for royal personages; but he also created what he called "fantasies"—gem—laden objects to capture the eye and excite the heart. And he insisted that each "fantasy" should contain an ingenious surprise.

In our own time, the grandson of this great artist, Igor Carl Faberge, carries on the tradition established by his grandfather. At his studio in Geneva, Switzerland, he designs custom jewelry and fantasies of his own for present-day royalty and members of society. Igor Carl Faberge's original work of art The Dove in the Amethyst Tree was inspired by the wonder of nature, and contains, within itself, two surprises in the Faberge tradition.

The tree is of gold vermeil (22KT gold electroplate on sterling silver), its boughs laden with amethyst fruit (20 lavender amethysts), and leaves of hand-carved jade. On a limb of the tree is a little bird's nest of gold vermeil. Within the nest are three bird's eggs that are actually baroque pearls, chosen especially for their unusual shape. A dove of solid 14KT gold, hand set with 6 brilliant, fully-faceted diamonds and 6 round blue sapphires, sits on the nest to protect the eggs.

The surprise is that the dove may be taken from the nest and worn as a brooch or as a pendant, then returned to its place in the nest. (An 18" pendant-chain of 14KT gold is concealed in the nest). The second surprise is from the foliage on the tree, a pair of earrings may be plucked. Each one is adorned with a cluster of jade and a single cabochon amethyst, set in gold vermeil. After each wearing, they too may be returned to the tree. There was a limit of 1,000 pieces world-wide.

EMERGENCE OF SPRING EGG

CAT. CODE: EGG — FILE NO.: 741

Peter Carl Faberge's precious collector's eggs were prized treasures of the Imperial Family of Russia in the early years of this century. This gold and silver collector's egg is an original and totally unique work of art created by the mint in the tradition of Faberge's eggs. It is crafted of solid sterling silver, gold vermeil, and fine enamels. It is lined with green velvet, and decorated with Malachite, the 'stone of the Czars.' And it stands on a base of gold vermeil.

The outer shell of the egg is of sterling silver, intricately ornamented with gold filigree. When the egg is opened, a butterfly, with brilliant enamels hand-inlaid on sterling silver, emerges. Then the butterfly's wings open once again to reveal a single rose worked in polished sterling silver and gold vermeil. Resting upon the silver rose within the egg is a bumblebee of solid 18KT gold. This bumblebee can be worn as a pin.

The egg is an original creation of the mint's artists under the direction of the brilliant sculptor and designer Herman de Roos, and was crafted in Holland. There was an edition limit of 750 eggs. Each egg is individually numbered and registered in the owner's name.

FIREBIRD JEWELRY ENSEMBLE by FABERGE

CAT. CODE: IFC — FILE NO.

The romantic Russian legend of the Firebird has been an inspiration for poets, artists and musicians for centuries. It was the inspiration for this original collection of fine jewelry by one of the master designers of our day. Igor Carl Faberge', grandson of Peter Carl Faberge' who served as goldsmith and jeweler to the Russian Imperial Court, drew on his own rich memories of legend and lore to create this collection.

Each work in this custom jewelry ensemble was created with the most painstaking attention to detail. Each is crafted in solid 14KT gold, and set with full-cut diamonds and brilliant red rubies. The necklace is the largest and most dramatic piece, and symbolizes the Firebird in a glittering "ring of fire" composed of red rubies. Its wings are highlighted by diamonds and rubies. The 14KT gold Firebird is suspended from a matching 14KT gold chain. The bracelet carries through the same Firebird theme, but is interpreted in a different fashion. Here, the head and feathers of the bird are the focus, and are set into a band of 14KT gold to encircle the wrist. Rubies and diamonds accent the piece.

The 14KT gold ring is designed as a swirl of feathers ornamented by diamonds and rubies. The earrings re-create the image of the Firebird soaring upward. It is crafted in 14KT gold, with a single red ruby.

The edition was limited to 1,000 of each piece. A custom-designed velvet jewelry case was provided for the complete ensemble, or for the individual pieces. Each piece of jewelry bears the signature mark of its designer, Igor Carl Faberge.

JEWELLED BUTTERFLY by FABERGE

CAT. CODE: JBF — FILE NO. 1116

The Czars of Imperial Russia turned to one man when they sought unique pieces of custom jewelry for their loved ones. That man was Peter Carl Faberge' — master jeweler and goldsmith. Here he designs and creates new masterpieces of jewelry in the Faberge' manner for members of European society.

The wings and body of the butterfly are of 14KT gold, worked in delicate and graceful filigree design. JEWELLED CAROUSEL by FABERGE

CAT. CODE: JCS — FILE NO.: 1118

Igor Carl Faberge' is the sole heir to the tradition established by his grandfather, Peter Carl Faberge', the creative genius who designed fabulous works of art for the Imperial Family of Russia at the turn of the century. At his studio in Geneva, Switzerland, he creates exquisite objects of art for today's European royalty and society.

The Jewelled Carousel is one of the most imaginative and most challenging works of Igor Carl Faberge's career. It is an original work of charm and beauty, and captures the memories and feelings of days gone by. The fine bisque porcelain carousel is hand-decorated with 24KT gold, and is accented with 24KT gold electroplate on sterling silver fittings. Riding around the carousel are 4 loveable animals: a lion, a unicorn, a horse and a swan. Each animal is crafted in 14KT gold, inlaid with fine enamels and set with a different precious gemstone.

The lion is set with an emerald and inlaid with red and yellow enamels. The swan is in white and green enamels, and features a blue sapphire. The horse, in blue and green, bears a red ruby. The unicorn is in purple and crimson, and is set with a full-cut diamond.

Many of the most imaginative works of art created by Peter Carl Faberge' contained a special surprise. This Carousel contains a similar surprise. Each of the 4 gold animals can be easily removed, and worn as a jewelled pin. After each is worn, it can be returned to its place on the carousel. JEWELLED PEACOCK by FABERGE

CAT. CODE: JPC — FILE NO.: 809

Whenever the King of Siam, the Empress Eugenie, the Rothschilds, or the British Royal Family desired a jeweled gift to mark some special occasion, they inevitably commissioned a work to be custom-created, to their order. Often it was Peter Carl Faberge, goldsmith to the Russian Imperial Court, who was chosen to receive their commissions. And over the years, the works he created have become treasures prized by the world's great museums and royal collections.

Today, the grandson of this great artist, Igor Carl Faberge, carries on the family tradition in Geneva, creating custom-designed pieces of fine jewelry, exclusively by private commission, for prominent members of society. PARTRIDGE IN A PEAR TREE by FABERGE

CAT. CODE: PPT — FILE NO

In the days of Imperial Russia, the ruling Czars and their empresses turned to just one artist — Peter Carl Faberge', to create luxurious jewelry and gem-laden gifts for members of the royal family. Works that often included an ingenious surprise. Today, the grandson of this great artist, Igor Carl Faberge', carries on the tradition of his forebear. At his studio in Geneva, Switzerland, he designs custom jewelry and gifts for present-day European royalty and society.

This creation by Igor Carl Faberge' consists of a fanciful pear tree of sterling silver and vermeil (22KT gold electroplate on sterling silver). Hanging from the tree is a bird cage of 14KT gold, home of a jeweled partridge. The partridge is also crafted of 14KT gold and is embellished with three diamonds and six red rubies. The surprise is that the cage may be plucked from the tree and worn as a brooch. Or, if desired, it may be worn as a pendant. (A 14KT pendant chain is hidden in the base of the tree.)

The second surprise is that hanging from the tree are two very special pears, each crafted in 14KT gold and each set with three diamonds and a single red ruby. They may be plucked from the tree and worn as earrings. The earrings compliment the gold partridge brooch. After each wearing of the jewelry, the brooch and earrings may be returned to their places on the tree. The edition was limited to 1,000 pieces.

PEONY NECKLACE

CAT CODE NPT — FILE NO

Ever since Marco Polo returned with his fantastic tales of exotic "Cathay", the Western World has been fascinated by the wonders of China. Especially the artistry and imagination displayed in Chinese art treasures.

This is the mint's first offering from the Chinese mainland. The Necklace of the Precious Peony. It is a harmonious blend of beautiful materials and traditional motifs. The large deep red cinnabar pendant which is the centerpiece of the necklace is hand carved with an intricate stylized, peony design. Cinnabar has long been a favorite medium among Chinese artists, while the peony is a symbol of love and beauty in the Orient.

The pendant is suspended from a rope of spherical translucent pale green serpentine jade beads. The finishing touches are the two matching hand carved cinnabar beads, and the hand crafted filigree decorations in gold vermeil — 24KT gold electroplate.

Each individual bead and carving was brought from China. The Necklace was expressly commissioned and exclusively acquired by the mint for its own registered collectors.

POMPEII GOLD BRACELET

CAT CODE GBP — FILE NO 1029

The ancient city of Pompeii was totally destroyed nearly 2,000 years ago when the volcano of Mt. Vesuvius erupted. For centuries, the city lay buried and forgotten under tons of molten lava. Then, in 1748, the first excavation of Pompeii was begun. It was discovered that many of the city's greatest treasures had been preserved by volcanic ash.

Since that time, many precious relics have been uncovered from the ruins of Pompeii. One of the most fascinating is a gold bracelet of exceptional design. Apparently it had been brought to the wine cellar of a great villa in Boscoreale, near Pompeii, for safekeeping when Vesuvius erupted. It was protected from destruction, and has come down to us virtually intact after 20 centuries.

The Louvre in Paris authorized the mint to produce an authentic re-creation of this gold bracelet. It was scrupulously re-created in 14KT gold, so that it was virtually identical to the original. Only 1500 of these bracelets were produced. The bracelet is composed of individual gold hemispheres, each pair joined by a gold link.

Every feature of the re-creation is as close as possible to the original. The bracelet was studied in detail, with the advice and assistance of the staff of the Louvre. Each of the gold hemispheres was crafted, utilizing the traditional lost-wax process, often used by the artists of ancient times. Even slight differences from one hemisphere to another are clearly distinguishable. The bracelet is hallmarked with the symbol of the Louvre and the mint. The bracelet is suitable for daytime or evening wear, and its gold brilliance will mellow through the years.

LOVERS' ROSE STICKPIN

CAT CODE: LVR — FILE NO. 968

The gift of a single rose bears a universal message clearer than any words. It says "I Love You". In Venice, this gift is also part of a centuries-old springtime tradition that dates back to the Middle Ages. It was early spring and two star-crossed lovers wished to marry in the face of a family rivalry. The girl's father angrily refused and observed that they were as likely to be married as a rose was to bloom at that time of year.

Fate intervened, and beneath the young girl's window a single, perfect rose burst into bloom. In Venice, at the Feast of St. Mark in April, each suitor bestows upon the maiden whose hand he seeks just such a perfect rose as that in the legend, as a token of perfect love.

This stickpin is washed with 24KT gold, and hand-painted in enamel colors. And placed on one softly-curling petal is a brilliant-cut many-faceted 1-1/2 point diamond, like a drop of dew.

EQUESTRIAN BOWL

CAT. CODE: EQB — FILE NO. 991

The Federation Equestre Internationale in Brussels, Belgium, is the acknowledged world authority on the sport of equestrianism. The Federation honored this great sport by issuing this commemorative silver Bowl, since silver has traditionally been associated with horsemanship and equestrian competition.

The most striking feature of this work is a fully sculptured frieze which completely encircles the Bowl. This frieze is composed of a series of sculptures which have been created by the mint's Sculptors Studio. It is one of the largest sculptural works which the Studio has ever undertaken. The frieze carries an uninterrupted tableau of the horse, portraying a variety of forms of equestrian competition: show jumping, cross country, diving and dressage. The individual sculptures which make up the frieze are accurately detailed in all respects.

A Certificate of Authenticity bearing the signature of the President of the Federation, H.R.H. Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, accompanies each Bowl. The maximum number of Bowls that was produced throughout the world, was 1500. Each Bowl is serially numbered. The first Bowl was presented to the winner of the World Dressage Championship held at Sussex, England in July, 1978.

HARVEST BOWL

CAT. CODE: HVB — FILE NO. 840

To the silversmiths of Sheffield, England and colonial New England, silver and gold plate was an honored and cherished medium for the creation of large and heavy pieces, such as this Harvest Bowl. Lavish collector's bowls, richly decorated in gold and silver, have graced the sideboards and dining tables of well-appointed homes for centuries. The sculptured art that distinguishes the minted frieze on this bowl reveals its superiority to bowls produced by less sophisticated techniques, such as casting and stamping.

The Harvest Bowl is an original work of art conceived in the tradition of America's colonial heritage. It is crafted by hand, and finished in silver and gold. There is a 25" minted circular frieze in sculptured detail, embellished with 24KT gold, that pays tribute to the bounty of America.

Since Victorian times, it has rarely been produced in America. The special clays used in this bowl were imported from England. The flower/fruit bowl is octagonal, 9" long, 3" high. ROSE GARDEN BOWL

CAT. CODE: RGB — FILE NO.: 1196

The gardens of the White House are far more than just a lovely setting for America's Executive Mansion. A sense of the continuity of American history pervades its grounds. For every President since George Washington has lived and worked there, looking out across those grounds.

Treaties have been signed there. Kings and Queens and foreign heads of state have walked among the flowers. Couples have been married there. And countless Americans have enjoyed the special beauty and significance of those gardens. For the White House belongs to all Americans. The Rose Garden, just outside the President's office, is filled with the fairest and most delicate of roses. Seventeen varieties, which were chosen for their perfect form, exquisite color and superb fragrance. Among all these roses, the "Peace" rose is a particular favorite.

It was born in France, and flown out on the last plane for America before the Nazi occupation. After some years, the rose so impressed the American Rose Society that they were holding a special name-giving ceremony in its honor. It was resolved that "this greatest rose of our time should be named for the world's greatest desire: Peace." The name was officially adopted on the day that Britain fell, and delegates to the U.N. Organizing Conference in San Francisco were greeted by this rose, symbolizing peace.

Today, connoisseurs still consider "Peace" to be the most beautiful rose in the world. Distinguished by stately elegance, glossy foliage, and the beauty of its blooms, suffused with tones of ivory and gold, and fringed in pink.

Inspired by the White House Rose Garden, this large bone china bowl was issued. Bone china combines whiteness, translucence and strength in a way unmatched by any other porcelain. The original work of art is by the talented American artist Maureen Jensen. The art for this bowl has been carefully reviewed for beauty, artistic integrity, botanical accuracy and authenticity in every detail. As a complement for this work of art, it is bordered by a band of 24KT gold, applied by hand.

GUARDS REGIMENTS

CAT CODE GRB — FILE NO. 988

In the service of the Royal Household in London, 7 elite Regiments of the Sovereign have for 3 centuries forged a proud record of gallantry and dedication. Heroic on the battlefield, their service is royally recognized. For Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II is Colonel-in-Chief of all 7 Guards Regiments, an honor granted to few other British Army Regiments.

In tribute to their Colonel-in-Chief on the 25th anniversary of her coronation, The Household Division authorized the creation of a set of sterling silver presentation boxes signifying the bond between Regiments and Sovereign. The collection consists of 8 silver boxes — a box of oval shape for each of the Guards Regiments, and a single box of rectangular shape honoring H.M. The Queen. These 8 boxes are original works of art, designed expressly for this tribute, and worked in high relief repousse. In the art of repousse, the silver is worked from the reverse side, literally "pushed forward," to achieve unusually high perspective and quality of detail.

The repousse work on the lid of each oval box portrays an individual Guardsman in a distinctive uniform of his Regiment. To the Guardsman's right appears the name of his Regiment. The opposite side bears the Regiment's official motto, if they have adopted one. A Border of ornate scrollwork bears the year in which the Regiment was formed and the official Regimental Badge.

H.M. Queen Elizabeth II is portrayed on the rectangular silver box, the 8th work in the series. Mounted on horseback, she wears the uniform of the Colonel-in-Chief of the Grenadiers, the senior Foot Guards Regiment. Inscriptions in the scrollwork identifies H.M. The Queen, the year of the Coronation, and the official Badge and Motto of The Household Division. In addition, the border is worked in an elaborate sculptured motif, as were fine repousse boxes dating from the 17th century. Each box is finished and polished by hand.

POETRY OF LOVE

CAT. CODE: PLB — FILE NO.: 1003

Painting, it has been said, is silent poetry — and poetry, painting that speaks. An epigram whose truth is demonstrated in the great love poetry of England. These great poems have been honored in varied ways by succeeding generations. One such tradition dates back to the late 18th century when expert handcraftsmen created boxes in enamel, fused under heat to pure copper, with colors that combined the brilliance of glass and the opacity of porcelain.

The Poetry Society of England issued this collection of 12 enameled boxes in the historic tradition of honoring the riches of English love poetry. The selections chosen by the Society for this collection represent the most beautiful and memorable words of love ever written. The cover of each box is adorned with a finely detailed scene capturing the charm and individual character of the poem that box honors. Each of these scenes has been created expressly for this collection by the noted British artist Gerald Stamp. These original works of art were commissioned exclusively for this collection, and will never be issued again.

The works of art were crafted in an array of glowing colors, all fired in for lasting beauty. Inscribed on the inside of each lid is the heart of the poem honored by the box, together with an authentic silhouette of the poet, and the poet's name.

PAPERWEIGHTS & CAMEOS IN CRYSTAL

ALICE IN WONDERLAND PAPERWEIGHTS

CAT. CODE: AWC — FILE NO. 329

Each of the 12 fine art crystal paperweights in this collection is crafted of the finest full-lead crystal, cut into facets, hand polished and then engraved with an original portrait depicting one of the beloved characters created by Lewis Carroll more than a century ago in Alice in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass. Because of the unique 8 faceted shape of these paperweights, the portrait seems to change as you turn the crystal in your hands.

The 8-sided geometric form of the crystal has 4 large hexagonal faces and 4 small triangular faces. It is composed of the finest lead crystal, 33 percent lead oxide content, color-free and optically perfect. Produced in Austria, in heating chambers lined with platinum, so that no impurities are imparted to the molten crystal, then slowly cooled and cut. Each paperweight is individually hand polished and engraved by Franklin Crystal. The engravings on the crystal are original works of art adapted from the illustrations of Sir John Tenniel for Lewis Carroll's 2 books about Alice.

GARDEN BIRDS

CAT. CODE: TGB — FILE NO.: 1122

The birds that visit the garden are among the most beautiful and most delightful of nature's creatures. They provide pleasure and inspiration with the richness of their color and the melody of their song. Birds have long been a favorite subject of painters, sculptors, writers and composers. This collection of 25 collector's thimbles in fine bone china captures garden birds in an intriguing artistic medium.

Peter Barrett, one of the world's most outstanding nature artists, was commissioned to design this collection. He is a distinguished naturalist as well as an artist. His paintings have been exhibited in the famous Royal Academy in London. This collection of thimbles demanded an artist's best work, for he has captured the beauty, the mood and the detail of birds, in a very small area.

Each thimble portrays, in life-like detail, the features of a different bird in rich, realistic color. The artist is a master in the art of miniaturization — portraying intricate details with complete accuracy in a very, limited area. The garden birds depicted are among the loveliest and most expressive in all the world. Each bird is portrayed in a natural setting surrounded by leaves or flowers.

The scientific name of the bird, rendered in script, is part of the design of each thimble. A 24KT gold border is applied to each individual thimble by hand. A custom-designed hardwood wall frame to display the complete collection was provided to each subscriber.

FLOWERS OF THE SEASONS BOUQUETS

CAT. CODE: FSB — FILE NO.: 724

At the great courts of Europe at the turn of the century, small bouquets created in gold and colored enamels were among the most prized and cherished possessions of royal families. King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra received several such bouquets as gifts, and they were included in the official catalogue of British royal treasures. Czar Nicholas and his imperial Russian court at St. Petersburg also owned such bouquets.

The designs and arrangements for these 4 Franklin Mint bouquets were created by Gloria Vanderbilt, one of the most imaginative and talented designers of our time. These works of art were created exclusively for this collection, and will never be issued again in any form. The collection consists of 4 handcrafted flower arrangements, each portraying charming blossoms of one of the 4 seasons. The flowers and stems are individually flashed with 24KT gold, and the petals and leaves are hand-enameled in pure, bright colors. The bouquets are assembled and arranged by hand in specially designed flower baskets electroplated with 24KT gold.

IMPERIAL RUSSIAN BOUQUETS

CAT. CODE: FBB — FILE NO.: 983

At the court of imperial Russia, Czar Alexander II delighted in commissioning miniature bouquets — hand-enameled evocations of nature — from the workshops of the imperial goldsmith, Peter Carl Faberge. From St. Petersburg, the fame of those Faberge bouquets spread to the courts of the world, especially to England, where Edward VII bestowed them as gifts upon Queen Alexandra. Today, those bouquets created by Faberge are priceless treasures.

The grandson of Peter Carl Faberge, the distinguished goldsmith and jeweler Igor Carl Faberge, carries on the family tradition in his studio in Geneva, Switzerland, where he designs and creates new masterpieces in the Faberge manner, exclusively by private commission, for titled and wealthy patrons.

The mint commissioned Faberge to create this collection of 4 new and original works of art in the tradition established by his grandfather. These creations combine traditional Russian flowers. The flowers are washed in 24KT gold, and hand-painted with vivid enamel colors. They are arranged by hand in a sculptured vase electroplated with 24KT gold. The vase was designed especially for this collection, and complements the flowers.

JARDINIERES

CAT. CODE: OJD — FILE NO.: 1080

There are 4 supernatural creatures of the Orient traditionally honored as Monarchs of the Celestral Sphere. Japan's renowned house of Okura created this series of 4 jardinieres (ornamental flower pots) of fine porcelain which portray these creatures: the White Tiger, the Azure Dragon, the Vermillion Phoenix and the Black Tortoise. Together, these creatures represent all the virtues and powers that mortal beings could ever desire, making them models of strength and character for all to emulate.

The central design of each jardiniere focuses on one creature. It is complimented by a motif which includes all three of the other creatures. To compliment the intricate design, there is the lotus flower, symbol of the sun and perpetual life and purity, traditionally a most important ornamental feature of fine Japanese porcelain.

The house of Okura is, by appointment, creator of porcelain for the Imperial Family. The porcelain is exceptionally white and pure, and has an incredibly smooth finish. Each piece is fired at a very high temperature of 1,400 degrees to achieve a surface with sufficient hardness to capture the full beauty and richness of the colors. Each jardiniere is an original work of art, and is accompanied by fine hardwood display frame. The jardinieres measure: height: 6- 3/8", width: 8- 1/4" (mouth), 8- 3/4" (center), 5- 1/8" (base).

OKURA JAPANESE FLOWER VASES

CAT CODE JFV — FILE NO. 851-9?

Ever since man first perceived the idea of beauty, and found ways to interpret it, the vase has been one of the most favored forms of art. Among the most treasured of all such works have been the porcelain vases created by the artists of Japan. Porcelain was introduced into Japan more than 4 centuries ago, long before it was developed in Europe. Since that time, vases of Japanese procelain have been acquired by prominent families throughout the world and have become part of the collections of great museums. In our own time, the house of Okura, porcelain maker to the Imperial family of Japan, world-renowned for its porcelain works of art.

The 4 Japanese flower vases in this series are all crafted by Okura, and each is the same size and shape, but each focuses on a different flower for its central design. The complete set portrays the Four Noble Flowers. Japanese porcelain is prized for its whiteness, its purity and its smoothness. It has an exceptionally hard surface which brings out the true beauty of the colors in the vase. A hardwood display stand was included with each vase.

Each vase focuses on one of the four noble flowers of the Orient — the orchid, the plum blossom, the bamboo and the chrysanthemum. The main design is complemented by a motif, around the bottom and neck of the vase, which includes the other 3 flowers. These flowers which according to legend, assure long life, instill honor and enhance the spirit.

SURREY WEDGWOOD VASES

CAT CODE RHS — FILE NO. 1192

Of all man's arts, there are two in particular at which the British are especially adept. The art of cultivating gardens, and the art of creating china. This collection of 4 vases reflects both of these traditions. In 1979, the oldest horticultural society in the world, England's Royal Horticultural Society, celebrated the 75th anniversary of its internationally-renowned gardens at Wisley, in the heart of the Surrey countryside. To mark this occasion, the Society commissioned one of the most distinguished names in the world of porcelain—Josiah Wedgwood & Sons—to craft these 4 anniversary Vases, in English bone china.

The Vases bear original works of art, created exclusively for the issue by Mary Anderson Grierson, who has often been described as the world's pre-eminent horticultural artist. Formerly the official resident artist of England's Royal Botanic Gardens, she has been internationally acclaimed for the combination of scientific accuracy and artistic sensitivity that characterized her work.

Each vase depicts flowers of a different season: Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter. One of the Spring flowers depicted, the Forsythia, is named after Sir William Forsyth, one of the Royal Society's founders. The name of another Society founder is evoked by the title of the Vases. John Wedgwood himself drafted the original constitution of the Society.

Each Vase is created to individual order, and fired by Wedgwood's craftsmen at a temperature of 850 degrees c. to achieve a brilliant and translucent surface quality. Each piece is decorated with a border of 24KT gold.

ALDEN, JOHN, LOWBOY

CAT. CODE: FHF — FILE NO.: 1197

The diplomatic reception rooms of the U.S. Department of State in Washington, D.C., house some of the most beautiful and outstanding examples of antique American furniture. Among the fine pieces there is an exceptionally handsome lowboy, in Queen Anne style, crafted during the mid-18th century and passed down over the years in the family of the famous Pilgrim father John Alden. By express authorization of the owner, this authentic re-creation was issued.

The original was created to order for a distinguished American family, and was meticulously crafted in every detail by the skilled furniture makers of New England. For 18th-century Americans, the lowboy was a practical piece since it could be used as a table as well as a small chest. Each of the 5 drawers was made from 10 different pieces, inlaid with hand matched graining in a herringbone pattern. The 4 legs were crafted in the Cabriole design, a hallmark of the Queen Anne style. The skirt is fashioned from one piece of veneered wood. Five separate drawer pulls decorate the front of the piece and each is made of solid brass.

This lowboy was re-created to the most exacting standards of quality and integrity. While the original piece was made of walnut, this re-creation was crafted of Honduras mahogany. All of the curves and fine features of the original were matched in this re-creation. Every one of the more than 50 separate pieces has been precisely cut, shaped and finished—much of it by hand. Each piece is hand-sanded, hand-rubbed and hand-waxed.

The top, which had apparently been replaced sometime after the original was made, has been re-designed so that it resembles the design of the original top. The 5 brass fixtures match precisely the fixtures on the original and were individually sand-cast, beveled and hand-polished. The actual finishing of each piece of this lowboy demands no fewer than 15 different steps.

CHIPPENDALE DESK

CAT. CODE: FHF — FILE NO.: 733

More than 200 years ago, many notable examples of fine Chippendale furniture were created by the Goddard-Townsend family of cabinetmakers for the great homes of Newport, one of the wealthiest cities in Colonial America. John Townsend was the one who excelled in beauty of design and workmanship. He came very close to perfection in the shell-carved, slant-top, block-front Chippendale desk he created in 1765. The desk now stands in the Diplomatic Reception Rooms of the U.S. State Department in Washington, D.C. With the express authorization of its owner, and with the approval of the State Department, a limited number of re-creations of these desks were made.

The South American mahogany in this re-creation is strong and richly grained, as was the mahogany Townsend used. The wood was cut and carved so that it was virtually identical in every respect to the original. The shell carvings on the lid and in the gallery are precisely detailed. The brasses were individually sand-cast, beveled and hand-filed. The finishing required no less than 25 separate steps, each step individually executed by hand.

This re-creation was not available through stores or decorators. It was crafted only by direct commission.

DUMBARTON HOUSE CANDLESTICKS

CAT. CODE: DHC — FILE NO.: 850

Historic Dumbarton House, in Washington, D.C., which has been restored to its original splendor by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, is magnificently furnished in the fashion of the late 18th and early 19th centuries. This great and gracious home, described as "one of the finest and most beautiful houses in the U.S.", contains many treasures — antiques, paintings and silver. Particularly distinguished are the elegant and graceful silver plated Candlesticks.

The original candlesticks, created in Sheffield, England, seven generations ago, are remarkable for their symmetry, their fine detailing and their graceful oval styling. The bases, the stems, the knops and the bobeches are all oval, with fluting. The re-creations are virtually identical in every respect to the originals. They are of Sheffield plate, as are those in Dumbarton House. Every nuance of design is taken directly from the originals; the work was done in Sheffield, England. JEFFERSON GRANDFATHER CLOCK

The Thomas Jefferson Grandfather Clock — the fine walnut long case clock owned by our 3rd President and commissioned by him for his home, Monticello — is one of the great classics of American furniture. Jefferson was so proud of this magnificent clock, and prized it so highly among his possessions, that he kept it for years in his own bedroom. And the clock remained there until his death in 1826. Today, this heirloom clock is one of the treasures of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. For the first time, an authentic re-creation of this clock has been authorized by the Society.

The wood in this re-creation is strong and richly grained, as was the American walnut used on the original clock. Master craftsmen have matched every fine curve and refinement of the original. The face of the clock is a unique design consisting of 4 hand-painted ornaments in each corner, and the round hand-painted patera above the dial. The 2 sets of numbers, both Roman and Arabic, are those which Jefferson specifically requested.

Every one of the more than 250 separate pieces is hand-sanded and hand-rubbed to achieve an exceptionally smooth finish. The timepiece is a precision-crafted 8-day movement made in West Germany. The clock includes a set of Westminister chimes which sound on each quarter hour. The Certificate of Authenticity is signed by the Director of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

QUEEN ANNE CHAIRS

CAT. CODE: FILE NO.: 1071

In the history of American furniture, the Queen Anne period that began in the mid-1700's stands as an era of extraordinary artistry and craftsmanship. During this period, American craftsmen created masterpieces of fine furniture that are still admired and coveted all over the world. The Queen Anne chairs created by Philadelphia craftsmen are beautiful in their design and workmanship. One particular chair was chosen by Charles F. Montgomery, distinguished authority on Colonial furniture, for inclusion in an international exhibition of the finest in American antiques.

This authentic re-creation of this historic chair was crafted with the same abiding concern for the ultimate in quality as the original. While the original chair was made of walnut, this re-creation is crafted of richly grained mahogany. Henredon, one of the nation's finest creators of custom-crafted furniture, has matched every curve and every fine detail of the original chair.

The seat itself is padded, crowned and finished either with muslin, for covering with the collector's own fabric, or with a fine antique velvet in a choice of five different colors. Every one of the nearly two dozen separate pieces is cut to size, then carefully shaped and finished. The finishing alone requires no less than nineteen separate hand-executed stages.

A Queen Anne side chair was also made available. It was designed by Henredon directly from the armchair, reduced in perfect scale and proportion. All chairs are stamped on the inside of the seat with the year of the chair's creation. The dimensions of the armchair are: 32-3/8" wide x 23-7/8" deep x 45-1/8" high (seat height: 18-1/8"). The side chair is: 21" wide x 23-1/2" deep x 44" high (seat height: 18-1/8").

DICKENS TOBY JUGS

CAT. CODE: DTJ — FILE NO. 1027

The Dickens House Museum, London, dedicated to preserving the heritage Charles Dickens gave to the world, issued this collection of 12 English Toby Jugs depicting the most famous characters from his greatest novels. Toby Jugs are earthenware "character mugs" that depict famous personalities from fact or fiction. The eminent artist and sculptor, Peter Jackson, was commissioned to create the original designs, and the crafting of the jugs in English earthenware was assigned to Wood and Sons Ltd., originators of the first Toby Jugs in the middle of the 18th century.

Each of these Toby Jugs was sculptured by the outstanding British artist Peter Jackson, who is also a noted historian and authority on English society. He is noted for the meticulous historical accuracy of his work. In each case he has captured not only the appearance of the character, but his or her personality as well. Each design has the touch of the humourous, the whimsical, the wry, of which Dickens was a master.

Each piece is authentically detailed. Each Toby Jug is individually hand painted.

DUTCH WEST INDIA COMPANY TANKARD

CAT. CODE: DWI — FILE NO.:

Throughout the history of Europe, the decorative tankard has been among the most popular works of art for the commemoration of great national occurences, heroes and institutions. The year 1979 marked the 400th anniversary of the birth of The Netherlands. No achievement is more inspiring than the voyages of discovery and exploration that bore the Dutch flag to the far corners of the world. This tankard was issued by The Franklin Mint Netherlands, in honor of that age of exploration and the daring and iron-willed sea captains which led it.

Around the sides of the tankard are portrayed in detailed, sculptured high relief, figures and scenes recalling the fearless seahawks of the Dutch West India Co., in the swashbuckling costume of their time, in their gallant sailing ships. This high relief is executed by the artisans of Soltaur Zinn, Germany, with meticulous craftsmanship, and with an exceptional living realism.

The original molds are hand-engraved, the pewter is hand-cast, the sculptured detail is hand-finished, and a final polishing by hand brings out the sheen and smoothness of the pewter.

FRANKLIN TANKARD

CAT. CODE: BFT — FILE NO.:

Important pieces of American colonial silver are extremely rare. And rarer still is silver that can be identified as having been owned and used by any of America's founding fathers. Among the few surviving examples of such historic Colonial silver is the tankard which belonged to Benjamin Franklin, and which is now in the permanent collection of The Franklin Institute in Philadelphia, site of the Benjamin Franklin National Memorial.

This Tankard was crafted for Franklin about 1750 by Elias Boudinot, the noted Philadelphia silversmith. The handle bears the initials B D F — for Benjamin and Deborah Franklin. The Tankard bears the Franklin family coat of arms in intricate scroll work. The tulip-shaped body and domed lid are characteristic of the best aspects of Queen Anne style. It is likely that Franklin personally dictated the style and proportions of this Tankard.

By authorization of The Franklin Institute, this historic Tankard was re-created and issued by the mint. This Tankard has never been reproduced before and it will never be reproduced again. It was crafted in Britain of fine silver plate, and was authenticated by The Franklin Institute. Dimension: 8" high, 7-3/4" wide (at widest point), 1-2/3 quarts capacity.

FRENCH FLOWERS NAPKIN RINGS

CAT. CODE: FNR — FILE NO.: 870

Exquisite napkin rings of distinctive design have graced the tables of some of the world's most elegant homes for more than a century. Because of their beauty, such napkin rings have been regarded not only as useful objects for a formal setting, but as works of art in their own right.

The Societe Nationale d'Horticulture de France, issued this collection of 6 napkin rings, crafted in a combination of sterling silver and full lead crystal. Each napkin ring honors one of the 6 fleurs primees (principal flowers) of the Societe, the flowers perennially honored by the Societe at exhibitions throughout France.

The Societe was founded in 1827 by a group of eminent individuals with an intense interest in horticulture. Their purpose was to establish a center where new techniques and research studies could be brought together for the furtherance of progress in the field of horticulture. The Societe is concerned with general horticulture—the growing of fruits and vegetables, ornamental arboriculture and the cultivation of flowers.

Each napkin ring is original in design, and octagonal in shape. Each of the 8 sides is faceted to enhance the natural brilliance of the full lead German crystal. The flower designs are original works of art, sculptured and minted in sterling silver. Each napkin ring bears a different flower design.

HUMMINGBIRDS OF THE WORLD CUPS & SAUCERS

CAT. CODE: HBW — FILE NO.:

This collection of 12 collector's cups and saucers is an official issue of the World Wildlife Fund, the world's largest privately supported nature conservation organization in the world. The cups and saucers are crafted in fine Bavarian porcelain. Each cup portrays the glossy brilliance and shimmering grace of a hummingbird, in accurate and authentic detail. Each hummingbird is associated with its favored flower. The vivid leaves and bright blossoms provide the setting for the hummingbirds shown on the front and back of each cup.

One of the world's most distinguished bird artists, Robil Hill, created the original works of art for this series. His paintings of birds have been exhibited in leading art galleries throughout the world. Hummingbirds—"winged jewels" they have been called; John James Audubon described this beautiful, tiny bird: "A glittering fragment of the rainbow . . . moving through the air . . . as if by magic . . . yielding new delights wherever seen."

Each of these cups and saucers is a separate and unique work of art created exclusively for this limited edition. As many as 16 separate ceramic colors are used; each cup and saucer is bordered by a band of hand-applied 24KT gold. Individual cups and saucers were not sold separately. MEDIEVAL GERMAN HUNTING STEINS

CAT. CODE: GHM — FILE NO. 1062

During the Middle Ages, hunting was a sport reserved for those of noble birth. No greater honor could be paid an important guest than a day in the hunt field, followed by a hearty supper where steins were raised in many a complimentary toast. Porcelain hunting steins actually originated in 18th-century Germany. The first collector's steins ever issued by the German Hunting Museum of Munich, Germany, captures the color and spectacle of the medieval hunt.

The first stein of the series of 4 authentically portrays in intricate detail, a hunting party of lords and ladies falconing for pheasant, heron and wild duck. The design is an original work of art created solely and exclusively for this stein. The stein is banded by a hand-decorated border of 24KT gold; its lid is an original detailed sculpture cast in pewter, portraying a brace of pheasants.

Each fine Bavarian porcelain stein required four separate firings. There were fourteen separate ceramic colors fired into the stein. The domed pewter lid of the first stein has a deeply sculptured design of two pheasants and is encircled by a border of sculptured oak leaves, a design which is repeated on the finial of the thumbpiece. Each lid is hand-cast, hand-finished and hand-rubbed to highlight its sculptural detail. The stein was made available exclusively to registered Franklin Mint collectors, Museum patrons and Diners Club members.

SPESSART INN WINE BEAKERS

CAT. CODE: SWB — FILE NO.: 1055

Among the best-known and best-loved tales of German literature are those entitled 'The Inn of the Spessart', published 150 years ago. Stories of adventure and romance which have captivated six generations of readers. The 6 classics are : the principal tale, 'The Inn of the Spessart', and the tales within that tale: 'The Story of the Florin', 'The Gold Heart', 'Said's Adventures', 'The Grocer's Grave' and 'The Cavern of Steenfoll'.

To commemorate this anniversary, the mint created this collection of 6 silver plated and etched wine beakers, ornamented with original works of art in the tradition of the German wine beakers of old. Each beaker bears three original designs, detailed works of art created exclusively for this collection. Each design depicts one dramatic moment from the particular tale which the beaker is dedicated. In all, eighteen scenes are depicted on these 6 beakers.

In addition, just as each separate tale is linked by the one unifying tale of the Spessart Inn itself, so each individual beaker is linked to all the others by intricate elements of the decorative border design, imparting a thematic harmony. The etched designs form a contrast to the polished silver plated surface of the beakers. Inside, the beakers are plated with a satin finished silver. These beakers were made available in the U.S. exclusively to Collectors Society Members.

CHRISTMAS TREE ORNAMENTS

CAT. CODE: CTO — FILE NO.: 77/815, 78/1030, 79/1214

In addition to the annual Christmas Ornaments issued by the mint each year since 1971 (see previous column), and the Twelve Days of Christmas Ornaments issued in 1966 and 1970 (see Twelve in this section), other ornaments have also been issued. The Snowflake ornament is in a lacy, three-dimensional design, etched through silver plate for the treetop. It reflects fascinating light patterns on walls. Height of snowflake: 5 1/2". The Christmas Cherub, chubby and dimpled, is electroformed of sterling silver and includes a sterling silver chain, 5 1/4" long.

The 3 ornaments issued in 1978 are backed by silverplated reflectors, to give shimmering depth and dimension to each original holiday design. Each ornament is crafted with fine filigree surrounding each design. The ornaments are gold-electroplated on brass, the reflectors measure 2-1/2" diameter and are silverplated on brass.

Traditional holly leaves and berries are etched through panels of sterling silver in the ornament issued for 1979. In the center of the ornament is a full lead crystal globe—multifaceted to catch and reflect the tree's lights and decorations. All are suspended from a sterling silver chain.

COLONIAL BOTTLES

CAT. CODE: DAR — FILE NO.: 1134

The roots of American craftsmanship go back to our nation's very beginnings, for many of our early settlers were gifted craftsmen. The Daughters of the American Revolution issued this collection to honor the many contributions made by American women to our war for independence. It consists of 13 bottles, symbolizing the 13 original states. Each bottle is individually hand-gathered and hand-molded by American glassmakers, and each bottle bears an original sculpture prepared by the mint's sculptors. The abundance of detail in the scenes on these bottles is seldom seen in the ornamentation of glass bottles.

The glass bottles are of an authentic shape used by glassmakers during the American colonial period—four different shapes in all. Further, each bottle is of a striking hue—ruby red, blue, amber, nut brown, evergreen and heather—similar to the colors favored by early American bottle-makers. On each bottle, raised in high relief, is a finely detailed original sculpture. The collection captures the strength and the spirit of the American woman. On its opposing side, each bottle bears a starburst of thirteen stars.

COLONIAL MONETARY NOTES

CAT. CODE: CMN — FILE NO.: 761

The early monetary notes of America were the first official paper money ever to be issued in the Western World. As a result of Britain's oppressive trade policies, coins were in short supply in the New World, yet the Colonies were forbidden to mint their own. They therefore resorted to the alternative of issuing paper money, which provided one of the earliest signs of the drive for independence almost 100 years later.

The Bicentennial Council of the 13 Original States acquired a rare collection of 13 early American monetary notes, with one from each of the 13 original Colonies. On behalf of the official state Bicentennial Commissions whose representatives comprise its membership, the Council appointed the mint to create a complete collection portraying these notes in etched sterling silver. These 13 notes are completely accurate and authentic. The sizes and shapes vary, so as to conform to the sizes and shapes of the notes themselves. The misprints and errors incorporated in the notes to deter counterfeiting are also clearly etched in the sterling silver.

A specially designed hardwood chest with a transparent cover was provided with each complete collection.

ENCHANTED FLOWERS PORCELAIN BELLS

CAT. CODE: EFB — FILE NO.: 1146

For centuries, collectors in many countries have cherished fine porcelain adorned with beautiful, delicate flowers. And, for centuries, bells have been among the most sought-after of all collector's items in fine porcelain. The internationally known artist Carol Lawson has been inspired by these traditions and has created this collection of 12 fine bone china bells.

The design of each bell is a unique original work of art by Carol Lawson, who has specialized in portraying the world of magic and fantasy. She has portrayed each floral bloom with its own pretty little flower fairy.

Each elegant bell has a slender curved handle. The china is translucently white, and the high glaze reflects the light from the curved body of each bell. The artist has incorporated her own monogram in each design, and the finishing touches are of 24KT gold, including the hand—painted gold rim around the mouth of each bell.

FLORAL FRAGRANCE BOTTLES

CAT. CODE: CFB — FILE NO.: 1034

When the secret of extracting the fragrant essence of the flower was first discovered, the perfume thus created was highly prized. And so too were the tiny bottles made to contain it. The individually crafted scent bottle has been a beautiful, desirable and valuable possession. Among the finest and most sought after of all scent bottles are those created in fine porcelain.

In this time-honored tradition, this collection of 12 parian porcelain fragrance bottles was issued. By its very nature, Parian porcelain can be modified in thickness and color to produce a wide variety of visual effects. It can be made to appear either completely opaque or highly translucent. The name Parian is derived from the ancient Greek island of Paros, where this translucent marble was quarried.

Each of the 12 bottles is of the classic oval shape, and is crafted of a combination of opaque and translucent Parian. Each is of a different hue. Raised from the colored opaque background on both sides of the bottle is a translucent bas-relief sculpture portraying one of the world's best-loved and most fragrant flowers. The flowers which have become the mainstays of the perfumer's art, and the basis for the most treasured fragrances.

Each of these floral sculptures is an original work of art created exclusively for this collection, and intricately detailed. Each sculpture both absorbs and reflects the background color of the bottle it adorns. The bottles each stand about 8 centimeters tall, and can be filled with 25 milliliters of perfume. The tiny stopper for each bottle is designed to fit perfectly. These bottles can be displayed, or actually used.

FRANKLIN MINT GOLD PIECE

CAT. CODE: FMG — FILE NO. 1179

In June 1979, The Franklin Mint Gold Piece was first minted. It is solid gold bullion, in the shape of a coin, that is being sold to the public at prices directly competitive with those of bullion coins from foreign countries like Russia and South Africa.

The Gold Piece is minted of 24KT .999 fine gold, making it almost 8 percent purer than the Krugerrand. It is being made available in 1, 2 ounce and 1/4 ounce sizes, as well as the 1 ounce standard. The weight and purity of every piece is a permanent part of its design — guaranteed, right on the face of it. The intrinsic value is determined by the latest market price for an ounce of gold in any local daily newspaper.

The coin is sculptured by the great American artist Gilroy Roberts and is minted entirely by American craftsmen. All 3 sizes bear Roberts' portrait of Benjamin Franklin on one side, along with the year and the guarantee of weight and purity. The other side features a new Gilroy Roberts sculpture of the American Eagle.

The non-proof edition is being sold to the American public, through a national network of banks and coin dealers. Proof sets were only made available to collectors. The advance opportunity to purchase these sets was offered to members of The Franklin Mint Gold Coin Club. This set contained one of each of the 3 sizes of the Gold Piece — all struck in Proof, with a frosted image set against a polished, mirror-bright background. In addition, each gold proof is serially numbered on its edge. All 3 sizes, with matching serial number, were sent as a matched set, in a custom-designed collector's display case. There was a limit of 2,500 proof sets.

100 GREATEST RECORDINGS OF ALL TIME

CAT. CODE: HGR — FILE NO.: 781, 1060

An international panel of renowned music authorities participated in the selection of these recordings. This panel considered countless recorded performances of the greatest works of classical music. They reviewed different recordings of great symphonies, concertos, sonatas, rhapsodies, ballet and vocal music, and the most outstanding recorded performance in each instance was recommended by the panel. This collection of 100 records was made possible through the cooperation of leading record companies both here and abroad. It was issued on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the phonograph.

Each historic performance of the past was improved by electronically removing imperfections in the earlier recordings. In addition, a superior vinyl material, containing its own anti-static element, was used in the production of these records. The records are pressed in a special 'clean room', and carefully inspected. These 'proof-quality' records offer greater clarity of sound, and are quieter, clearer and more durable.

Custom-designed library cases were provided to house all of the 100 records; each case holds 2-12" records. Each record is housed in a separate, dust-free compartment within its library case. And the record is supported in such a way that the grooved playing surface never touches any part of the case. Specially written and illustrated commentaries accompany each library case. These records were only made available through The Franklin Mint Record Society, and were not sold through stores or dealers.

ORMANDY ERA RECORDINGS

CAT. CODE: TOE — FILE NO.: 1229

For more than four decades, Eugene Ormandy has conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra, considered by many to be the finest symphony orchestra in the world. During those 44 years, he has earned the respect and admiration of millions. He chose to relinquish his role as Music Director at the end of the '79-'80 season. To pay tribute to him in his final season, The Philadelphia Orchestra Association issued this collection of recordings. It comprises the greatest recorded performances ever made by the Orchestra under Ormandy's direction. It sums up the brilliant career of this man in his interpretation of the masterpieces of the world's great composers.

The Association has selected the recordings, and these works include immortal classics, melodic pieces and more recent classics. Many of these recordings were made with the world's finest soloists. The collection also includes recordings which have never been publicly released before. Together, these performances form a veritable panorama of the entire Ormandy era.

Special library albums were custom-designed to house and protect these recordings. There are 6 albums of 5 records each, 30 records in all. Each library album included an informative commentary written especially for this series by a distinguished music critic. They discuss the works of music and their unique interpretation by Ormandy and the Orchestra.

Besides the 6 albums there is an additional album featuring a personal message from Maestro Ormando, hand-signed by him. This album also includes a complete biography of Ormandy. There is also the text of exclusive interviews with some of today's most celebrated personalities in the world of music discussing Ormandy and his music.

These proof-quality records are superior in tonal clarity, and are made of a special vinyl material which contains its own anti-static element. The records are pressed in a special "clean room", which is totally dust-free and atmosphere controlled. Most of the recordings are in full stereophonic sound; some of the earlier recordings are monaural. The limit of edition for this collection is 5,000. It was available only by subscription, and was not sold in any record stores

PINAFORE CENTENNIAL MUSIC BOX

CAT. CODE: PMB — FILE NO. 1012

England's Victorian era was a time of creative excitement, an age rich with artistic imagination. When The D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. introduced "H.M.S. Pinafore" by Gilbert and Sullivan, a standing room-only crowd cheered, and the new work was on its way to becoming a classic. To celebrate the 100th anniversary premier, The D'Oyly Carte Opera Co., London, commissioned the creation of this porcelain music box.

Music boxes originated more than 2,000 years ago, but it was in the 19th century, and in England particularly, that the craftsmanship in creating such boxes was most fully appreciated. The collecting of music boxes became a favorite preoccupation of the wealthy. At the same time, the porcelain known as Parian was winning a reputation among collectors throughout Britain. Parian was named because of its resemblance to the marble found on the Greek Island of Paros. It originated in Victorian England and was treasured for its translucence and beauty.

This music box is crafted of Parian porcelain, with the sculptured relief of ivory Parian, set against an aqua background, the color of the sea. The sculpture on the music box cover portrays the lovers Josephine and Ralph. The box bears a detailed and continuous frieze, showing Sir Joseph Porter together with his sisters and his cousins and his aunts, and the crew of the Pinafore all dancing.

The cover can be removed to reveal a protective glass top which allows one to view the precision Swiss movement, custom-designed in Sainte-Croix, Switzerland, by Reuge, S.A. the world's foremost creator of music box movements. The melody of "Little Buttercup" evokes the memory of this beloved Gilbert and Sullivan operetta.

TELESCOPE DEUTSCHES MUSEUM

CAT. CODE: DMT — FILE NO.: 1020

Throughout history, man has been fascinated by the heavens. To aid them in their quest, scientists sought an instrument that would illuminate space; they found it in the invention of the telescope. The Deutsches Museum, in Munich, Germany, the world's largest museum of science and technology, chose this classic telescope as the inspiration for a work that was issued to mark the Museum's 75th anniversary in 1978.

The first reflector telescope was built in England by Sir Isaac Newton, but it was a complex device. Nearly a century passed before a practical model of the reflector telescope was created, which was the inspiration for this issue. This scientific instrument was created in England especially for this historic anniversary. It is a careful blending of traditional scientific craftsmanship, and modern technological advances. It involves more than 100 separate stages, and 50 major inspections.

The 82mm-diameter barrel is a brass cylinder, fitted with a detachable eyepiece. Each barrel is hand-finished to provide a rich luster. The fulcrum on which the barrel rotates is crafted to precise tolerances. The column which supports the barrel is of fine rosewood, which has been individually burnished, and coated with a special wax. The calibrated stand employs three ornamental legs, gracefully curved, and balanced to assure stability.

This telescope incorporates the finest in modern optics, including an inner cylinder designed to reduce the reflective light and provide maximum clarity. The mirrors, though similar in style to 17th century telescope-makers, are more precise and durable. They are made of specially treated glass, carefully matched by hand, and hand-finished. They can magnify images up to 40 times with clarity and definition.

The emblem of The Deutsches Museum and the serial number of the telescope are hand-engraved on the end-cap of the barrel. The barrel itself is engraved with a classical design inspired by the Copernican planetary system. The edition is limited to 1500.

TOURNAMENT AT CAMELOT CHESS SET

CAT. CODE: TAC — FILE NO.: 763

In the more than thousand-year history of the game of chess, magnificent sculptured sets have been created for kings and emperors, nobility and wealthy patrons. Today, these chess sets are valuable collector's items, found in the great museums and private collections of the world. The Franklin Mint's first collector's chess set captures the legendary glory of King Arthur's court. This chess set is sculptured in extremely fine detail, crafted in fine pewter, and electroplated with .995 fine silver, and 24KT gold.

The theme of the set is a jousting tournament at Camelot; the time is the Middle Ages. The King is Arthur himself, holding the magic sword Excalibur. The Queen is Guinevere, holding the laurel crown, emblem of victory for the champion of the joust. The King's Bishop is Merlin, the learned sage who tutored Arthur. The Queen's Bishop is an Abbot, holding the pastoral staff that is the symbol of office and of service. The King's Knight is Sir Galahad, who achieved the quest of the Holy Grail. The Queen's Knight is Sir Lancelot whose love for the Queen brought down Arthur's kingdom. (Both knights are on horseback, in full jousting armor.) One of the Rooks (Castles) is sculptured in the shape of a jousting pavillion, the other in the shape of a fortress tower. The Pawns are Heralds, on their cloaks are emblazoned 3 crowns, the heraldic symbol of King Arthur.

Each of these sculptured figures is an original work of art created exclusively for this collection. Each chess set is accompanied by a specially designed combination collector's chest/playing board. The top surface is a chess board. The chest itself is of hand-finished walnut, with 2 velvet-lined, fitted drawers to house and protect the chess pieces. The pieces and the chess set have been sized and scaled so that the set can be used for play, as well as for display in the home.

WATCH

CAT. CODE: FMW — FILE NO.: 833

During almost 150 years, Jaeger-Le Coultre has prided itself on being among the foremost watchmakers of Switzerland, the nation whose watches are recognized throughout the world as representing the ultimate in precision and dependability. The firm's watchmaking experience was combined with the minting skill of the mint to create a watch unlike any other in history. It is a watch that is also a minted work of art. The face and back of the watch are fully minted medals in 18KT gold on sterling silver. The watch case is also 18KT gold on sterling. The face of the watch could be ordered with any of Gilroy Roberts' 12 birth-sign sculptures. Each of the sculptures combines the sign, symbol and work in harmonious interwoven design. The back of the watch bears the zodiac calendar, in Roberts' original design, featuring all 12 signs of the astrological year.

The core of each medal was hollowed out, allowing for placement of a thin (5.4mm) 17-jewel watch movement which was hand-assembled at Jaeger-Le Coultre's facilities in Le Sentier, Switzerland, entirely from components designed and produced by the firm itself. The movement is shock resistant, and the watch is provided with a sapphire face-crystal for the highest degree of protection. There is both a man's and a lady's style, with the diameter of the face measuring 32mm and 26mm respectively. The watch is fitted with a black, box calf leather strap.

WEDGWOOD CAMEO PRESIDENTS AND FIRST LADIES

CAT. CODE: PFC — FILE NO.: 1057

Wedgwood cameo portraits of famous people have been sought and treasured by collectors for more than two centuries. For the first time in history, Josiah Wedgwood & Son Limited, created this cameo collection of cameo portraits depicting all of America's Presidents, together with their First Ladies. No collection of this kind has ever been created before, by Wedgwood or by any other producer of fine porcelain.

These 38 cameo portraits are hand-crafted in the world-famous pale blue and white Jasper ware, which was developed by Josiah Wedgwood himself. Each cameo bears a double portrait, hand-applied to the pale blue Jasper background. These sculptured and detailed profile studies portray an American President and his First Lady. The use of double portraits throughout a cameo collection is exceedingly unusual.

All of the portraits are historically accurate and have been authenticated through the archives of the White House and the Library of Congress. Wedgwood announced that this would be the only collection of cameos honoring America's Presidents and First Ladies that it would ever create. A mahogany-framed wall display unit was provided to each subscriber.

WORLD CLOCK

CAT. CODE: — FILE NO.: 1125

The Royal Geographical Society in London was founded in 1830, and was granted a charter by Queen Victoria in 1859. The Society has promoted or supported explorations throughout the world. This World Clock issued by the Society is unlike any other that is available today. It is crafted of mahogany, 24KT gold and hand-worked brass. It incorporates as its major design element an impressive satin-finished globe. At a single glance, it indicates the time in every part of the world.

The design was originated by one of the leading horologists of our day, England's Richard Good. The 15 jewel movement was provided by the distinguished Swiss clockmakers Arthur Imhof S.A. of La Chaux-de—Fonds. The movement was specially developed in Switzerland to provide the unusual 24 hour cycle that the clock requires. The clock was actually constructed by the mint's craftsmen. Each clock is fully guaranteed against any defect or malfunction for one full year.

The satin-finished porcelain globe was created by Franklin Porcelain. On the surface of this globe is a map of the world in 24KT gold. The map shows both the continents and the boundaries of the time zones in which they are divided. Cradling the globe is circular clock case, created by the mint. It is of hand-worked solid brass, with a satin-brushed surface. The clock case, in turn, is surmounted by a revolving time band, upon which the 24 hours of the day are clearly shown in Roman numerals. Above the band is a scale marked in 5-minute units and etched upon the brass plate above the time band are lines that continue the markings of the scale.

The entire clock is supported by an elegant base of rich, solid mahogany, upon which is mounted a brass nameplate that is inscribed with the owner's name and the title, and date of issue.

A fond tribute to Norman Rockwell

Reprinted from February 1979 The Franklin Mint Almanac

FOR NINE YEARS, from 1945 to 1954, Norman Rockwell lived in a Vermont house that had two front doors. There were two doors because the house had once been occupied by two brothers who didn't speak to each other; they lived in separate halves of the building — two hostile camps under the same roof.

It is hard to imagine a more unlikely successor to those crotchety, unbending gents than the gracious and genial Norman Rockwell, for in his life and art, Rockwell seemed to embody the spirit of good-neighborliness.

It is widely known that in the vast majority of his works, Rockwell's models were his own neighbors — whether they were Vermonters or the townsfolk of Stockbridge, Mass., where Rockwell lived from 1954 until his death last fall. No doubt that fact had a great deal to do with the feeling of authenticity in his work: there was a real flesh-and-blood quality to the people he painted, because they were indeed real people. But more than that, they were people he liked and cared about — and people who liked and cared about him.

"He was a wonderful neighbor," one former Vermont neighbor has recalled, citing as evidence a time when Rockwell was about to have a coat of paint put on his house. Rockwell stopped the project when he realized that his next-door neighbor's house, which was already in greater need of paint, would look even shabbier after the Rockwell home was refurbished. Thus Rockwell waited until his neighbor could afford to paint, and then they both proceeded.

No wonder so many of us could identify with Rockwell's work: even though he knew success from a very early stage in his career, Rockwell never lost his ability to imagine himself in another person's situation. He knew, and was able to portray, those universal qualities that made his neighbors our neighbors as well.

In recent years, The Franklin Mint had the opportunity to establish a "neighborly" relationship with the remarkable Norman Rockwell. Beginning in 1970, when he created an original work of art for the 1970 Christmas Plate, Norman Rockwell and The Franklin Mint enjoyed a happy and fruitful relationship.

That beginning was recorded in the Almanac by Donald Walton, former Franklin Mint Director of Fine Arts and author of the recently published biography, A Rockwell Portrait.

"I'll never forget the first time I met Norman Rockwell," Walton recollected. "I had gone up to Stockbridge, Massachusetts, on a Sunday night and stayed at the historic Red Lion Inn, which is just across the street from his home and studio. It was the off-season in the Berkshires, in the early Spring of 1970, and I seemed to have the hotel pretty much to myself. I can remember sitting in the dining room on Monday morning, having breakfast and thinking about how to handle myself at my coming meeting with the famous artist. I kept glancing at my watch, to make sure I would get to his studio right on the dot. I had an appointment at 9 o'clock. This was to be a very important meeting for me and for The Franklin Mint. We had all agreed that Norman Rockwell would be the ideal person to design the mint's first annual Christmas Plate. And we were delighted when I was able to persuade him to let me come up to Stockbridge and outline our idea in person. I knew very well that he had not really agreed to do anything except to hear me out, but I also knew that a lot of people were counting on

For Rockwell, Franklin Mint issues provided a challenge and a change of pace. Below is the sterling silver Thanksgiving Plate.

"At a few minutes before 9, I walked across the street to the big white house where Norman Rockwell lived. It's a huge clapboard home that once belonged to a Vice President of the United States. There was no one around when I got there, so I walked on to the converted carriage house which serves as Rockwell's studio. At the side door, I yanked the cord, heard a bell jangle, and waited. The door opened and there he was — just as you'd picture him: silvery hair, craggy face, paint-stained khaki shirt, chino pants and sneakers.

"I introduced myself and Rockwell invited me inside. Then I got my first sample of what a kind and sensitive man he was. I was a stranger, and at that point I don't think he expected to work with me, but he sensed I was ill-at-ease so he did his best to make me feel relaxed and at home. Relighting his pipe — which he does about every ten minutes — Norman Rockwell began to show me around his studio."

The studio tour was fascinating, but as the morning passed, Walton began to wonder if they would ever get around to the business he had come to discuss. At last Rockwell raised the subject.

"I think I would like to do something for The Franklin Mint," Rockwell said, "but I doubt if I could help you at all. I've never sculptured an medals." "I told him we had something quite different in mind," Walton remembers. "I showed him some designs we had etched into silver and explained our thoughts about a solid silver Christmas Plate. That seemed to intrigue him. He sat down at his drawing board and began to sketch various subject ideas as we discussed them."

The eventual result, as many collectors are aware, was not just one, but a series of six sterling silver Christmas Plates. And that was just the beginning. There would be crystal plates, as well — The Norman Rockwell American Sweethearts Crystal Plate Collection. And medallic series, ingots, philatelic covers, and porcelain figurines. Not to mention The Collector, a painting created expressly for The Collector Society.

As a result of his close association with the artist, Walton was able to watch Rockwell at work. And work it was. Rockwell was usually in his studio by 8:00 a.m. every day of the week, including Sundays and holidays. And except for a midday break for a nap, lunch and some exercise, he was at his easel all day.

But of course he was doing what he most enjoyed, and he was frequently with his favorite people — local friends who came to pose for him.

"He has more friends than anyone else I have ever known," Donald Walton wrote in the January 1971 Almanac. "Everyone in Stockbridge is his friend. The people at the hotel, the fireman, the policeman, the owner of the grocery store, everyone he passes as he goes bicycling down the road. He puts them in his paintings because he knows them and likes them. And when he visualizes a new painting or an etching, he names the people who should be in the scene. 'George at the gas station would be just right for this character . . . His cousin Elsie should be in the scene, too. And Jimmie, who lives down the street, would be great for one of the kids.' You know that he can see them perfectly in his mind's eye . . . and he paints them perfectly, too."

The only works in crystal that Rockwell ever designed were six plates depicting moments of tenderness in the lives of American Sweethearts.

Rockwell's close ties with the subjects he painted took other forms, as well. He seemed to work best when he felt an affinity for the overall concept of a program. Fortunately, the projects he undertook for The Franklin Mint were close to his heart.

A good example is the series of sterling silver ingots, Rockwell's Favorite Moments from Mark Twain. "I grew up reading Mark Twain," Rockwell said at the time the ingots were issued. "I think I've read just about every book and short story Mark Twain ever wrote. In fact, I've read most of them two or three times. And even today, I still get a kick out of Mark Twain's way of saying things. I suppose you could say that this collection is my way of saying 'thanks' to Mark Twain for all the pleasure he's given me — and millions of other American."

On the same subject, Rockwell made an especially revealing statement: "I really believe those warm and human tales of his had a great effect on my own feelings for people — and on my art.

The same was true for Rockwells' Tribute to Robert Frost, a series of 12 sterling silver medals honoring the centennial of the great New England poet.

"Frost loved America as I do," Rockwell said, "and he made America come alive in his poems. It's my hope that these medals will capture, for all time, the strength and beauty of Frost's greatest work, in vividly clear images that portray the meaning of the poetry itself."

This was quite a challenge Rockwell gave himself — to create "vivdly clear images that portray the meaning of the poetry itself." But he obviously was inspired to tackle it, and, as fortunate owners of that medallic series can testify, he certainly succeeded.

Then, too, there are the Rockwell medallic series that honor scouting — a subject especially close to his heart. In 1913, while still a teen-ager, he created 100 illustrations for The Boy Scout Handbook. And not long after that, he became art editor of Boy's Life, the official magazine of the Boy Scouts. What's more, Rockwell created the very first Boy Scout calendar in 1923 and, almost every one since then.

"The ideals of the Boy Scouts," Rockwell said, "are among the most priceless assets of this country. And the concept of designing a series of medals portraying the Scout Law appealed to me strongly for two reasons — to help perpetuate these ideals, and to ensure that some of my work will endure for future generations."

For sheer fun, Rockwell perhaps most enjoyed working on the popular series of the bisqus porcelain figurines titled Norman Rockwell's Joys of Childhood. For all the maturity of his years, Rockwell never lost his sense of joy and playfulness; the goodhumored child in him could be summoned up at a moment's notice. Thus, is creating the series, he was once again in his element.

"I'm as New England as maple syrup," Rockwell told the Almanac. "But I wasn't born here, I adopted the place. I was raised in New York, you see, right in Manhattan, near Central Park. I was a city boy. And we had games that I think some kids now never even heard of. And we made our own fun.

"We also made the things we played with. No plastic toys. That's what I think was best about it. We made things with our own hands and our own imaginations. And they became real to us.

"There were the scooters we built. Nowadays, kids fly along on shiny factorymade skateboards. Who knows what they cost. But we didn't have any of that stuff. Golly, most of us wouldn't have had the money to buy a skateboard even if they had them around in those days.

"So we built 'em. Used an orange crate mounted on a length of two-by-four. Then we'd take a single skate. Not a pair of skates, just one. And we'd take it apart and put the front wheels on the front of the two-by-four and the others at the back.

"Nail a couple of short pieces of wood to the top of the crate for handles, and you were ready to go. There was like a middle shelf in the orange crate, and that's where you would carry your 'slappy' — you know, slingshot — and your baseball glove and maybe a peanut butter sandwich in a brown bag. Some fellows would nail an open tin can to the front of the orange crate and stick a candle in it for a headlight. But that never worked out — the wind kept blowing the candle out.

"And the racket they made as you'd race down the street! Rumble like a freight train. I'm really not so sure we weren't happier when we had less and had to 'make do.'"

Perhaps another factor that enhanced Norman Rockwell's association with The Franklin Mint was his appreciation of the deep satisfaction of collecting; a person with such a highly developed sense of beauty and significance could hardly avoid it!

Certainly Rockwell expressed his affinity for collecting in the memorable painting created for The Franklin Mint Collectors Society. The original painting of The Collector now hangs in the Society's Club Room, and prints of it can be found in the homes of the many Members who were fortunate enough to be enrolled in 1973, when it was presented to them as the annual gift. In The Collector, Rockwell really captured — as he did so often and so well — the essence of the subject: a father and son enjoying a special moment together, examining a Franklin Mint medallic issue. It is a remarkable painting, and one that must have given the artist considerable satisfaction. For one thing, the format is horizontal — unlike so many of his cover paintings that, of necessity, had to be vertical. And there was the enjoyment and challenge of assembling the interesting background, which is a composite of the bookcases that were in his studio, plus, at the extreme right, the hallway and stairs from his house. To portray the "father" and "son," he called on two Stockbridge friends, a retired admiral and a young man who worked at the Red Lion Inn across the street. And the model for the dog (a delightful element in the painting and a perfect example of Rockwell's genius for keeping the mood of his works light and buoyant), was the artist's own beagle, Pitter.

In style and manner of execution, The Collector is an example of Norman Rockwell at his best. And the best is what he consistently gave The Franklin Mint and its collectors, whatever he undertook. He was a friend who gave unsparingly of himself, for he knew no other way.

Perhaps Donald Walton best expressed the essence of Rockwell when he wrote in the August 1971 Almanac: "It seems to me that Rockwell will go down in history as one of the truly great painters of America and of this age. I think he can show more character in a face in one hour than most artists could achieve in ten afternoons. He loves the people and the scenes he paints — and he loves to paint. He captures not just the features and the color, but also the character that makes faces come alive on canvas.

"He is 77 now, but his hand is steady as a rock. I've seen him take a fine brush and put in detail so intricate that most people could never see it. That's not the important point to him. He sees it, and he wants to be sure it's exactly right. That's why he may labor over a painting, day after day, seven days a week for months — until it satisfies his artistic standards. That's why we can look at a Rockwell painting and say, 'I know those people, I know exactly the kind of place that is.' "

The spot silver price fixing which serves as the basis for evaluating the value of the silver content of numismatic items is set on a daily basis and published in the Wall Street Journal, and also in the financial pages of most daily newspapers throughout the country. This information may also be obtained from most stock and commodity brokerage offices.

The prices quoted for spot deliveries of silver are based on one ounce of .999 fine silver.

In this price guide supplement all prices are quoted in .999 fine equivalents. Thus, if a medal series contains 100 troy ounces of sterling silver (.925 fine), the price indicated is for 92½ troy ounces of .999 fine silver.
